France Uncertain.
Flying Progress.
If We Had Mussolini.
The Conqueror's Mother.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FRANCE COULD not make up her mind yesterday whether or not she would approve the international moratorium suggested by President Hoover.

Belgium was sure she did not want the moratorium. If she gave up the money that Germany must pay this year, it would cost her $22,000,000. That is "real money" in Belgium. Because of this and other things, Wall street was not quite so cheerful yesterday, although only too anxious to "respond" to anything.

AVIATION IN the United States progresses slowly because the government, which should lead, lags behind, waiting on private initiative, which must work with an eye to profits only.

However, there were recently no fewer than 13 Americans planning to fly across the Atlantic, including one girl, Ruth Nichols, determined to fly the Atlantic alone. This will be a flying country one of these days.

Gen. William Mitchell says:

"This country of ours is, above all, an air country. We can beat the world at it, if properly organized, and properly handled."

The proper handling and organizing will come.

WITH THIRTEEN aviators to fly the Atlantic, it is interesting to remember that just 25 years ago, Northcliffe offered $50,000 to anybody that would fly the narrow English Channel, and paid the money to a Frenchman, Bleriot. Thousands of children could fly it now.

DR. KIPFER, who went 10 miles up into the stratosphere with Prof. Piccard, says fighting in the future will be done 20 miles up in the air, far beyond the sight of those on earth, making anti-aircraft weapons useless.

He also suggests that a flight to the moon will soon be possible. Millions will laugh at this, as they would have laughed 25 years ago at the suggestion that men would some day fly the Atlantic and Pacific.

POWERFUL MAN is Mussolini. He decided in 1926 to wipe out the "Mafia," an organization of blackmailers, dreaded and obeyed in Sicily until Mussolini came. Proceedings in that case ended two days ago, when 124 members of the Mafia, placed in an iron cage in the court, were condemned, 15 imprisoned for life, 109 others to 1,200 years' imprisonment.

They were desperate men, cursed the jury and the judge, and one pulled off his boots and threw them through the bars of the cage at the jurymen. But Mussolini is able to deal with them.

More than 300 others of the Mafia had previously been sent to prison, many of them for life, and the "Mafia" is dead.

A Mussolini, if we had one, could soon settle our gangster problem.

AT FALAISE, in Normandy, where William the Conqueror was born, a bronze tablet is unveiled, showing scenes in the Norman conquest of England.

There should be something on that tablet about William's mother, Arletta, a Norman peasant girl, daughter of a tanner, of whom William was an illegitimate son by the Duke of Normandy called "Robert the Devil."

The world knows all about William, too little about Arletta, whom Robert the Devil subsequently married. She must have been an able young woman. Another of her sons, broad-shouldered, blond giant and a bishop, rode beside his half-brother William the Conqueror at the battle of Hastings and was killed there.

The world knows too little about mothers of great men. It is as though we admired pictures, never asking the names of the artists.

DR. ROBERT M. HUTCHINS, brilliant young president of Chicago University, says "more education" must supply the way out of our troubles. "Our own follies and incompetence" have produced present conditions, and "if education is supposed to train intelligence, we must concede that education has signally failed, so far."

THAT REMINDS you of Beecher, who replied, to one who said Christianity had failed:

"It hasn't been tried."

Perhaps REAL education has not been tried. We put children in schools and colleges, far away from real life, teach them that Columbus discovered America in 1492, when the Turks took Constantinople, and a few other things not important in later life.

We submit them to examinations, more brutalizing than constructive, for which they prepare with the joyful thought that they will forget the answer to every question as soon as possible.

Dr. Hutchins is trying to find a better way of educating, and a more satisfactory plan for examinations. If he succeeds, he will render great service.

JAPAN INTIMATES that it will let Lindbergh fly over Japanese territory, with permission to land. Eventually, for the air-ocean, there will be a 5 or 10 mile "limit" above the earth. Over that limit, the air will be free to everybody.

That an individual or nation can own the air 540 miles up to the top of the air-ocean is as preposterous as the other notion that a man can own the earth down to the center.

EXPERT SEES DIFFERENCE IN DIARY ENTRIES

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The letters supposedly written by Starr Faithfull to the fascinating ship's surgeon, Dr. G. Jameson Carr, with whom she was in love—in which the Greenwich Village playgirl told of her contemplated suicide—today were branded as forgeries by a handwriting expert.

This opinion was rendered by J. V. Haring, handwriting expert, despite the concensus of opinion among officials after reading the contents of the missives that the strange death of the neurotic beauty was self-wrought.

WRITINGS DIFFER

Haring said that the "so-called suicide note" on June 4 sent to Dr. Carr signed by Starr Faithfull was not written by the same hand which made the entries in the girl's memory book. He said:

"The note shows a uniformity and a nicety which is inconsistent with the state of mind of a person contemplating such a violent act as suicide."

District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards announced that on Friday the Nassau County grand jury would continue its probe of the case.

Edwards said that Dr. Carr was in no way involved in the girl's death and that he believed his relations were "strictly those of a physician and his patient."

The letters were read before the jury late yesterday.

LETTERS OUTLINE PLAN

Starr's intention to take her life, slowly, thoughtfully, with a connoisseur's sip of her last drink, a long-drawn puff of her last cigaret, is dramatically disclosed in a letter purported to have been written by her June 4. It read:

"It is all up with me now. This is something I am going to put through. The only thing that bothers me about it, the

Aimee Continues Contest on Taxes

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson was permitted today under an agreement between her attorneys and the government to continue her contest against paying an additional $17,486 of income taxes for 1927 and 1928.

The next step in the controversy will be conferences between Mrs. McPherson's attorneys and government representatives in an effort to reach a settlement.

Government Deficit Gains $3,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—The federal deficit again turned upward today after dropping over $100,000,000 since second quarter income tax started pouring in.

On the close of business June 22, the treasury reported a deficit of $867,646,731, an increase of nearly $3,000,000 over the preceding day.

Nose Slashed Off, Son-in-Law Held

TULSA, Okla., June 24.—(AP.)—Accused of cutting off the nose of his mother-in-law, Jack Van Zandt, of Redfork, was held today under bond of $2,500.

Grantham, Suhr and O'Doul hit home runs.

FIRST INNING

PITTSBURGH—Wright threw out L. Waner after a one-handed stop. P. Waner singled over second. Grantham singled to center, but when P. Waner overslid third he was out, Frederick to Gilbert; Grantham went to second on the play. Comorosky singled to left, scoring Grantham. Comorosky advanced on O'Doul's error. Traynor flied to Frederick. One run, three hits, one error.

BROOKLYN—Frederick tripled to left-center. Suhr grabbed Gilbert's grounder and touched first and almost caught Frederick off third. It was a wonderful stop. Herman singled in the infield, scoring Frederick. Bissonette fanned and Herman was doubled at second, Phillips to Thevenow. One run, two hits.

SECOND INNING

BROOKLYN — O'Doul fanned. Wright tripled to right. Finn singled to center, scoring Wright. Lombardi flied to L. Waner. Shaute flied to Comorosky. One run, two hits.

THIRD INNING

BROOKLYN—Frederick went out, Suhr to French. Grantham

FLIERS SPAN SEA, NEAR BERLIN

Post, Gatty Pause in London; Second Ocean Plane Wings Way East Toward Denmark

Associated Press.

One team of ocean fliers reached Europe today and another team started out from Newfoundland hoping to duplicate the feat.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who left Harbor Grace yesterday, landed at an airdrome near Chester, England, early this morning, and a short time later hopped off for Berlin on their round-the-world flight. They landed at Hanover, Germany, to refuel this afternoon, continuing to Berlin.

Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis took off from Harbor Grace at 4:24 a. m. Pittsburgh time this morning on a nonstop flight to Copenhagen.

WHOLE LIST JOINS IN RALLY

London, Paris and Berlin Markets Advance; Boost In Copper Price Aids

NEW YORK, June 24.—United States Steel common crossed 100 today in a resumption of the sweeping advance which got under way Saturday with the announcement of the proposed war debt moratorium.

All markets participated in today's rise. London, Paris and Berlin reported strong bull markets in progress.

Prices leaped forward at the opening, stimulated by the impressive absorption of realizing sales yesterday. Further bullish ammunition was furnished by an additional rise in the price of copper metal and an advance in cigaret prices. Tobacco stocks skyrocketed sensationally at the opening. Coppers and oils joined in the rise, while Steel common held its place as the market's spearhead, getting strong support from other pivotal industrials and leading rails.

WESTINGHOUSE RALLY

Westinghouse Electric staged a big rise when directors declared the regular dividend. The street was confidently expecting a reduction in the rate, and some interests anticipated a complete omission of the payment.

Pennsylvania Railroad reduced its dividend from a $4 to a $3 annual basis, but the stock had discounted the action and remained strong. At today's level the issue still returns about 6 per cent on the investment.

Radio Corporation of America was victorious in the contest over licenses, the news spurring the stock forward in one of the most spectacular movements of the current recovery.

BEER RUMOR

The international situation was brightened by reports that France had tentatively accepted President Hoover's debt proposal. Gossip in the street also had the President seriously considering an announcement in favor of beers and wines, a step that many in the financial district believe would go a long way toward relief of unemployment and the serious problems of the grain farmers.

For details of trading on all markets see financial pages.

Pennington Rotates Enforcement Agents

CAMDEN, N. J., June 24.—(INS.)—A rotating system for the prohibition agents assigned to this city was announced today by Prohibition Commissioner John D. Pennington. He explained:

"I don't want them to become friendly with the beer barons, racketeers and politicians."

Franco's Campaign Banned in Spain

STORES TO DROP HALF-HOLIDAY

Six of Pittsburgh's largest department stores will remain open Saturday afternoons during the summer, it was disclosed today.

Kaufmann's will be open Saturdays until 5 p. m., according to General Manager H. E. Lovett. Last year they closed at 1 p. m. Saturdays.

Gimbels, open until 5 o'clock every day from Fourth of July until Labor Day, last year, has not decided its course for this year, according to information from Supt. R. W. Rawling's office. The regular closing time is 5:30.

Frank & Seder will remain open until 5 p. m. Saturdays, but employes will be given a half

Mabel Normand's Home Auctioned

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 24.—(AP.)—An auctioneer is hawking to the highest bidders today the material possessions of the late Mabel Normand, harum-scarum figure of the old silent screen. The old-fashioned house brought a high bid of $20,000 yesterday, but several persons expressed a willingness to bid higher today, so the sale was not concluded.

Cloudburst Causes Damage at Cleo

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 24.—A cloudburst at Cleo, two miles north of here, last night, washed out bridges, cut up roads, wrecked buildings and demolished gardens.

Portion of the foundation of the store of Joe Vilella was washed away, and his stock in the basement damaged. Part of the roadbed of the Indiana branch of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad was washed out.

U. S. Repulses France on Debt Truce Changes

PARIS, June 24.—(AP.)—The United States government has informed France that the conditions which France is understood to have attached to her acceptance of the Hoover moratorium proposal probably would not be regarded with favor in Washington, it was learned today.

The French reply was formally handed to Ambassador Edge this afternoon by Premier Laval for transmission to Washington.

U. S. PLAN OPPOSED

Usually well-informed quarters this afternoon stated that the French reply agrees with President Hoover that something must be done to aid Germany and thus Europe, but disagrees with the

PICKETS JEER UNION MINERS

More than 1,000 miners returning to work today in the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation mines under terms of the agreement signed yesterday with the United Mine Workers of America were jeered, but no serious disorder resulted, reports from the mines said.

James Brookes, general superintendent of the Pittsburgh Terminal mines, reported approximately 50 per cent of miners had returned to work in all the company's mines. P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, placed the total number of miners employed in the Terminal mines at 2,400.

Coroner W. J. McGregor conferred for an hour with three deputy sheriffs who participated in the fatal riot at Wildwood Monday morning. McGregor said he received very satisfactory statements from the officers and they coincided with statements of eye-witnesses.

Thrill of Trip Restores Speech to Woman Here

Excitement of coming here to attend the seventeenth annual convention, Women's Welsh Clubs of America, is believed to have caused Mrs. Bert C. Bishop, of Lakewood, Cleveland, suddenly to regain her speech, lost for four months.

Mrs. Bishop joined with the others in singing "The Star Spangled Banner" at the opening of the convention in the William Penn Hotel this morning.

Mrs. Bishop came here Monday night unable to utter a word, she said today. When she awoke in her hotel room yesterday she had completely recovered the use of her voice. She said:

"Four months ago I lost my voice. Physicians seemed puzzled as to the cause, but were of the opinion I would regain it eventually. I took treatments, but they brought no relief. Yesterday morning, to my surprise and delight, I could speak with ease to the women accompanying me."

Mrs. Bishop said she had had a similar experience once before.

Theodore Dreiser Here; Studies Mine Strike

Theodore Dreiser, noted author and sociologist, arrived in Pittsburgh today to study at first hand conditions of coal miners and their families in the Western Pennsylvania bituminous strike-torn regions.

Declaring his intention of writing a book on business and industrial economics, Mr. Dreiser said he had decided to come to Pittsburgh to get an unbiased perspective of conditions in the coal industry. He plans to talk with miners active in the strike at a meeting in the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT BELIEVED NEAR IN BUYING QUIZ

PARTIAL FINDING MAY BE MADE TO COURT

Rumor Follows Two-Hour Talk With Prosecutors: Council Clerk Testifies

Believed to be making preparations for a partial presentment, the grand jury, investigating city purchases, today conferred for more than two hours with Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed and District Attorney Andrew T. Park. The jury heard two witnesses before beginning the conference. Park left the jury room shortly before noon, saying:

"The grand jury is not ready for a presentment."

The two witnesses heard were Robert Clark, clerk of City Council, who brought Council's correspondence with him and copies of ordinances approving certain city contracts, and Miss Bertha Bennett, assistant secretary and treasurer of the L. H. Parke Co., whose sales of canned foods to the city without bids brought about the investigation.

It was revealed this morning the grand jury yesterday awaited Joseph McArdle, son of former Councilman P. J. McArdle. McArdle had not been subpenaed but was expected to go over some matters with the jurors.

Several "mystery" witness were expected to appear before the Grand Jury today.

The personnel of the grand jury was reduced to 20 when J. D. Lyon, of 5519 Stanton avenue, who was excused yesterday on account of illness, was unable to be present today. Three other jurors had been previously excused.

$10,000 Slander Suit Filed in City Probe

A slander suit, growing out of the City Council probe of the City Department of Public Works, was filed in Common Pleas Court against Joseph Kissane, Jr., vice president of the M. O'Herron Company, contractor, by Melvin L. Hartz.

Hartz asked $10,000 damages for injury to his reputation. He charged that while he was giving testimony before Council April 16, Kissane called out in a loud voice, "You are a liar," meaning that Hartz was swearing falsely, according to the suit.

Probers' Shorthand Bill Totals $524

Echoes of the recent investigation of the City Department of Public Works were heard at a county commissioners' meeting yesterday when Harry Bastow, shorthand reporter, presented a bill for $524.25. He had furnished District Attorney Andrew T. Park with 2,097 pages of the testimony at 25 cents a page. Payment was approved.

Despondent Woman Drowns Self in Pool

Detectives Seize Moonshine in Raid

County detectives today raided the home of Alma Brown, 28, a Negro, at 191 Thirty-fourth street and reported confiscating a quantity of moonshine whisky. The raid was made upon orders from District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

WILKINS PLANS TO RUSH POLE EXPEDITION

Nautilus Leader, Crew Feted in Ireland: May Go to Sub Base Saturday

Universal Service.

CORK, June 24.—Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, whose polar submarine, Nautilus, hobbled into port here Monday morning for repairs, has announced:

"We hope to reach Plymouth not later than Saturday."

Sir Hubert sent a wire to the British admiralty expressing his appreciation of the offer of the Devonport submarine base for the more important repairs to the Nautilus which cannot be accomplished here. Minor repairs and the recharging of the batteries will be done here.

A luncheon in honor of Sir Hubert and his crew was given by the Lord Mayor of Cork at which the commander of the Nautilus made an address in which he said:

"We know that in the Arctic regions, more than any other place in the world, time is an element of which we must be most careful if we hope to justify the faith of those who have made our expedition possible. We realize that speed must be made if we are going to succeed.

"With no meaning derogatory to others who have gone on expeditions to the North Pole, I think our expedition is unique inasmuch as we have been the first outfit able to carry adequate scientific equipment for thorough investigation.

"We have the highest hope of winning through to the pole and being able to supply the world with scientific data regarding the pole which has hitherto been unattainable."

week day off, M. H. Weisburn, manager, said.

According to Arthur C. Kaufmann, McCreery's store, which closed other years at 1 p. m. on Saturdays, may remain open this year until 5 p. m. Mr. Kaufmann said:

"If we should remain open it would be in order to provide more employment for our people."

The Rosenbaum Company will probably continue its policy of keeping open Saturday afternoons, according to David M. Carnahan, advertising manager, and J. J. McGowan, publicity director.

According to L. H. Smith, assistant advertising manager of the Joseph Horne Company, this store will be closed at 1 p. m. on Saturdays during seven or eight weeks this summer. The same is true of Boggs & Buhl, according to Assistant Advertising Manager O'Brien.

Meyer Jonasson & Co. will reach a decision next Saturday, it was said.

Miss F. Darr, advertising manager of Oppenheim, Collins & Co., says a decision will be reached about July 1. Last year this store was closed all day Saturday, she said.

Mansmann's store, in East Liberty, will continue to remain open until 9:45 p. m. Saturdays and 5 p. m. week days, as has been the policy in the past, according to James Mansmann, store superintendent.

Buy Postal Site At New Kensington

The federal government today completed the purchase of a new postoffice site in New Kensington. Assistant United States Attorney William J. Aiken, representing the Treasury Department, paid $30,000 to the Economy Fuel Company and $77,000 to George M. Evans for the site at Fifth avenue and Eleventh street. It is 220x140 feet.

Railroad Agent Tells of Bledsoe Buying Insurance For Man Killed by Train

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 24.—Commonwealth testimony in the case of R. C. Bledsoe, charged with the murder of Elmer Younkin, is expected to end today and the case may go to the jury late Friday.

James T. Butler, railroad agent at Connellsville, today detailed the issuance of a $5,000 life insurance policy to Younkin, with Bledsoe named beneficiary. The policy, issued November 7, 1928, was good for 10 days. Bledsoe was with Younkin at the time, Butler testified, adding that Bledsoe had inquired earlier concerning the time certain trains left Connellsville for Uniontown.

A statement dated December 3, 1928, which Butler had made regarding the circumstances of the insurance policy was identified. Butler said he had made it at the request of Bledsoe.

Members of the crew and passengers on the train that struck and killed Younkin testified yesterday.

Frank Younkin, brother of the victim, testified that when all debts were paid the heirs received $1,666.67. He added that two of his brothers were in the county home at Somerset and that his two sisters were employed at Markleton.

FLIERS REACH ENGLAND

After covering the 2,400 miles from Harbor Grace in 16 hours and 33 minute at the amazing speed of 150 miles an hour, Post and Gatty landed their powerful plane at the airport at 8 a. m. New York-Pittsburgh time.

LANDING NOT UNEXPECTED

At 9:15 a. m. the airmen took their plane aloft again, determined to reach the German capital in as close as possible to the 20 hours they had allotted themselves for the journey.

Although a surprise, the landing in England was not entirely unexpected, as Post and Gatty indicated before their departure they would be guided largely by wind and weather conditions after crossing the ocean.

RAIN, MIST CAUSE ALARM

Only one report was received from the Winnie Mae during its ocean hop. That was at 7:45 o'clock last night when the steamship Drottingholm reported picking up its radio signals.

When 8 a. m., the plane's scheduled arrival time, drew near, and no further word had been received, considerable alarm was manifest in British flying circles. A heavy mist and rain had replaced the fine weather of the night and it was feared for a time that the fliers had lost their bearings.

Hillig and Hoiriis Start 3,150-Mile Flight

Their monoplane, The Liberty, roared down the flying field runway at 4:24 a. m., Pittsburgh time, swept gracefully into the air on the heaving shoulders of a brisk west wind, and headed into the rising sun.

Before starting their flight, Hillig described the daring voyage as that of "a couple of immigrants returning home." He came to America from Germany 40 years ago, while Hoiriis left Denmark in 1924.

They had 3,150 miles to travel before reaching Copenhagen and they expected to make the hop in 28 hours. Their monoplane carried 605 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil, sufficient fuel for 36 to 40 flying hours.

A gallon of water, a dozen oranges, coffee and bread—"plenty to last us till we get there"—comprised their provisions.

U. S. REPULSES TRUCE CHANGES

The reply, it is understood, makes an effort to maintain the integrity of the Young plan and the unconditional reparations payments which Frence considers inviolable.

The method suggested in order to arrive at this end is that Germany pay her unconditional payments to the Bank for International Settlements at Basel which would turn back part of them in the form of short term loans to Germany and for the other creditors of Germany guaranteed under the Young plan.

Washington Disappointed Over France's Stand

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—France's decision to accept President Hoover's moratorium proposal only by imposing conditions which severely limit the scope of the plan deeply disappointed Washington today.

The practical effect of the French condition, it was pointed out here, would be to make President Hoover's plan, as applied to Germany, only about 75 per cent effective, whereas his proposal was a 100 per cent suspension of all war-time obligations.

The attitude of this government in the matter thus becomes a matter of deepest concern.

Both President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson have indicated that the American government did not wish to "bargain" or "trade" in the matter. But if the French reply bears out all the advance notices from Paris, they will be confronted with doing just that—bargaining. The only alternative would be to abandon the whole thing, which is almost inconceivable, for after the world's hopes had been raised so high an abandonment would be calculated to have a devastating effect throughout Europe. It might plunge Germany into the very chaos from which President Hoover sought to save her by his original proposal.

P.R.R. OFFICERS' SALARIES CUT

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad today approved a reduction of 10 per cent in salaries of all executives and general managerial officers of the company.

The action was taken following a cut in the annual dividend rate on the common stock from $4 to $3.

It was stated that the active capital expenditure program of electrification and terminal improvement work between New York and Washington will continue, the funds for which have been provided for 1931.

Erie Real Estate Man Held for Arson

ERIE, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Louis L. Kaufman, 40, Erie real estate and insurance man, was arrested last night by Corp. Joseph Schmidt, of the state police, and charged with arson in connection with two fires in Erie County. He posted $10,000 bail for a hearing on Friday night.

Frank Giradot, 40, former insurance adjuster, was arrested on Monday afternoon on a similar charge and will be given a hearing tonight.

only thing I dread, is being outwitted and prevented from doing this—which is the only possible thing for me to do.

"When one wants to get away with murder, one has to jolly well keep one's wits about one. It is the same way with suicide. If I don't watch out I will wake up in a psycopathic ward, but I intend to watch out and accomplish my end this time. No ether, veronal or window-jumping. I don't want to be maimed.

"I want oblivion. If there is any after life it would be a dirty trick.

"I love to eat and can have one delicious meal with no worry over gaining. I adore music and I am going to hear some good music.

WANTS SLOW DEATH

"I am going to drink so slowly, keeping aware of every second. Also I am going to enjoy my last cigaret.

"I wish I got more pleasure out of men's companionship. I'm afraid I've always left something to be desired as a comrade for a man. It's the preliminaries in courtship that count with me.

"I have tried to pose as clever and intellectual, thereby to attract you, but it was not successful. I don't have to worry because there are no words in which to describe this feeling for you.

"The words love, adore, worship have become meaningless—there is nothing I can do but what I am going to do."

BUSINESS HEAD OF METHODIST PAPER DIES

The Rev. Daniel Westfall, Of Christian Advocate, Active in Church Affairs

The Rev. Daniel Westfall, 61, for 21 years business manager of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate, the official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church Conference of Northeast Ohio, Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, died last Monday night in Columbia Hospital. He resided at 36 Ewing road, Crafton.

Dr. Westfall

Born in Buckhannon, W. Va., Mr. Westfall received his elementary education in Buckhannon schools and later obtained his ministerial education at West Virginia Wesleyan College. He was ordained by the West Virginia Methodist Episcopal Conference in 1898.

His first pastorate was at Newlon, W. Va. In 1910 during his pastorate of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Sistersville, W. Va., he was appointed district superintendent of the Huntington, (W. Va.) district. That same year he was selected business manager of the Advocate.

Mr. Westfall was four times representative of the West Virginia Conference at the General Conference of the church.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Hope Thatcher Westfall; three sons, Charles Westfall, of New Castle; Fowler Westfall, of St. Albans, W. Va., and Carroll, at home, and three daughters, Mrs. Evangeline Harshman and Mrs. Winifred Foster, both of Crafton; Mrs. Edward Wagner, of Alliquippa, and Miss Marjorie, at home.

R. C. A. LICENSES UPHELD

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(INS.)—Licenses of subsidiaries of the Radio Corporation of America, jeopardized by a recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court holding that company in violation of the Clayton Act, will be renewed on their expiration, the Federal Radio Commission ruled today.

The Commission held that violation of the anti-trust laws by the parent company did not force the forfeiture of broadcasting, communications and experimental licenses by the subsidiary companies.

Unless interveners in the case have the Federal courts review the commission's action, the matter is closed and the various R. C. A. subsidiaries may continue operation without interference.

TAXIS TO BE RUN TO MIDNIGHT

Beyond the operation of taxicab service until midnight, the Parmelee Transportation Company, operators of Green and Yellow cabs, whose drivers are on strike, planned no further extension of service today, officials said. Approximately 148 cabs were to be operated in the downtown, North Side, East End and South Hills districts, it was announced.

Reports of peace negotiations between New York officials of the Parmelee interests with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, with which the local cab drivers' union is affiliated, were reported denied by E. H. Miller, Parmelee Company president, in New York last night.

Picnickers facing Quiz in Poisoning

GREENFIELD, Ind., June 24.—(AP.)—Hopeful that the day of funeral services for Virginia Simmons, 14, and her sister, Jean, 10, might release some important clue as to who placed poison in sandwiches the girls ate at a family reunion Sunday, authorities said they would question today all other persons who attended the outing.

Two days of investigation have failed to explain presence of poison capsules in the chicken sandwiches, which were prepared by Mrs. John W. Simmons, mother of the girls.

RENO AWAITING VANDERBILT'S ANSWER

Has 10 Days to File Reply To Wife's Charges of Cruelty; Keeps Silent

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service.

RENO, Nev., June 24.—Reno today awaited an answer from Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., to the charges of cruelty contained in the cross-complaint filed in reply to his divorce suit by Mrs. Mary Weir Logan Vanderbilt.

Declining to comment on his wife's charges that her life had been "rendered miserable and unbearable, her peace of mind disturbed and her health impaired" by his alleged cruelty, Vanderbilt said:

"I have nothing to say. You will have to see my attorney."

ADMITS SERVICE

Samuel Platt, attorney for the scion of the multi-millionaire Vanderbilt family, admitted service of the cross complaint. Vanderbilt has 10 days in which to file an answer.

Attorney William Woodburn, representing Mrs. Vanderbilt, revealed that she had decided to go ahead with her fight for a divorce after a conference in his office. He said:

"I honestly do not know whether or not the other side wants to fight."

LEAVES FOR LAKE TAHOE

Immediately after filing her complaint, Mrs. Vanderbilt left for Lake Tahoe with Mrs. True Vencill, at whose home she has been staying since the alleged "unloaded gun" episode a week ago Monday night when Vanderbilt, through his attorney, asserted that he had followed Peter Arno, New York satirical artist, down the street with a gun which he later found to be unloaded.

Mrs. Vanderbilt made no reference to this occasion nor to a house party at the Vanderbilt home a week ago last Thursday, from which time, she said in a recent statement, their marital troubles dated.

Mrs. Vanderbilt and Arno both have indignantly denied that a kissing episode took place at the party.

Mrs. Vanderbilt asked for costs of action and alimony in whatever sum the court might see fit to grant, asserting that she had about $50 and an automobile, while her husband has an income of $2,000 a month.

RESCUES SON IN FLOODED HOME

Robert Allebach, 32, of 221 Beaver road, Edgeworth, who was saved by his father, William Allebach, 58, from drowning and probable electrocution yesterday when he was pulled away from a charged washing machine in the flooded cellar of his home, was reported out of danger, according to members of the family today.

After half an hour of artificial respiration, the son was revived.

Weather Conditions.

The pressure units are more sharply defined this morning than on the last several days. High pressure is centered over Eastern Ontario and extends southward over the Ohio Valley states to the Gulf, and a low is centered over Western Minnesota, lowest barometer, 29.60 inches, at Moorhead, and extends northward over the Canadian Northwest and southwestward to a center in the Far Southwest. It is producing light thundershowers in the Dakotas and northward over Canada. Showers were general during yesterday and last night over the states east of the Mississippi. There was a change to cooler over the eastern states, while over the plains states high temperatures were recorded yesterday afternoon, and the weather remained warm during last night.

River Conditions.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 24.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The immediate effect of the proposal of the President for the relief of Germany appears to be good. When analyzed, the plan means that German creditors are to relieve her from paying about $425,000,000 during the coming year. Of this amount our taxpayers are to furnish directly and indirectly about $245,000,000 and those of France about $100,000,000. Great Britain and the other nations are affected very little. Nearly all they furnish Germany some other countries will furnish them.

Mr. Coolidge

Looked at in another way, the proposal extinguishes no debts but gives a year of extended time for their payment. This is in complete accord with our principle of granting sufficient time to debtor nations. We have done that in each case besides making large loans to all Europe and accounting for all private alien property to Germany.

The greatest need of Europe is good will. If the proposal increases that the result will be well worth all that it costs. If by the refusal of some nation to concur or otherwise ill will is produced the result will be negative. In any event we have offered to do our part.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

PARENTS WATCH GIRL FLIER DIE

AKRON, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Ambition to qualify for a license as a transport pilot ended fatally last night for Miss Mildred Stinaff, 19, of Akron, former holder of the women's world record for loop flying.

Her transport training plane, which she was flying over the Akron Municipal Airport, fell to the ground within sight of scores of spectators, including her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stinaff. She died in City Hospital.

Her father said she had taken off only a few minutes before the accident and had made a loop or two at a safe height to test the plane. It straightened out and was flying at an even keel when something happened that sent it into a spin. She apparently had no time to take to her parachute.

The aviatrix was out to regain the inside loop title she lost last summer to Mildred Kauffman, of Kansas City, who made 46. Miss Stinaff had made 42.

Unlicensed Doctor Gets Year in Death

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—(AP.)—Convicted of having caused the death of a patient by accidentally puncturing a bone at the front of the brain, Harry Kaplan, an unlicensed medical practitioner, today began a year sentence in Philadelphia County Prison.

Kaplan, who was convicted on April 8, has been denied a new trial. The patient was Benjamin Cleff, 38, father of three children.

BURKE DIVORCE SUIT OPENS

James Francis Burke's daughter, Mrs. Frances Burke Rodgers, 33, today testified that Donald S. Rodgers, 33, from whom she is seeking a divorce, "had not supported me or his children," at a hearing before Judge Samuel H. Gardner. The suit is not contested.

Mrs. Rodgers is living with her parents at 820 Devonshire road, and Rodgers, an investment broker, is staying at Haddon Hall, Center avenue. They were married November 10, 1921, and separated April 1, 1929. They have two children, Donald, Jr., and Thomas.

She testified today:

"We had a great many arguments. I did not like the way he treated me publicly. I did not like the things he was doing. I remonstrated with him, and he said if I didn't like him he would leave."

Store Accounts Reach Millions

American stores are money lenders of more than $28,000,000,000 a year. Only 43 per cent of retail credit accounts are collected when due, the rest remain unpaid on an average of 70 days. The National Retail Credit Association suggests a nationwide credit campaign through advertising to awaken the public to the need of more prompt payment of bills. Which, certainly, is a manifestation of faith in printer's ink.

PICNIC CROWD TRAPPED WHEN BRAKES FAIL

Women, Children in Panic As Car Rams Into Terrace; Skull of Baby Fractured

Two investigations, one by the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the other by the police department, were under way today into the crash of a street car, a "picnic special," at Webster and Herron avenues last night, which caused serious injury to two persons and minor injuries to 32 others.

Kenneth Jackson, 7 months, 83 Reed street, and the motorman of the trolley, John Harmuth, 62, of 3842 Baytree street, were seriously injured in the crash. The infant suffered a fracture of the skull and was detained at the Passavant Hospital, while the motorman suffered internal injuries. He insisted upon going to his home, however, and was taken there in a police car.

The other injured included:

RUSSELL BRADY, Negro, 9, 79 Reed street.

BILLY BANDY, 10, same address.

CECELIA BANDY, 5, same address.

LUCILLE BANDY, 12, same address.

MRS. LYDIA JACKSON, Negro, 37, 83 Reed street.

VIRGINIA DUNLAP, Negro, 9, 1844 Rose street.

MONONGAHELA DUNLAP, 11, Negro, same address.

VIRGINIA WOODSON, 10, Negro, 1806 Clifford street.

MRS. CARRIE DEAN, 32, Negro, Reed street.

JOSEPH CHODOCK, 18, 232 Dinwiddie street.

ISRAEL CHODOCK, 19, same address.

PHILIP CHODOCK, 12, same address.

HYMIE CHODOCK, 14, same address.

SAMUEL REITTER, 11, 44 Miller street.

MRS. ELIZABETH MANKO, Negro, 55, 1842 Rose street.

ALVERNON WOODSON, Negro, 28, 8 Manilla way.

WILLARD DEAN, Negro, 22, 103 Roberts street.

MRS. SARAH VOGEL, 45, 6 Miller street.

JOSEPH AMEDURE, 11, 75 Reed street.

Motorman Harmuth said the accident occurred when he tried to apply the air brakes at the corner. The brakes failed to work, he told police, and the trolley left the tracks and crashed into the terrace of the home of Glenn Edwards, 3300 Webster avenue.

The car did not overturn, but it came to a stop at a sharp angle and a panic resulted. Women, men and children, returning from a Hill district school picnic at West View Park, injured about the body by cuts and bruises, tried to get out of the wrecked street car by doors and windows.

When the trolley crashed into the terrace, Charles Martin, 35, of 2945 Webster avenue, who witnessed the accident, broke open the doors of the car and helped the injured to the street. Albert Fogel, 8, of 6 Miller street, with several other boys, leaped to the street, but were not hurt.

The conductor of the car, John Wachter, of 2808 Charles street, who escaped injury, said that the first intimation he had of danger, came when he saw the motorman fractically pulling at the brakes. When the crash came, he said he was hurled to the rear of the car.

Trapped in Ravine, Sees Daughter Die

NEWHALL, Cal., June 24.—(AP.)—Trapped in an isolated ravine 48 hours as a result of a motor car accident, Mrs. Theodore Tourneur, 29, of Birmingham, Ala., watched her 12-year-old daughter die in her arms of injuries and exposure yesterday a short time before a passing motorist heard her cries from the bottom of the 200-foot cut and rescued her.

Those arrested gave their names as Louis Wintell, 30; Stanley Latin, 28; John Welukas, 30; Annd Smovich, 20, and Mary Aczinsky, 26, all of Castle Shannon. They were arrested by Chief of Police Edward Viler, of Castle Shannon, and committed to jail in default of $500 bail each on charges of disorderly conduct, inciting to riot and misdemeanor.

Heavy picketing of other mines throughout the district was reported, especially in the Allegheny Valley section, where crowds gathered at Harmarville, Acmetonia and Russellton. No disorder was reported in this section.

State Police Guard Mines in Fayette

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 24.—Fearing a repetition of yesterday's fatal clash between striking miners and mine guards at Arnold City, when one man was killed and six injured, 14 additional state police were brought to Fayette county today. The men were brought here at the request of Sheriff Tom Aubrey, who said Capt. Carlson had promised all the police necessary to preserve order.

Six of the men have been stationed at Belle Vernon; two at Uniontown and six will be stationed at Brownsville as soon as accommodations can be arranged for their horses. For some time seven state police have been stationed at Uniontown.

Sheriff Aubrey said the interrogation of witnesses to the Arnold City shooting yesterday was being continued today and by nightfall he expects to have obtained statements from 100 persons.

Little hope for the recovery of two more victims of the coal police bullets was held at the Charleroi Hospital today. Bennie Brown, 51, and James R. Davis, 41, both of Arnold City, were reported in critical condition. Mike Pilipovich, Arnold City storekeeper, was killed.

The officers held in the Fayette County Jail are J. W. Fisher, 46; Donald Royston, 23; Edward Hunt, 30; J. D. Buttermore, 27; J. B. Yoder, 29; J. B. Sisler, 40; Leroy Ingram, 26, and C. D. Claybaugh, 50.

District Attorney Adams said of his investigation:

"The Arnold City riot will be investigated to the full power of my office. The guilty parties will be brought to justice and we are going to find out who are guilty of this bloodshed."

STRIKERS RIOT AT OHIO MINES

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 24.—Disturbances in the mine field here this morning sent deputy sheriffs scurrying over a wide front and resulted in 12 arrests.

From his jail cell, Leo Thompson, of Pittsburgh, imprisoned leader of the National Miners Union, called to a crowd outside the jail to keep up the work and that he would soon be released, but Sheriff Duff said he would jail Thompson again if he attempted to incite mass picketing.

Joe Carr, active in the textile strike in Georgia two years ago, was arrested this morning for passing alleged radical literature. Three women were included in the arrests today. Officials blamed the outbreak this morning on women, who, they allege, struck at miners going to work.

Stricter Tests for Connecticut Drivers

HARTFORD, Conn. — (INS.)—New applicants for Connecticut driving licenses will be put through stricter examinations, according to Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles. Besides showing he knows how to operate a car the applicant will be tested for eye sight and possible physical defects that might work ill in an emergency on the road. Experts at Yale are working with the motor vehicle department on the new tests for drivers.

Canoeist Drowned In Steamboat Waves

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 24.—(AP.)—Thomas F. Kirk, Jr., 20, drowned in the Kanawha River here last night when his canoe overturned while he was padding through the waves back of a steamboat.

Heffernan Lauds Virginia Jail Fugitive

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Mayor Joseph L. Heffernan has sent a telegram to Frank Bane, Virginia commissioner of public welfare, praising the character of Jesse Strauderman, 31, who is seeking a pardon for a minor crime committed 12 years ago.

Kills His Wife for Eating Chicken, Gets Life

GREENWOOD, S. C., June 24.—(AP.)—John Cox, 30, a farmer, who shot his wife during a quarrel about the amount of chicken she ate for dinner, pleaded guilty to murder yesterday and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

3 OIL MEN HELD IN KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, June 24.—(INS.)—Three oil company officials were held today as authorities pressed their search for Samuel Levin, wealthy ex-president of the Consumers Gas and Oil Company, who was kidnaped last Saturday.

This action followed discovery of a statement made two months ago by Levin, "in case anything happens" and which accuses Max Johnson, treasurer of the firm, of making threats against Levin.

Demand for ransom of several thousand dollars was telephoned to Levin's attorney yesterday and it was believed his wife was ready to comply with the kidnapers' instructions.

MYSTERY TRIPS AIRED IN TRIAL

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Mystery of trips to New York and Cleveland in April made by Harry Engle, former Youngstown traffic commissioner, was to be clarified at the trial today of Ray Thomas, Mahoning County prosecutor charged with blackmailing Engle.

These trips are believed to have an important bearing upon an alleged blackmailing letter which Thomas is accused of sending to the City Council. In the letter Thomas is said to have stated that Engle, who was traction commissioner at the time,, was attempting to blackmail John T. Harrington, president of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Light and Power Company.

Engle yesterday wound up his testimony by stating that Thomas, who was his attorney part of the time he was traction commissioner, advised him there was nothing criminal in the efforts of the commissioner to collect $250,000 from officials of the light and power company. The money was sought for services Engle rendered the company as traction commissioner for the city.

PADLOCK ASKED ON 2 CLUBS

Two of the "hot spot" night clubs, the Silver Slipper and the Club Alabam, raided by prohibition agents last month, were among the seven resorts against which Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today granted preliminary padlock orders. A final hearing will be held September 15.

At the time of the raids, Director James M. Clark said the Club Alabam had no city permit, but it was revealed one had been issued. After the Silver Slipper raid, Clark ordered the arrest of Billy King, one of the alleged proprietors, on a charge of violating the state dance act.

In the preliminary injunctions granted today William P. King and Harry C. Dickey are named as the proprietors of the Silver Slipper, third floor night club at 823 Federal street, and Joseph Rubin is named as the proprietor of the Club Alabam, second floor of 1213 Wylie avenue. Other places and their alleged proprietors named are Rome Spaghetti House, second floor 911 Federal street, August Pace; club and bar, second floor 929 Liberty avenue, C. M. Houston; saloon, third floor 7914 Frankstown avenue, John Kirk; saloon, first floor rear, 8029 Frankstown avenue, Nick Petcova; saloon, first floor rear, 536 North Homewood avenue, F. A. Capone.

CUT IN BATTLE ON TROLLEY

Slashed by an unidentified Negro with whom he had fought on a Western avenue street car early today, Harry Vernelson, 23, of 705 Arch street, was treated at the Presbyterian Hospital. Nine stitches were placed in cuts on his face and head.

Police say that Vernelson, a Southerner who came here recently, engaged the Negro in an argument and the latter slashed him with a pocket knife. The conductor ordered the two from the street car at Irwin and Western avenues. They were followed by G. C. Wendel, of 1412 Howard street, and Edward Haas, of 1527 Madison avenue, who took Vernelson to the hospital.

WELFARE FUND PLANS DRIVE

The Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh, preparing for a joint campaign with the Allegheny County Emergency Association next November, has received further information regarding the plans of President Hoover's Emergency Committee for Emloyment to stimulate simultaneous local campaigns throughout the country during the month of November.

The country has been divided into 10 geographical regions, each to be served by an experienced organization executive, who will be expected to report on the extent of relief and welfare needs of the communities in his territory and to determine the adequacy of local relief and welfare resources.

Co-operation of the American Association of Public Welfare Officials has been secured. This organization, composed of city, county and state welfare officers throughout the country, is soon to appoint a committee to co-operate with the national organization of welfare funds in determining to what extent public money will be needed to supplement funds raised through private subscriptions.

OLIVER HEADS RED CROSS

Officers have been elected by the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Red Cross at a meeting in the chapter headquarters. Those elected were: A. K. Oliver, chairman; J. Rogers Flannery, vice chairman; Richard K. Mellon, treasurer; Earnest C. Noyes, secretary; Frances Speer Reed, executive secretary.

This was the first meeting of the new executive committee, elected June 8. Other members are Mrs. George E. Alter, Miss Helen Leovy, Harry W. Dunlap, Jr., Mrs. C. B. Ellis, William B. Klee, A. R. Gray, J. Layng Hukill, Mrs. A. L. Humphrey, Leo Lehman, Mrs. Henry R. Rea, Louis E. Reineman, A. W. Robertson, Mrs. George Phelps Rose, George C. Schutte.

France May Remove Curb on U. S. Film

PARIS, June 24.—(Universal.)—The French film control commission, expected to meet within the next several days, has virtually decided to remove all import restrictions on American films, it became known today.

Since France is the continental leader in restrictions of this character, it was believed here that the commission's decision will influence other European countries to similar action.

No Relief in Sight From Heat in West

KANSAS CITY, June 24.—(AP.)—It should be easy for middle westerners to "warm up" to the weather as a subject for conversation today.

After a siege of high temperatures yesterday which broke many heat records for the date in an area extending from South Dakota to the Gulf, "more of the same" was forecast for today by government weather observers.

Calabrese League Re-Elects Officers

Re-election of present officers marked the meeting of the Calabrese League of Allegheny County. Ross Tarchia, president, was reelected. The purpose of the league, as explained by Samuel F. Molinaro, is to broaden and educate its members in American citizenship.

ATLANTA HAILS DRY LAW CRITIC

In the parade marched the James L. Key Bible class, of the Grace Methodist Episcopal Church South. Mayor Key is teacher of this class.

The parade wound up at City Hall where thousands more were gathered to welcome the Mayor and his daughter, Miss Ruth Key, who accompanied him on his visit abroad.

Insurance Fraud Laid to Candidate

ADEL, Ia., June 24.—(AP.)—County authorities sought today to pierce the silence of John Smith, one-time Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, and learn his whereabouts since his burning automobile containing a charred body was found five months ago on the roadside near Denison.

The Perry insecticide manufacturer, who was found bound and gagged near Gardner Monday night, was lodged in the county jail here, technically charged with attempting to defraud insurance companies who carried more than $50,000 in policies on his life.

They take office at once.

BRITISH BLAST KILLS 10 MEN

WAREHAM, Dorset, England, June 24.—(AP.)—In one of the most destructive explosions in Great Britain in recent years, 10 men lost their lives and 19 were injured yesterday at the royal naval cordite factory at Walton Heath, near here. The factory was wrecked.

The blast, felt for miles around, was believed caused by sulphuric acid in the nitro glycerin room.

Chile Seizes Five Officers in Plot

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 24.—(AP.)—The newspaper Ultimas Noticias says that Lieut. Col. Ramon Vergara, of the garrison at Iquique, who is one of Chile's outstanding fliers, and four lieutenants, attempted subversive tactics but the garrison failed to join in. The five officers, the newspaper says, were arrested.

Lumberman Killed By Skidding Log

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 24.—Dayton James, 27, foreman of a log-skidding crew for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, was killed when crushed beneath a log that fell from a crane at a Bergoo lumber camp.

RUM RING RADIO MESSAGES READ

NEWARK, N. J., June 24.—(AP.)—Forest Redfern, radio expert who decoded enemy communications during the war, testified yesterday at the trial of 59 alleged members of a rum syndicate of intercepting 600 coded messages sent in 1929 to rum ships on the Atlantic.

Some he picked up from a tossing patrol boat and others from automobiles and land stations. They were sent, he testified, from an illegal station maintained by the rum ring at Atlantic Highlands. He read the wording of some of the instructions to mother rum ships. They said:

"Give them 400 cases each. They may not want that many, but try to fool them."

GUILTY IN FIRE DEATH OF WIFE

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 23.—(AP.)—Howard H. Swavely, 55, real estate and insurance operator, was convicted last night of murder in the first degree in the burning to death November 7 of his wife, Elizabeth, at their furnished room in Jersey City.

The jury recommended mercy and a sentence of life imprisonment was passed.

The state contended Swavely killed his wife to collect $10,000 life insurance. He declared she accidentally set fire to her night dress while brewing a pot of tea.

Lincoln Assassin Search Leader Dies

ATLANTIC, Ia., June 24.—(AP.)—H. L. Frost, who led the New Hampshire cavalry in the search for John Wilkes Booth after the assassination of President Lincoln, was buried here yesterday. He died Sunday.

Frost maintained that Booth was not burned to death in a barn while trying to elude his pursuers but escaped and died later in Enid, Okla.

Students Rescue Bridal Pair From Burning Auto

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—(INS.)—A newly-married couple escaped serious injury with the aid of University of Pennsylvania students yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding took fire after a collision with another car.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson were taken to the university hospital where Mrs. Henderson was treated for cuts about the head. Leon Levin, 18, driver of the second car, was held on a charge of reckless driving.

$22,684,396 Federal Building Jobs Let

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—A total of $22,684,396 worth of government building contracts was let during March and April.

Contracts totaled $14,484,572 in March and $8,199,824 in April. The figures were prepared by the Labor Department. Contracts awarded by state governments in April, were $12,188,422 or nearly three times as much as in March.

FIGHTS TO SAVE DOOMED SON

MONTREAL, Quebec, June 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Margaret McCafferty, aged Philadelphia woman, left Montreal for Ottawa yesterday in a final attempt to save her son from the gallows.

The son, Thomas, who was convicted under the name of Thomas McHugh, of the murder of A. G. Reid, taxicab cashier, is due to be executed here Friday. Mrs. McCafferty made a previous visit to Ottawa, but failed to obtain an interview with the minister of justice.

Reid was shot down when he resisted the efforts of a lone gunman to enter his office where approximately $15,000 in cash was being prepared for a bank deposit.

8 Denied Retrial In Attack on Girls

MAN, 74, FLIES HERE FOR MEET

The march of civilization, and with it the airplane, holds no terrors for Evan Mandry, 74, of the Welsh Home for the Aged, in Cleveland. Mandry has flown to Pittsburgh for the Welsh convention, at the William Penn Hotel.

Flier Mandry, 74

This is the third convention to which Mandry has flown, he says. The other two were in Detroit and Akron. Asked if the plane trip bothered him, Mandry said:

"I enjoy every minute of the plane trips. I want to keep on flying just as long as I can. The other trips only served to make me want to keep on flying."

Mandry arrived in Pittsburgh Saturday, landing at Bettis Airport after the flight of an hour and 15 minutes.

ITALY SUBMITS REPLY TO POPE

ROME, June 24.—(INS.)—The Italian government's reply to the latest note from Pope Pius XI over closing of Catholic young people's clubs was delivered to the Vatican today.

Signor de Vecchi, Italian minister to the Holy See, called upon Papal Secretary of State Cardinal Pacelli and delivered the reply in person. Its text was not made known immediately.

'Animals' Owners Crowd Film Studios; Pets Are Their Sole Incomes

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 24.

One of Hollywood's safest economic assets is its dumb actors—dogs, cats and birds, who act in pictures and incidentally provide the luxuries of life to many families.

According to Rex Bailey, casting director at Radio, there are some 150 persons whose sole means of income are the animals and birds they place in pictures. These are exclusive of the pet exchanges, but the odd animals owned by these individuals are also registered there.

Like extra players they can be found at the entrances of the studios where they put their pets through routines in the hope that some executive will notice them and provide work. In visiting the various lots one has to sidestep kinkajous, honey bears, badgers and any number of common domestic animals all performing.

Barrymore

One pet man makes $50 a day renting a trained goose, and another $35 for an educated cat. A good police dog with a menacing microphonic bark, earns as high as $200 a day for its owner. And one national institution is said to have been founded on a single lion which put terror into silent films some 10 years ago.

Bailey contends that these owners are more temperamental than actors, and that they are among the most persistent callers at his office. One, particularly persistent, declares the casting director is the owner of a profane parrot who swears in five languages. (Boy, page Will Hays.)

On the set many all but run the company. Recently a cat owner was sent on his way when he demand'd hourly feedings of milk and liver for his animal.

But with it all animal owners do a thriving business which will probably last as long as food is a necessary item to 150 families.

SITUATION DESPERATE

LATEST GOSSIP

Lionel Barrymore still has the return half of the ticket he purchased when he came to Hollywood. He was signed in New York and given a 21-day guarantee on a picture. Since that time he has been working steadily, and now the return stub is over five years old . . . . Lily Damita and scenarist, Willis Goldbeck, are being seen going places. This may or may not be a romance. It's awfully difficult to keep track of Lily . . . . Bidding Hollywood adieu for six weeks Warren Hymer is leaving for Maine for a visit with his parents. . . . . Marjorie King, who played western leads at Universal some time ago, and lately was signed from the New York stage by M. G. M., is working in "Susan Lennox" with Greta Garbo. It's her first role under the new contract . . . . . Over long-distance telephone, Al Beasburg reports the tides are so high at Malibu they are taking things out of his icebox . . . . . Sylvia Sydney has discarded the crutches for a cane. Her ankle was injured in a recent automobile accident . . . . Always the gallant gentleman, Ivan Lebedoff requested that Betty Compson and Genevieve Tobin receive billing over him in the picture, "Strange Women." Maybe their contracts entitled them to first billing, but Ivan suggested it first.

The Lure

Steamer Washington Opens Excursions

The steamer Washington arrived from Cincinnati Tuesday and has opened its daily excursion season out of Pittsburgh, operating moonlight excursions every night and special trips on Sundays. Next Sunday the steamer will make its first rail-and-river trip of the season, in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad, leaving Pittsburgh in the morning for Rock Springs Park and returning to Rochester, from where a special train will return the passengers to Pittsburgh.

Query

There was no change—your rooms were still as gay,
Your laugh as clear, as you bade me come in;
So strange again to gaze across the bay,
Secure from all the city's blatant din;
You fixed my roses in a silver vase—
And poured a drink and made a mocking toast,
But disillusion flickered in your face—

The afternoon grew old and once again
I played for you—a waltz of yesterday;
Then suddenly we looked—then looked away;

There was no change—your rooms were still as gay—
But, oh, the two who loved there—where were they?

—Don Wahn.

Gag

At the Friars' Friendship Frolic on the New Amsterdam stage Sunday night Joe Frisco revived the yarn about Violinsky, who enlisted in the Navy during the Huge Tiff of 1917. Violinsky, it appears, boasted of his soft job on a battleship.

"All I do," he said, "is lead my band."

"Huh!" huh'd Frisco, "a soft job? Why, you dope, when a torpedo hits the boat and it starts sinking you'll have to stay there and lead your men while they play 'Nearer, My God, to Thee'!"

"Oh, no,' replied Violinsky, "I got them so well rehearsed they can get along without me."

Addendum

At the Frolics' rehearsal, incidentally, they recalled the time someone asked Violinsky if he still played his fiddle.

"No," he niftied, "I've had it in hock so much the pawnbroker plays it better than I do!"

Merciless Fact

It was something to cheer about, watching the large group of Friars go through the paces, led by George M. Cohan, the club's Abbot.

"You know," said a columnist, "I think it is swell the way all you fellers perspire and work to help get coin for your club."

"We're not doin' it to help the club," interrupted Frisco, "we're doin' it to keep in practice in case a job comes along!"

Golly!

And it was Jack Benny who said that he had a horrible dream last night. He dreamed Dracula ran into Jimmy Durante.

Heheheh

This one is swiftly rounding the town. A gentleman who held a fake bankruptcy sale was arrested and put in the hoosegow.

Two friends were discussing his case.

"Well," said the other, "I don't know how much of a sentence he got, but they gave him a striped suit with two pair of pants."

The Retort Boff

"Have I a piece of news for you!" shrieked Phil Baker. "Oh, boy! I just came back from Washington where I saw Mr. Hoover, and the depression is over!"

"Great!" we ejaculated.

"Yeah," was the snapper, "AND THE PANIC IS ON!!!"

On the Button!

If there is too much Friars' Club stuff in this package today, we offer no apologies, for whenever it is our luck to encounter those lads we usually come away with a barrel of paragraphs.

But what we started out to say was that George M. Cohan, the grandest guy on the Grandest Canyon, wrote the new Frolics so that the club might benefit, coin being so scarce, you probably have heard.

He closed his new and successful show a week in advance to give the boys his time and talent. He worked so hard. And it must have bothered him no little during a rehearsal when a comedian came one hour late.

"Really?" sarcastically rejoined Mr. Cohan, "and do you know—it was tough for me, too? I had to break away from the swellest family!"

Trouble's Broun!

Suggested for Heywood Broun's new recusical for unemployed actors: Mrs. L. K. Francis': "The Broun Derby" . . . I. Hoffman's: "Broun For Improvement" . . . Dunk's "Hash Brouned," and, "Doughnuts to Dollars" . . . J. M. Lieberthal: "Blondes and Brounettes" . . . Richard E. Harrison: "The Bronx Had A Bird For It!"

A Form of Criticism

"Don't you guys know any funny gags?" we asked.

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Recommended to the simile dictionary: Ted Cook: Leisurely as a pedestrian who knows you're waiting for him to get out of range . . . Superficial as the President's handshake . . . Henry Seidel Canby: Degrading as a front hall with a cuspidor. . . . Life: As self-controlled as a man who can let his wife murder his favorite joke without interrupting her . . . Absent-minded as a plumber in love . . . Frank Sullivan: As reluctant as a man with his finger on a dentist's doorbell . . . Variety: Slow as an iceman's horse, and Clarence Heller's: As difficult to get by in Life as a row of fat women in a theater.

As If You Didn't Know

And "Boy" Solmson reminds you that if you do not blow your own horn the U. S. Marine Band won't toot it for you!

Another "Legs" D.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Wonder if Jack Pearl feels lonely. The top o' th' ladder is 'way up above the crowd at the bottom, y'know, and when you get there there isn't room for much company. And Jack, we happen to know, is a sociable little fellow, who likes to have friends around him. And, of course, he has friends. Our reference to loneliness was as to his position professionally. He is the only prominent German dialect comedian who is active in the theater, excepting, of course, the "Dutch" of the burlesque stage. Weber and Fields, recently reunited, do their stuff for the radio, but Jack is out there doing his in the presence of cold, critical eyes that look him over with a steely judicial stare and dare him to MAKE them light up. Out there in the presence of hearts that have to be warmed—in the presence of hands that have to be stirred into action. When old-timers think of "Dutch" comedians, they think of "Fritz" Emmett and even of a less notable actor, "Pete" Baker. Another generation thinks of the late Sam Bernard and of Weber and Fields. Ours will think in the same way of Jack Pearl. Jack is not "another" Sam Bernard any more than Mr. Bernard was "another" Jack Pearl, but they can be compared on a basis of technique, which calls for the attention to detail that spells perfection in accent. Listen to Jack say "Bearleen" (Berlin) in "The Grand Hotel" scene in the "Follies" and as the r and l roll off his tongue you will note the meticulously careful enunciation that marks the fine work of this artist in dialect. We writers like to call such speech "sputtering," but be assured it is a most studied sputtering, and that if we could handle our English as well as he does his language of the art of amusing we would be artists. And Jack is alone in his art. Wonder if the solitude oppresses him. Wonder how it feels to look in all directions and see no peer.

Small Timer says things must be getting tough because he overheard a receiver saying he was going to ask the court to appoint a receiver for him as receiver.

Vic. Faust, the "Swiss" bell-ringer, who hit Broadway last season and then went away from there after he picked himself up, will be back on Cap'n Menke's show boat, Golden Rod, for a week's engagement ere long. They lured Vic. down to the big town to appear in a musical show and never gave him a chance. Then look what happened—the show was a flop! He's on another show boat now.

* * *

Small Timer says a brilliant actor shines because he is polished, and why a dull one doesn't—well, there's the rub.

Lackawanna Rejects Coal Land Tax Cut

SCRANTON, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—The Lackawanna County Commissioners yesterday denied the request of the large coal producing companies here for a reduction of county taxes ranging from 40 to 50 per cent.

In a formal statement in which they refused any tax reduction on coal, the commissioners declared that the assessment of $300 per foot-acre as now in vogue is fair and proper.

HOMEOPATHS ATTEND MEET

More than a score of Pittsburgh physicians are attending the eighty-seventh annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy in Cleveland today, with four of them scheduled to read papers.

Dr. J. S. Stewart and Dr. Anna Johnston are official delegates to the convention from Pennsylvania.

Dr. John D. Kistler, president of the state society, and Dr. Johnston will read papers before the obstetrical society group. Dr. John G. Wurtz will speak at the session on clinical medicine, and Dr. Mary E. Coffin is to address the National Society of Physical Therapeutics. The National Association of Homeopathic Nurses also will hear a paper read by Dr. Johnston.

PLAN PROGRAM FOR IRISH DAY

Gaelic football will be one of the sport features at the annual Irish Day reunion Saturday at Kennywood Park. Several teams representing counties in Ireland will compete for the Gaelic football championship of Western Pennsylvania.

A marathon race has been scheduled to start downtown at 12:30 p. m. and end in the park athletic field. Six special events for children of parochial schools have been arranged. The Irish Musical Club will present music for the evening dance.

Castle Shannon Boy Wins Gold Medal

Melvin William Green, of Castle Shannon, has been awarded the Lehn and Fink gold medal at the Pittsburgh College of Pharmacy for his work in pharmacy. The award is made annually to the member of the graduating class who has accomplished the best work in pharmacy either in the college course or in a thesis or both. The selection is made by the faculty of the college.

EUROPEAN ART JURORS NAMED BY INSTITUTE

Noted Painters to Award 30th International Prizes; Americans to Be Named

By PENELOPE REDD

The Carnegie Institute announces that Albert Marquet, of Paris; Paul Nash, of London, and Cipriano Oppo, of Rome, will serve as the three European members of the International Jury of Award for the thirtieth Carnegie Institute International.

Penelope Redd

Albert Marquet, senior of the group by virtue of his 56 years, paints with more of the buoyancy of youth than either his English or Italian colleague. Associated with Matisse, Derain and Segonzac, he is not at all disturbing. He but modifies the actual to create a formal pattern in his paintings that is, in turn, redeemed from seriousness, by his light, deft and gay grace.

Paul Nash, the English member, made his first appearance in Pittsburgh as an artist with the British War Exhibition. Since then, his peace-time paintings have been logical performances but anti-climax to that dread picture "The Menin Road." Nash was more indelibly affected by the war than any other painter.

Now at 42 his paintings suggest that active life has passed. His beach scenes and still life command the respect of the intelligent given to contemplation. They are, however, utterly divorced from life.

The third juror, Cipriano Oppo, although but 41 years of age, is the official leader of Italian artists as the secretary of the National Syndicate of Artists of Italy, and a member of the Chamber of Deputies. Oppo is likewise in charge of the Roman Quadrennial Exhibition, now in progress. Completely Roman in his education, artistic life, and honors, he is also principally represented in Roman public and private collections.

The International Jury which will include three American artists whose names have not yet been announced, will meet in Pittsburgh, September 22, to award the Carnegie prizes and the Albert C. Lehman prize and Purchase Fund. The Thirtieth International will open October 15.

NAMED ON INTERNATIONAL JURY

ALBERT MARQUET PAUL NASH CIRPRIANO EFISIO OPPO

M. Marquet, French; Mr. Nash, British, and Signor Oppo, Italian, the three foreign artists announced as members of the jury of award for this year's Pittsburgh International Exhibit.

The Department of Public Works has been authorized by county commissioners to advertise for bids on eight projects with estimated costs totaling $691,650. They are:

Clever road, from Steubenville pike, near McKees Rocks, to the William Penn highway, $290,000; Evergreen avenue, Millvale Borough, $98,250; School street, Glenfield Borough, $80,000; Middletown-Coraopolis road, Kennedy Township, $70,000; First avenue, Brackenridge Borough, $68,000; North avenue, $4,700; Chalfant avenue, $9,700; Rossmore street, $8,700; Brighton street, $10,700, and Elizabeth avenue, $12,600, all in Chalfant Borough; construction of retaining wall on the east side of Carothers avenue, $31,000; Treveskyn-Oakdale road, $8,000.

CITY TO ASSIST CANAL SURVEY

Council's interest in the proposed Ohio and Lake Erie Canal was voiced again yesterday when the Department of Public Works was instructed to assign an engineer to the Canal Board to make a study of the project and assist in locating the canal.

Councilman W. L. English, who has been instrumental in fostering the canalization plan here, pointed out to his colleagues the state board had not enough funds to employ a regular engineer for the survey. As a result the city agreed to assign Engineer George Lehman to the board. His salary will be paid by the city.

It is likely that Public Works Director Lang will name Lehman to the job at once, English said.

POLICE OFFICER BEATEN, 2 HELD

Accused of attacking Patrolman John Keefer, 40, of 2227 Gershon street, while he walked along East street with his wife and son early today, Charles Simon, 31, of 1523 Howard street, and William Zewe, 27, of 2306 East street, were arrested by North Side police.

Patrolman Keefer, suffering concussion of the brain, was confined to his home. His condition was regarded as serious. The attack occurred at Royal and East streets and the pair fled.

Zewe told of drinking with Simon at 1903 East street, according to the police. When officers visited that address they found Simon and arrested G. H. Gehringer on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, saying they found a quantity of liquor.

At the hearing this morning Simon and Zewe were committed to jail for a hearing and Gehringer was fined $100 by Magistrate Ray E. Schneider.

NAME GUARDIAN FOR GRID STAR

Latham Flanagan, former end on Carnegie Tech's football team, today was appointed guardian for his brother Thayer Flanagan, former halfback on the Tech team, by Judge Samuel H. Gardner in Common Pleas Court. The Flanagan brothers are from West Virginia.

Latham testified his brother was kicked on the head during the Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech football game at South Bend last October. The seriousness of the injury did not develop until two months later. Dr. George I. Yearick testified that although Thayer was recovering from the effects of his injury, he was not competent to attend to his business affairs.

Motorist Cleared Of Death Charge

MAYVILLE, N. Y., June 24.—(AP.)—The June grand jury declined to indict James M. Unsung New Yorkers

GEORGE KELLY, keen student of the stage, wrote a play called "Philip Goes Forth," and saw it produced at the Biltmore Theater a few months back. I liked the play immensely. And, as is customary with the things I like, it never got anywhere.

It was Kelly's second act that gave me my greatest kick. He showed us a boarding house in Greenwich Village and gave us some of the characters who might exist in such a house. He drew skilful portraits of the talented musician who finally killed himself because he could get nowhere, and the dull youth who thought he was a playwright because he talked of moods and artistic shadings.

Here, I thought, was a grand piece of work. Here was comedy on the arm of its closest relative, tragedy. Here was the Greenwich Village boarding house that so many of us knew in other days. Here were characters who will exist as long as New York continues to lure fools who do not know when they are well off at home.

But I'm getting away from my own story. I, too, know a yarn about just such a house as Kelly described. I only wish I could write one-half as well as Kelly in order to do it justice. At any rate, listen . . .

* * *

In his rooming house, Carl was a strange figure. All of the figures were more or less strange, but most of them forgot to pose during the progress of their little parties. Carl never changed. For the simple reason, I guess, that he never attended any of their parties.

Practically all of these people were drawn together by a mutual bond. They had but one aim and that was success in the literary field.

Carl was different from the rest in that respect. He, too, felt certain that his book would startle the literary world when it was published. He had been working on it for eight months and he still had sufficient money left to remain until it was finished. Thus he worked and worked. From early in the morning until very late at night.

In the beginning, Carl was always asked to these little village gatherings. He wasn't a bad-looking chap and his soft smile was having its share of effect on the girlies who liked soft smiles. But Carl didn't seem to realize it. He offered excuse after excuse.

"Sorry," he would say. "Can't possibly make it tonight. Just getting near my climax, and I must finish three chapters tonight."

Or—

"No, thanks. It's swell of you to ask me, and I'd love to come. But I've got to get over to the library and do some research work. Maybe some other time."

After a while the folks became curious. They began to speak of him as thinking himself too good for the crowd. The women referred to him as self-important. Yet all the while they knew in their hearts that he was an extremely decent fellow. And they sensed the fact that there was something deeper there than one saw on the surface.

The true situation wasn't at all mysterious. This man had budgeted himself very closely. He had just enough money to keep going until that all important book was completed. The pennies represented dollars in his eyes. And he would not attend these gatherings for the very simple reason that he could not pay his way.

If you had told that to the other Villagers they would have laughed at you. What? Not attend a party because you couldn't reciprocate? Why, what kind of nonsense was that?

It was hard for them, you see, to understand an old-fashioned guy with some real decency in his heart. . . .

Carl finished his book and sent it to a publisher. If you have ever sent an article or a story to a magazine—and who hasn't?—you will understand Carl's feeling as he waited for a decision from the publishing house.

An acceptance meant everything in life to this man. It meant that some measure of success awaited him. It meant that those who had laughed at him in the home town would now open their eyes in amazement. It meant the realization of his every hope and dream. While failure—well, that would be just a little too tough to talk about.

A week passed. No word. Two weeks passed. Still no word. Carl was worried now. He was nervous. Frightened. Excited. He grew to know the exact time of the postman's arrival. Then he would stand on the stoop and wait. And it was pitiful to watch his expression as the postman passed him by with a shake of the head.

Three weeks went by. Carl's money was going fast now. Another week or so and he'd be flat broke. He would be compelled to borrow. And that would be a tough spot for a bird who always insisted on paying his way. Very tough—but what else to do?

The other roomers felt sorry for Carl now. They knew this man was going through torture. They saw him growing more and more nervous with each passing day. Those who passed his room in the early morning knew that he had been walking the floor each night.

If there was only something that they could do. If they could only get him out on a party and have him forget the book for a short time, it might help him a great deal. If—

That night Carl received a telephone call. It was from the publisher to whom he had sent his manuscript. The publisher was extremely enthusiastic. As his heart did a Hal Le Roy dance, Carl heard this big man tell him his book was an absolute masterpiece. If Carl would come to his office in the morning they would fix up a contract.

When he hung up Carl was a new man. He dashed into the dining room.

"You folks have always asked me to parties," he cried excitedly. "Now it's my turn. I get a check tomorrow morning and I can afford to spend a little tonight. This party is on me. My book has been sold!"

What little money he had left Carl spent that night. If he thought it strange that the others weren't as gay as they might have been he said nothing about it. He was too happy. It was that glorious sense of happiness that comes to an author only once in his life: when he sells his first manuscript. Everything else is anti-climax.

"I've got to tell you this, Carl," he muttered. "Please don't be angry. We only did it to cheer you up. Your book hasn't really been sold. One of the other fellows gave you a fake story over the phone. He wanted to make you happy."

It took a few minutes for Carl to realize exactly what the other man had told him. When the truth dawned he began to shiver. He said nothing as he walked from the room.

Ten minutes later he put a bullet through his brain. The story received a line or two in most of the papers . . .

* * *

This part is known to very few. Two days after his death, his book was accepted by the publisher!

CONRAD NAGEL IN TAX FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—Conrad Nagel and the government are at odds over the amount of income tax the movie actor owes for 1927. Nagel reported his total salary for the year at $121,833, but filed separate returns for himself and his wife under the California community property law.

The Internal Revenue Bureau informed him his salary should have been filed in his name and ordered him to pay $2,895 in addition to the $15,717 already assessed.

Nagel has asked the Board of Tax Appeals to overrule the Internal Revenue Bureau on its community property decision and also to grant him exemption of $12,220 for "business expenses."

NATION'S FRUIT CROPS LARGE

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—A plentiful supply of fruit this year was forecast yesterday by the Agriculture Department on the basis of June 1 condition.

Pears, citrus fruits and California peaches, plums and prunes, the department said, are not likely to equal last year's large production.

Fruit trees generally escaped with very little damage during the winter, and frosts this spring caused only minor damage. The one uncertainty is whether the 1930 drought has depleted the subsoil moisture to a damaging extent.

Indications point to a large apple crop in all sections. The peach crop probably will be almost half again as large as the 1930 production if the June 1 prospects hold good. Pears are below average in the most important sections and production may be 15 per cent lower than a year ago.

STALENESS ruins flavor—
DRYNESS burns the throat—
Smoke a FRESH cigarette!

In blending Camels we use only the choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos—tobaccos so good that harsh treatments and parching processes could only injure them.

The Humidor Pack of moisture-proof Cellophane keeps them dust-free, germ-free and absolutely fresh to the last cigarette.

Just compare a Camel, puff by puff, with any other cigarette. Revel in that rare flavor that comes only with choice tobaccos properly conditioned. Note how soft and cool the smoke is to the throat as contrasted to the bite and burn of the hot smoke that comes from dried-out or stale cigarettes.

After you have smoked Camels for one day, leave them—if you can.

SQUIRREL HILL CRASH HURTS WOMAN, SON

Police Seek Motorist Who Vanishes After Taking Injured Man to Hospital

W. H. Brown, Jr., of 4250 Saline street, and his mother, Mrs. Ellen Brown, 52, were cut and bruised early today when their automobile was struck in Beechwood boulevard near Darlington road. Mrs. Brown later was reported confined to her home, suffering from shock. Police say the automobile was driven by the son and the truck by John L. Madden, 30, of 6911 McPherson boulevard.

Police today were searching for the driver of an automobile that early this morning struck and slightly injured David Leff, 27, of 5722 Baum boulevard, at Fifth avenue and Dinwiddie street. The driver took Leff to the Mercy Hospital and left without his identity becoming known. Leff was cut and bruised.

Struck by an automobile while crossing Sidney street near South Nineteenth street, Pauline Rossman, 3, of 3518 South Eighteenth street, was seriously injured last night. At the South Side Hospital it was said the child had suffered a fractured skull. Ray Cagley, of 628 Brownsville road, the driver, was arrested.

Robert Gibson, 29, of 315 Twenty-second street, Munhall, and his son, Robert, 7, were bruised last night when their automobile collided with that of Arthur Tropple, 30, of 4103 Main street, Munhall, in the West Run road, Munhall. The Gibsons were treated at the Homestead Hospital.

George W. Vicker, 146 East Crafton avenue, Crafton, was in the Pittsburgh Hospital today with lacerations of the head and face received, police say, when an automobile he was driving skidded into a telephone pole and overturned in Lincoln avenue extension.

PINCHOT LIMITS INJUNCTIONS

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Gov. Pinchot today signed two bills of Representative J. Gordon Mason, of Luzerne County, affecting the granting of injunctions and persons accused of contempt.

The one Mason bill grants persons accused of contempt of court in injunction cases the right of a jury trial. Persons accused of contempt shall have the right of bail and of being notified of the accusation. The new law also gives the accused the right to demand a public trial and also request the removal of the sitting judge.

The other measure specifies that injunctions cannot be granted by the court except after a public hearing. All persons against whom the injunction is sought are to be notified of the hearing. The Mason bills become effective September 1.

PINCHOT SIGNS REVENUE BILLS

HARRISBURG, June 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today had brought to a successful finish his effort to preserve a biennial revenue of about $10,000,000 for the state.

Among a group of five revenue measures which he signed were the two capital stock tax bills of Representative Philip Sterling, of Philadelphia, and the bill of Representative George W. Williams, of Tioga, making buses and taxicabs liable to the gross receipts tax of eight mills.

At the same time he signed the sterling bill which defines and subjects to the inheritance tax transfers of property made in contemplation of death, and another Williams bill which provides that appeals from inheritance tax appraisals shall specify all the objections to such appraisals and that objections not included in the appeal shall not be considered by the court.

Girl Killed, 3 Hurt When Auto Crashes

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Helen Simpson, 19, Port Carbon, was killed and three girls of the same age were injured, none seriously, yesterday, when their car crashed into a concrete abutment near here while they were returning from a swimming party. The girls, treated at a hospital here, are Helen Simpson, Jean Milliken and Aubrey Bebelheimer. Police said the girls attempted to pass another car, and, to avoid hitting a machine coming toward them, drove into the abutment.

One Dead, One Hurt In Crossing Crash

SHARON, Pa., June 24.—When a Pennsylvania train crashed into a truck at a main crossing here early today one man was killed and another seriously injured. Steve Kana, 26, of Youngstown, O., was fatally crushed in the cabin of the truck. J. H. Boyd, also of Youngstown, the driver, is expected to recover.

'Cheap Trash' Held Good Reading For Youths

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—(AP.)—Prof. William Lyon Phelps, of Yale University, yesterday told the fifty-third annual conference of the American Library Association that the reading of "cheap trash" by children should not be discouraged, for books of that nature opened the gateway to the garden of literature. He said:

"I have seen many librarians worried because boys and girls take out cheap and ridiculous melodramatic stories, but it is a great deal better for them to read trash than not read anything. Boys and girls who never read at all may never acquire the habit."

OPEN PARK GOLF COURSE FRIDAY

County Commissioner E. V. Babcock missed his first swing at the opening of the South Park golf course but may try to improve his driving at the opening of the first nine holes of the North Park course Friday afternoon. When Director Paul B. Riis of the county parks announced the opening date at the meeting of the commissioners yesterday, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong asked Babcock if he intended to try once more.

Babcock replied that he probably would be present.

Riis reported to the commissioners on the cost of insuring caddies, players and spectators at the two county links. He said there would be an annual premium of $300 and an additional 17 cents for each caddy and player. The report was held over as was the recommendation to insure patrons of the swimming pools.

HINES PROMISES VETERANS AID

WILKES-BARRE, June 24.—(AP.)—Formulation of a plan for submission to the next Congress to remove pension inequalities to war veterans was promised today by Veterans' Administrator Hines.

Presenting his plan before the national convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Hines forecast the enactment of "something definite and beneficial" by Congress.

The proposed legislation, he added, would be in the nature of a "national policy which would serve in the event of future wars." Hines said he hoped the plan also would avoid the necessity for constant amendment of legislation to meet new demands of the several groups of veterans.

THE PENALTY OF GRAY HAIR

Gray hair—age—slipping. All these unpleasant ideas seem to go together. Yet, it is not at all necessary. Gray Hair often comes to a young head and people who have it are neither old nor incapable. But how often you hear people say, "Why, she has gray hair!" and—she is on the shelf.

This penalty need no longer handicap the woman who uses Canute Water. This is a clear, spring-like water, of wonderful properties which actually restore hair to its original girlhood color. No complicated "color plan"; no danger of getting brunette shade when your hair is blonde. Not only the one kind but the one bottle is enough. It really is surprising what successful, youthifying results it gives.

Apply Canute Water yourself, in the privacy of your own home. Many women in town are doing the same thing; they simply do not mention it. You need not mention it either. Just buy a bottle from any good druggist — and get rid of the "age penalty" in gray hair. Canute Water is so safe, so scientific and sure that your dealer knows it will satisfy you; if not, he will refund your money. Sold and recommended by Kaufmann's, and all Mayflower Drug Stores, or your own druggist. The Canute Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

MARKET METER TIME EXTENDED

Merchants at city market houses today were given a month to install electric meters and individual electrical refrigeration, Public Works Director Lang announced.

Electric current was to be cut off today under a new plan, whereby merchants paid for all current consumed except for illumination.

Representative James Wettach appeared before Council's Committee on Public Works late yesterday in behalf of the merchants and explained they had not had sufficient time to complete installations. The time extension was then granted.

SLIDE DAMAGE CLAIM UPHELD

County Commissioners have approved payment of $1,555 to reimburse the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company for expense incurred in clearing the tracks after an earth slide at Fleming Park road. The claim prompted Commissioner C. C. McGovern to say:

"Fleming Park road is one of the rottenest jobs the county has built. Is this the last of the bills for that road?"

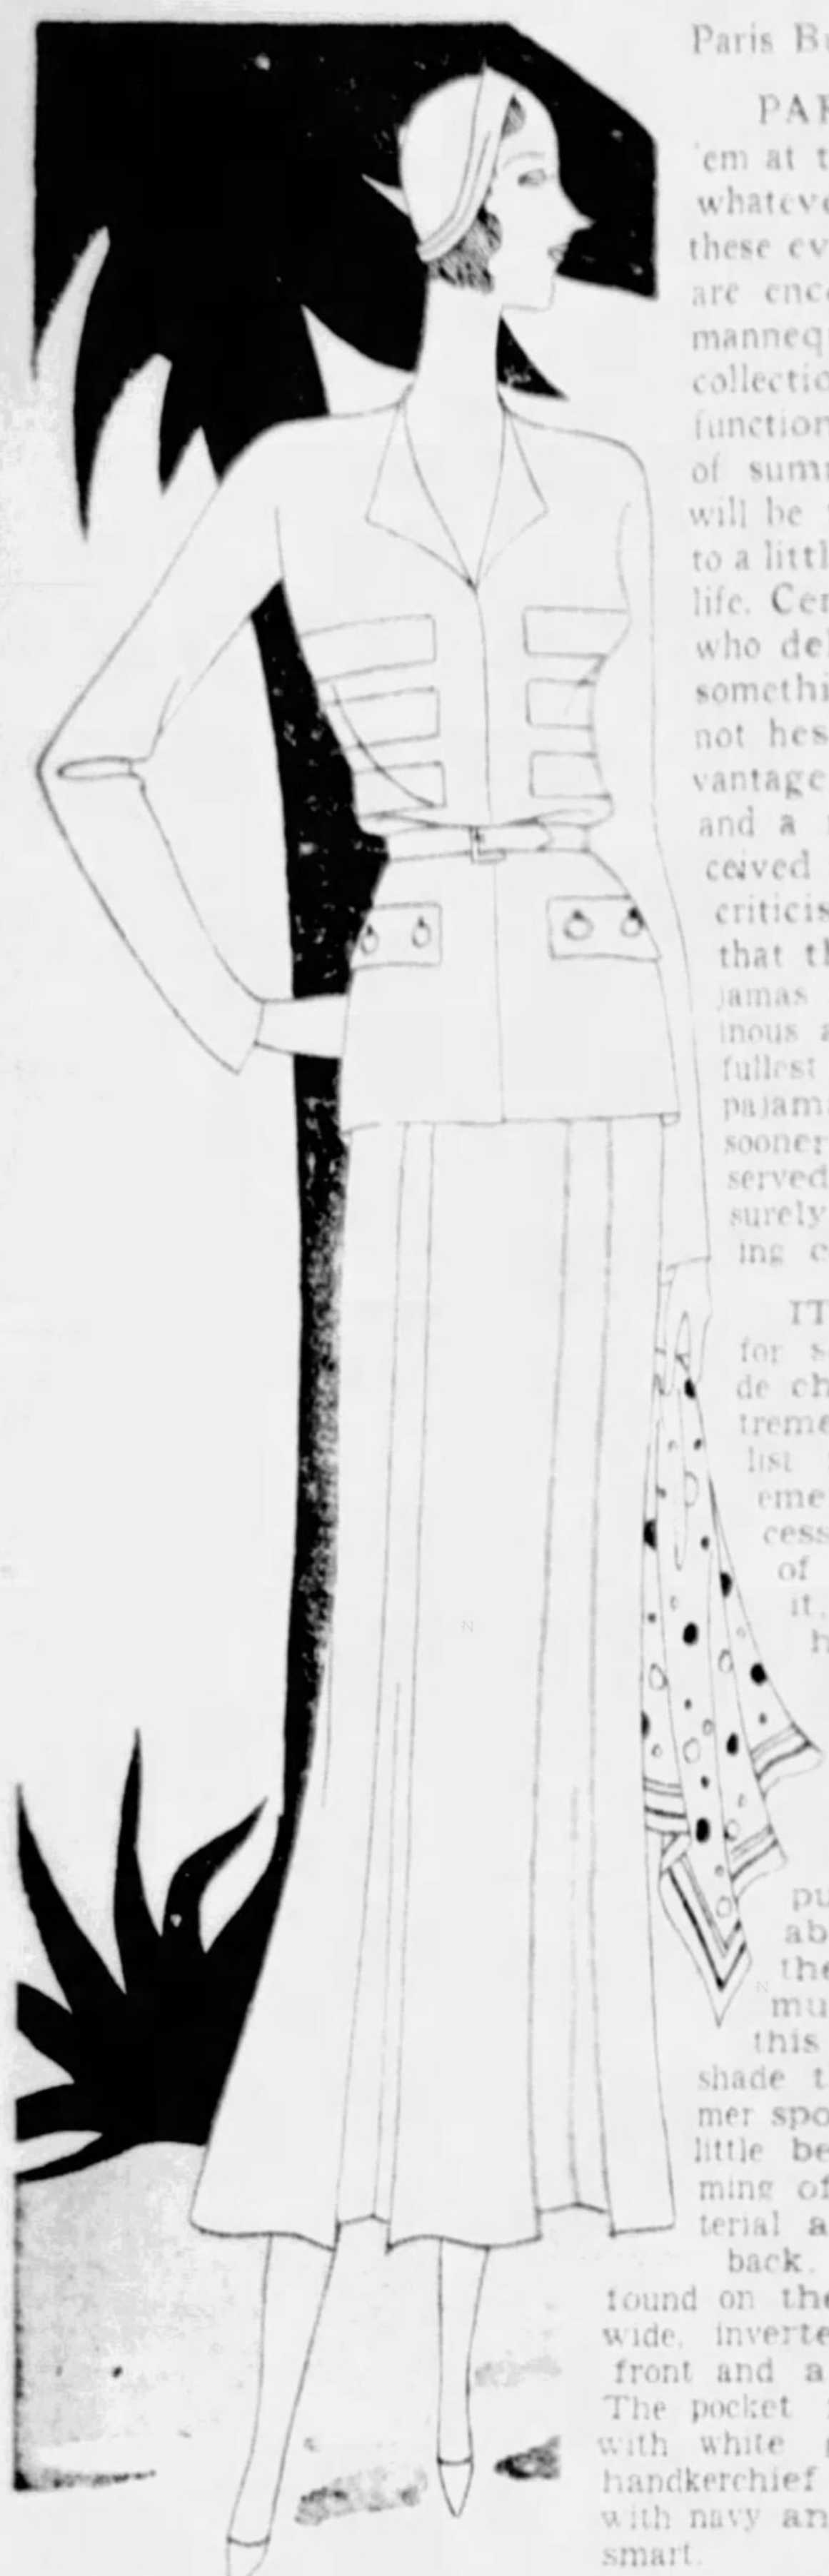
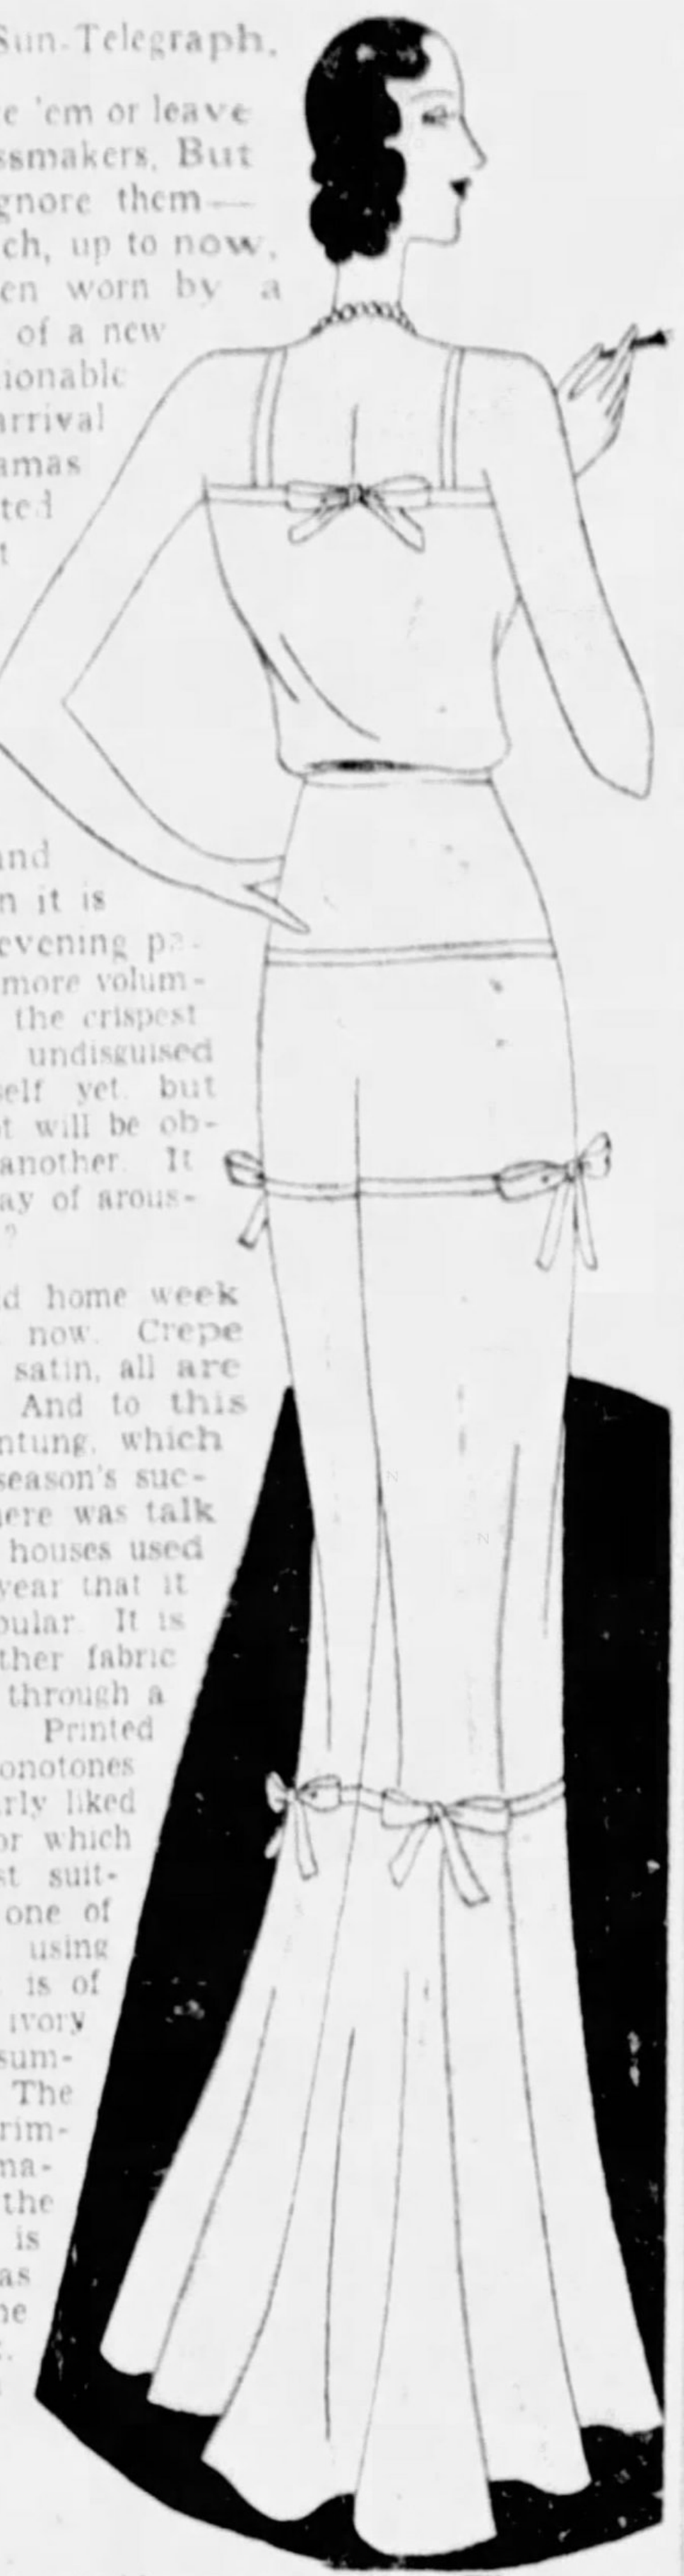
UNDISGUISED PAJAMAS WILL BE WORN OUT-OF-DOORS SOON

Sketched in Paris





Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 24.—Take 'em or leave 'em at the fashionable dressmakers. But whatever you do don't ignore them—these evening pajamas which, up to now, are encountered more often worn by a mannequin at the showing of a new collection than at any fashionable function. But with the arrival of summer, perhaps, pajamas will be taken out and treated to a little out-of-doors night life. Certainly the woman who delights in wearing something different will not hesitate to take advantage of a new mode, and a mode that has received so much publicity and criticism at that. Certain it is that the trousers of the evening pajamas so far exhibited are more voluminous and wider than even the crispest fullest skirt. So far the undisguised pajama hasn't shown itself yet, but sooner or later it no doubt will be observed at some affair or another. It surely would be an easy way of arousing comment, wouldn't it?

* * *

IT SEEMS TO BE old home week for so many fabrics just now. Crepe de chine, organdie, linen, satin, all are tremendously successful. And to this list must be added shantung, which emerges as one of the season's successes. Last summer there was talk of shantung and some houses used it, but it is only this year that it has really become popular. It is an ideal warm weather fabric and stands up well through a warm day's wear. Printed shantung and monotones seem to be particularly liked for sports clothes, for which purpose they are most suitable. Jane Regny is one of the designers who is using much shantung, and it is of this material in a lovely ivory shade that she makes the summer sports suit here shown. The little belted jacket has a trimming of bias bands of the material at each side and in the back. Similar trimming is found on the cuff. The skirt has wide, inverted box-pleats at the front and a single one in back. The pocket flaps are held down with white galalith buttons. A handkerchief scarf of white crepe with navy and light blue dots is smart.

* * *

THE EVENING PAJAMA is by Leland, who has made it of pale blue crepe satin. The crepe side is used for the costume and the satin for the encrusted bands and bow-knots which so lavishly trim the ensemble. A short jacket of the satin, nipped in at the waist, completes the pajamas.

Tomorrow the South Hills schools and communities will picnic at Kennywood.

Epidemic Imperils Village in Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska, June 24.—(AP.)—Scarlet fever today was threatening to sweep the village of Kanakanak, in the Bristol Bay region, Dr. Borland, physician there, reported to the Alaska headquarters of the Indian Affairs Bureau. Forty-three persons were in the hospital with the disease, the doctor said. The bureau here ordered serum to be sent.

Wharf Beautifying Plan Awaits Parley

HELPING HAND LODGERS MAY DO WORK

Lang to Confer With Charity Leaders on Proposal for Furnishing Labor to City

Cleanup and beautification of the Monongahela River parking wharf, between Smithfield Street Bridge and Grant street, is to be the subject of a conference tomorrow between Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works and representatives of the Helping Hand Society.

The offer to do the work was presented Council yesterday by Attorney Harry I. Miller and Dr. Alexander Gibson, of the charity organization. Consent and cooperation of the city was sought.

Council suggested the parley with Lang. Council may take action on the plan Monday. The details depend on the result of tomorrow's conference.

Miller pointed out to Council that the unemployed at the Helping Hand lodging house would do the work free of charge to the city. They would be paid a nominal sum by the organization, Miller said.

Pending action at the conference, an ordinance requesting $30,000 to beautify another portion of the wharf from Market street to Exchange way, was held over with the possibility, according to President John S. Herron, that the Helping Hand may be able to do this job at little cost.

Council has approved in finance committee the request of the Department of Public Works for $30,000 to improve the wharf from Market street to Exchange way. Several hundred thousand used brick from the Noblestown road will be used on the job.

INSULL ASSAILS ATTACKS BY PINCHOT

Public Utilities Leader Tells Inter-Club Council Here That Opponents Are Wrong

The attacks of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Senator Norris and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, on the electric power industry are based on "fictions," it was declared here today by Martin J. Insull, of Chicago, president of the Middle West Utilities Company. He spoke before the Inter-Club Council, William Penn Hotel.

Gov. Pinchot's speech at French Lick denouncing electric utility systems drew Insull's fire.

He declared Pinchot's own speech showed that power production had not been kept down under the present system and quoted the Governor's figures that 70 per cent of American homes have been wired for electricity and 80 per cent of industry motorized to prove it.

DENIES BREAKDOWN

That state regulation of utilities has broken down was labeled more fiction by Insull. He said:

"Here is an industry which under state regulation has grown to be the marvel and envy of the whole world . . . that so has the confidence of the investors it is able to raise from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 of new money every day to provide facilities for meeting the service demands of the public, a public which it serves satisfactorily at constantly reducing rates. Yet we are told regulation has broken down."

CITES VARIANCE OF FIGURE

Insull assailed the inconsistencies which he said existed in Pinchot's and Norris' contentions. He declared:

"There is some difference of opinion as to this amount of overcharge. Senator Norris puts it at $750,000,000, as against your Governor's $500,000,000. But what is a difference of $250,000,000 among friends?

"The power industry is certanly not 'grafting' on industry, as there it has to sell its service in competition with all other prime movers. Industry buys electric power because it wishes to use it and because it pays to use it. Therefore, the overcharges, if any, must fall upon the domestic consumer."

Insull then pointed out that their total national bill to the industry was only $650,000,000. He said:

"If the figures Senator Norris uses were correct, then the power industry would be paying domestic customers for the privilege of serving them. If Pinchot's figure was currect, then the domestic consumer instead of paying an average of nine cents per day for electric service, would be paying only a little more than two cents per day. That, of course, is absurd."

BOARD'S ACTION LAID TO LACK OF FUNDS

Group Named to Request City Care for Pupils During Summer Recess

The Board of Education yesterday voted against the proposal to furnish milk for undernourished children during the school vacation period of July and August. The plan was abandoned on advice of J. Rodgers McCreery, the board's solicitor, who declared that the board had no authority to make an expenditure of $15,000 for such a purpose.

After much discussion, and when it was agreed that it would be impossible for the board to provide the milk, a committee was appointed to confer with the city's Welfare Department, "or other proper municipal authorities," and request that milk be supplied to children whose physical condition might otherwise be impaired during the two-month period.

MILK PLAN COMMITTEE

The committee is composed of Dr. A. L. Lewin and Mrs. F. B. Chalfant, members of the board, and Dr. H. B. Burns, director of hygiene.

The board granted Dr. Edward Rynearson, director of vocational guidance, a leave of absence from September 15 until January 15, so that he might serve on a commission of four of this country's educators who have been appointed by the International Missionary Council to study American educational systems in Japan.

The board also went on record as being "vigorously opposed to the annexation of portions of townships in the future." A committee is to be appointed to take up the general question of annexation and to deal with specific cases as they occur.

CONTRACT RULING

The board, on motion of N. R. Criss, directed that in the future, as soon as bids have been accepted, a list of the sub-contractors specified be posted in the office of James Bonar, superintendent of buildings. The list, for the information of the public, is expected to curb the "peddling of contracts."

In the past a general contractor has been permitted to list several alternate sub-contractors, to whom he proposed to sublet parts of the work. This was said to have enabled some general contractors to "shop around" and break down prices of sub-contractors.

As recommended by the Property and Supplies Committee, contracts for the Larimer School addition and the new H. B. Davis School were awarded. The Larimer addition is to cost $185,658, and the Davis School $91,256.

RESCUED GIRL STRICKEN

Helen Reynolds, 20, R. F. D. 3, Elizabeth, Pa., is in bed, with one side partially paralyzed, following her rescue from the Monongahela River near Lock No. 3 late yesterday by two girl canoeists.

Drucilla Cannon, 12, and her sister, Ethel Maude, 10, of Clairton, heard Helen's screams for help and dragged her to the shore. They said she had been swimming in deep water when she was stricken with cramps.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 24.

Will Rogers

Every time I pick up a paper I see my favorite American citizen, Dwight Morrow, getting a degree from some more universities. He has played a regular circuit of 'em. He has been in his cap and gown more than he has his pants this spring. You know its awful hard for these universities to get a good headliner to draw the crowds and publicity, so when they get a real one like Mr. Morrow they just weigh him down with "hokum" degrees. We are living in an age of publicity. It used to be only saloons and circuses that wanted their name in the paper, but now its corporations, churches, preachers, scientists, colleges and cemeteries.

Yours, WILL.

ARTHER NAMED AD CLUB HEAD

William C. Arther, president of the Ensign Advertising Agency, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club yesterday.

Mr. Arther

He succeeds J. M. McKibbin, Jr., of the Westinghouse company, whose term expires next month.

Robert Heywang, Pittsburgh manager of the American Type Founders Company, succeeds Arther as vice president. J. A. Cullison, of the National Fireproofing Company, was reelected secretary, and Fred Morgan, of the Bell Telephone Company, was re-elected treasurer, and H. V. Jamison, Robert E. Grove and J. M. McKibbin were elected to the board of governors.

Mr. Arther, who is past president of the General Alumni Association of the University of Pittsburgh, is also president of the Sales Managers' Club of Pittsburgh and commander-elect of the Pittsburgh City Post, American Legion.

Former Ohio College Head Killed in Wreck

Dr. Schradieck, accompanied by his wife, was driving from their Ohio home to the home of Mrs. Schradieck's parents.

Sisters, 8 and 9, Make Air Trip From Coast

COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Mary Louise Aaronson, 9, and Nel Lavawn Aaronson, 8, sisters, of San Francisco, are en route by train to the home of relatives in Roanoke, Va., after making an airplane flight from the West coast alone.

When they reach the Virginia city they will have traveled 2,919 miles, of which 2,501 were by airplane. The girls were put aboard an air liner at San Francisco by their parents, went to Los Angeles, stayed at a hotel for the night and the next day flew to Kansas City. They spent a night there and continued to Columbus by airplane.

SLIDES DELAY TRAINS, AUTOS

Heavy rains throughout the district delayed traffic on the Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads, flooded homes and streets and caused damage estimated at several thousand dollars last night.

Six passenger trains of the Pennsylvania Railroad were delayed for nearly two hours when rock and gravel washed from hillsides blocked tracks in three places between Natrona and Brackenridge. A Pittsburgh and Lake Erie train was held up after mud and rock covered the tracks in the vicinity of Glen Willard.

Traffic through the boroughs of New Kensington, Edgewood, Natrona and in the vicinity of Aliquippa was impeded as streets and highways were flooded. Waters from Puckety Creek, which overflowed in New Kensington, backed up to a depth of several feet in Linden and Seventh avenues, flooding cellars and blocking traffic.

Debts Cancel Selves When They Get Big Enough

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

But we still are in the error column for $900,000,000. That's good.

We are glad to see our government owe that much. It indicates that people trust us.

It's natural and normal to be in debt. And also invigorating. Because the more you owe the more your creditors pray for your continued good health.

What's $900,000,000? A mere bag of ciphers. And the further you are away from the decimal point the safer you are.

A government has it over the individual. A nation can owe that much money and still answer the telephone.

When an individual gets over $3 in hock he has to pull up stakes or grow a beard.

When the doorbell rings he becomes a splendid case of suspended animation until he hears the footsteps receding.

So don't worry about America. That German financial holiday proves that when a debt gets big enough it automatically cancels itself.

MT. LEBANON MAN DROWNS

Fred H. Slater, 45, of 940 Washington road, Mt. Lebanon, South Hills funeral director, was drowned late yesterday when, it is said, he waded into the back channel of the Ohio River on Neville Island, according to a coroner's report.

He left his machine parked on the highway on the Island, police said. According to Deputy Coroner M. F. Leslie, who investigated the drowning, Slater was declared to have been in ill health.

Stanley Hudsek, of Eleventh street, West Park, and Phillip Quigley, of Broadway, West Park, strolling near the river, heard cries for help and notified Neville Island police. Slater's body was recovered a short distance from the shore soon afterward.

WOMEN PLAN WATER FIGHT

A water battle between the championship women's team of Chalfant Borough and women of Sharpsburg features today's program of the seventeenth annual convention of the Allegheny County Firemen's Association at Sharpsburg. East Carnegie, victor over Baldwin Township men's team last night, wil meet the Franklin company team, which won from the Pleasant Valley team of O'Hara Township by default.

Last night's battle was fought before a crowd of approximately 6,000 persons at Eighth and Clay streets. Many of the spectators were drenched. The convention will continue until Saturday, when a parade of more than 100 pieces of fire-fighting apparatus will be in the line of march.

Boundary Street Dwelling Burns

A two-story frame dwelling, at 43 Boundary street, was seriously damaged by fire early today. Flames, which originated in the basement, spread upward and caused damage estimated at more than $2,000 before they were extinguished. Battalion Chief Henry Schwartz said the cause of the fire was not determined.

Declares 'Ads' Banished Red Flannel for Silk

Advertising has taken us out of red flannels and put us into silk, according to John J. Deviny, member of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and the State of Virginia, and secretary of the United Typothetae of America, who spoke on "Printing and Advertising—Their Influence in Our Time," at a luncheon of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club in the William Penn, yesterday.

Deviny said:

"Advertising has made us a nation of gum chewers, cigaret smokers and installment buyers. If sun-ray lamp advertisers have their way, future generations will be born with goggles. We have been advertised into letting motors do our daily dozen for us."

Thirty or 40 years ago the printing business ranked seventy-second as a credit risk, Deviny said. Today it ranks sixth or seventh. He claims printers have the best and most efficient cost system and form of cost findings in this country. He said:

"The wedding of advertising and printing in the last 50 years has revolutionized both industries."

WELSH WRITER, ACTRESS, HERE FOR MEET

Laura Burt to Address Women's Clubs; Enroute To Hollywood With Plays

Laura Burt, whom Pittsburghers may remember as "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," with her husband, Henry Stanford, is in town as a New York delegate to the seventeenth annual convention of the Women's Welsh Clubs of America at the William Penn Hotel this week.

She will speak Thursday night on her experiences at the Llanelly Swansea Eisteddfod in Wales last year. She will attend the 1932 Eisteddfod and will speak on Welsh history in her native tongue. She was born in Caernarvon and has retained a remarkable purity of tongue in spite of years on the American stage.

Miss Burt

According to Miss Burt the Welsh Prince Madoc discovered America in 1170. Eleven of our presidents and 19 signers of the Declaration of Independence were of Welsh descent, and Shakespeare's paternal grandmother named Alys came from a line of Welsh kings, she says.

Miss Burt is on her way to Hollywood with two of her own plays and others by Allan Raine, with which she hopes to change the trend of movies away from stories of gangsters and crime.

INROADS ON LAW WORK SCORED

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Practice of law by unauthorized persons and corporations was deplored by John D. Brooks, of Erie, president of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, at the opening session of the organization's thirty-seventh annual convention here today.

Brooks called upon attorneys "to do whatever is necessary to combat ever-growing inroads which admittedly outside agencies are making into fields which can only be legitimately occupied by lawyers."

Reviewing accomplishments of the 1931 session of the Legislature, Brooks observed that it lacked harmony. There were many long speeches, he said, "apparently made not so much for public welfare as for political welfare."

COUNTY PROBES BRIDGE JOB ROW

County Commissioners will grant a hearing Friday to structural steel workers of Allegheny County, who say they have been discriminated against in seeking employment from the American Bridge Company, erectors of the West End-North Side Bridge.

Responding to a request by Commissioner C. C. McGovern, Director Norman F. Brown, of the Department of Public Works, submitted a letter yesterday, saying the bridge company had reported its 89 employes on the West End Bridge give addresses in this county.

Two men, appearing before the commissioners yesterday, said they were residents of the county and could get no work on the bridge. They said the company employed non-residents.

TIRE HITS BOY, THROWER FINED

Annoyed, according to his own testimony, at the actions of a group of nine boys whom he had chased from a pile of tires in front of his repair shop on Sawmill Run boulevard, George Williams, 19, of 990 Warrington avenue, began throwing the tires at the youths. One struck Albert March, 14, of 1027 Berkshire avenue, inflicting a slight cut on this head, according to police.

Williams, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $10 or 10 days in jail by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court.

Police Victim?

JOSEPH MARSHALL, 18

Joseph, 18, 402 Sparta street, today in South Side Hospital with concussion of the brain. He and his parents charge he was injured by arrest and handling at West End Police Station after he objected to Patrolman Albert Vogel threatening young children with a revolver.

YOUTH CHARGES BEATING BY PATROLMAN

Children's Champion Tells Story of Attack While Confined in Hospital

From his cot in the South Side Hospital, where he is confined with concussion of the brain, Joseph Marshall, 18, of 402 Sparta street, today told of an attempt to prevent a policeman from frightening a dozen young children, an attempt which ended in the youth being taken to the hospital.

Marshall said, according to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Marshall, that he was standing across the street in Main street, West End, when Patrolman Albert Vogel approached with drawn revolver and ordered the children to "move on."

TAKEN TO STATION

The youth declared:

"I saw the policeman with his gun, and I yelled to him to let the kids alone. He crossed the street and grabbed me. After a while he told me I was under arrest, and he dragged me to the West End station.

"My clothes were almost torn from my back when we reached the station, and when we got inside, he hit me with his mace. That is all I remember."

SERGT. DENIES KNOWLEDGE

The youth was arrested and sent to the hospital, according to his parents, who said they posted a $15 forfeit for him. At the West End Police Station, Sergt. Henry Baumgratz said he knew nothing of the occurrence and that there was no report of the case.

The boy's parents said, however, that they had complained to Supt. Peter P. Walsh, and that Walsh had ordered Vogel suspended pending an investigation.

OPEN FESTIVAL IN HOMESTEAD

A street parade through Homestead, West Homestead, Munhall, Whitaker, Homeville and Hays Borough featured the opening of the three-day "Hospitality Day" program sponsored by Homestead business men and the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday.

Following the parade, which was led by the High School Band, Chief Marshal John C. Forbes and Maj. Clyde Miller, and escorted by police, a dinner was held in the basement of the United Presbyterian Church at Ninth avenue and Amity street. Robert Hilk presided as master of ceremonies, and addresses were made by several business men.

A tug of war was to be staged by Boy Scouts at Amity and Anne streets early today. A "pet parade," followed by a baby show, was to complete the afternoon's program.

Seven Killed in Raid On Mexican Town

MEXICO CITY, June 24.—(INS.)—Seven persons were killed today by armed agrarians who raided the town of Lapiedad, state of Michoacan, acording to dispatches received here.

The raid was the result of friction between the agrarians and the Mayor of Lapiedad, who saved his life by fleeing in his automobile to Morelia. Among the victims of the assault were a judge and a 4-year-old boy.

West Penn Hospital Directors Re-elected

The annual meeting of the life members and contributors of the Western Pennsylvania Hospital Corporation, which directs the West Penn Hospital, was held in the board room of the Commonwealth Trust Company yesterday. Directors re-elected for a three-year term were Wilson S. Arbuthnot, A. Rex Flinn, John G. Frazer, Mrs. J. Garfield Houston, Gen. Albert J. Logan, Dr. J. W. Macfarlane and James R. Mellon.

WIFE IDENTIFIES SLAIN MAN

Mrs. Mary Kessley, of Canton, O., visited the county morgue this morning and identified the body of Albert W. Kessley, 32, shot to death in a gun battle Monday, as that of her husband, whom she had not seen in three years.

The woman drove to Pittsburgh from Canton during the night, after having read newspaper accounts of her husband's death. Kessley died Monday night in the Columbia Hospital from a bullet wound in the side. Fran[illegible]zzo, 23, proprietor of the Puckety Inn, Penn Township, is being held by detectives, who charge him with the shooting.

Detectives allege that Kessley, a waiter, worked for Gazzo in the Penn Township establishment and that the two fought when Kessley made a date with Violet Ewart, of Station street, Gazzo's girl friend.

Boy Drowns Seeking To Recover Ball

While attempting to recover his ball, which had fallen into Chartiers Creek in the rear of the First National Bank of McKees Rocks, late yesterday, George Daniels, 6, visiting at 3421 Stafford street, stumbled into the water and was drowned, according to a morgue report. Fire Capt. William Krise and Fireman Joseph Pore, of McKees Rocks, recovered the body.

Penny Soviet Blades Lop Turkish Beards

ISTANBUL, June 24.—(AP.)—New Turkey's distaste for the long beards of Ottoman days is responsible for a new phase of "Soviet dumping." Russian razor blades are sold for one cent the blade, whereas blades from other countries cost 6¼ cents.

'MISS UNIVERSES' IN PITTSBURGH

MISS DOROTHY DELL — MLLE. NETTA DUCHATEAU

Miss Dell, last year's "Miss Universe," member of the cast of the Ziegfeld Follies, showing in Pittsburgh, as she met arriving Mlle. Duchateau, Belgian beauty last week at Galveston, Tex., selected "Miss Universe of 1931." Mlle. Netta will appear in the Follies.

MARKET HOUSE HEARING SET

A public hearing on stall owners' proposals to lease the Diamond Market House on a co-operative basis for five years was to be held by City Council today, attended by representatives of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers Association and the Diamond Market Protective Association. President John S. Herron, of Council, was to act as chairman.

The plan outlined by the merchants is to lease the market house, paying for new equipment and furniture out of profits for the first five years. Full supervision of employes would be had by those leasing the place. The city would be paid approximately $30,000 annually during the duration of the five-year plan.

Railroad Offers Spur Line For Lease

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP.)—For rent or lease: One railroad in Southern New Mexico; fine locality; genuine engine, cars, etc.; terms extremely reasonable; apply Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad Company.

Unless the Denver and Rio Grande makes some disposal of its La Madera branch—16½ miles of narrow-gauge track in Taos and Rio Arriba counties, New Mexico—it may abandon it within 30 days. The necessary permission was given yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission with the suggestion it might be leased.

AIRPORT LIGHT BIDS ASKED

Charges of discriminating specifications resulted in the County Commissioners voting yesterday to readvertise for bids for lighting the municipal airport, Lebanon Church road. The estimated cost was $65,000.

The commissioners were about to open 11 bids yesterday when J. J. Jackson, counsel, and P. B. Evers, sales engineer, of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Compjany, protested. They said the specifications called for "Sperry" lamps, which they could not furnish.

On motion of Commissioner Edward V. Babcock, the director was instructed to rewrite the specifications to bring out more prominently the "or equal" privilege.

MISS UNIVERSE HERE TO JOIN FOLLIES

Winner of Galveston Beauty Tournament Not to Quit Flying Because of Stage

GREETED BY EX-QUEEN

She was accompanied from Galveston to Pittsburgh by her mother, Collette Duchateau, and her publicity agent, Martin Starr. She was welcomed by Dorothy Dell, "Miss Universe of 1930," who is appearing with the "Follies," and Victor Kirily, manager of the revue.

Tall and chic, Mlle. Duchateau wore a pale blue silk ensemble with white shoes and a rough cloth hat with a large brim—turned up in the front. All her clothes, bought in Paris just before she left for America, were of the latest mode.

TALKS IN FRENCH

Mlle. Duchateau, speaking little English, carries on most of her conversation in French. She was delighted when she was greeted in French by Kirily.

She is an airplane pilot and intends to keep on flying despite her stage contracts.

She is interested in athletics and has finished two years of college work. She said:

"I sing very little, and I like to dance, but—I'm just like all of the other girls. I'm not extraordinary.

"I have never appeared on the stage, but I think I'll like it. I don't know whether I shall have a career on the stage; it is too early to say. Maybe I shall."

Farmer Balks Theft, Three Held in Jail

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 24.—Alleged to have been caught stealing farm implements from Stani Czarnowski, of near Jeannette, Edward Gust, 17, and his brother, Stanley Gust, 19, of Wendell, are being held in jail here.

John Chesky, 27, of Wendell, is also being held on a charge of aggravated assault and battery, alleged to have grown out of an attack upon Czarnowski when he apprehended the youths.

Patricia Pitt

Today brings an event of great moment to the social world, particularly to the younger set. For this afternoon an attractive young girl, Polly Schoyer, is making her debut. She is the first bud of our "little season" and the first bud of the season of 1931.

Her father and mother, the William E. Schoyers, of Dunmoyle street, are presenting her at a tea late this afternoon in the family home.

Informal Setting

Of course, there's always something formal about presenting one's daughter to society, but the charm of lovely June and the intimacy of a home setting for the event give a note of gracious informality to the tea.

The Schoyers and their daughter are receiving in the drawing room of the home, with tea served on the terrace, overlooking the garden.

Wearing Organdie

The young debutante is wearing a summer frock of seafoam green organdie, made with a long, full ruffled skirt and a shoulder cape. She is carrying different gift bouquets during the afternoon. Her mother has chosen white lace over lavender.

Aiding the young debutante is a group of young folks, including debs of this season and a few of last and her house guest, Eleanor Barry, of Evanston, Ill.

Pittsburgh girls serving as her aides are Virginia Doyle, Katharine Frazer, Ellinor Reed, Lucretia Billings, Martha Yost, Cecelia McCormick, Caroline Mitchell, Lois Tack, Lucile Todd, Rita Borntraeger and Nancy Scott Craig.

All the girls are wearing attractive summery frocks. Katharine Frazer has chosen a blue chiffon made with short sleeves edged with two narrow ruffles and fashioned with a long, full skirt, all narrow ruffles. A touch of pink at the waistline gives color accent.

Wedding In East

Another notable wedding of interest to Pittsburgh society folks was taking place out of town, that of Catherine Harwood, daughter of the Paul Harwoods, of Lake Placid, and Charles Lockhart, son of the James H. Lockharts, of Pittsburgh.

The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Tudor Chapel at the Lake Placid Club, with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, as the officiant.

The chapel was decorated with fragrant balsam and trailing Dorothy Perkins roses. The window boxes were filled with blossoming spring flowers. And the bridal party entered, one by one, down a lane of pine and birches, banked, fern and moss.

An exquisite gown in the princess mode of old ivory satin with a long court train was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her veil of rose point, an heirloom, belonged to the bridegroom's maternal grandmother, cascaded over a white tulle veil. She carried white orchids and orange blossom buds decorated her veil.

Her maid of honor, Marion Fernie, of Milwaukee, wore a bouffant gown of daffodil yellow chiffon; Lydia Maxwell, of Philadelphia, a bridesmaid, wore orchid chiffon in the same style, and Katherine Aurelia Harwood, of Pasadena, Cal., a cousin of the bride, also a bridesmaid, wore turquoise blue chiffon. All the bride's attendants had golden horsehair lace hats and carried yellow tea roses.

Many Attend

George D. Lockhart was his brother's best man, and James H. Lockhart, Jr., Paul Henry Harwood, Jr., Paul De Forest Hicks, of Pittsburgh, and Frank S. Katzenbach, of Trenton, N. J., and John Stinson, of Baltimore, were ushers.

The reception was held in Sentinel Cottage, the Harwood home. And a trio from the Boston Symphony furnished music.

* * *

Another Debutante

And still another deb has been added to the bouquet of 1931 buds. Nancy Jane Longenecker, daughter of the Charles Longeneckers, of Maryland avenue, is the name just added to the debutante list. Her mother will present her in the fall. Nancy is a student at the Pennsylvania College for Women, and will continue her college work this fall, as well as make her bow.

Sailing this afternoon from New York aboard the motorship Vulcania on a Mediterranean and Adriatic cruise, were Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., her young niece, Anita Shields and Elizabeth Roberts.

O. E. S. Chapter to Fete Associate Grand Matron

Mrs. Louise C. Lindeman, newly-elected associate grand matron of the Pennsylvania Order of the Eastern Star, will be honor guest at a luncheon of 200 covers which Chapter No. 182 will give at the Hotel Schenley on Wednesday, July 1.

Most Sports Costumes Given Touch of Blue

PARIS.—Sports styles have the blues.

City Fixes Location of 29 Showers for Children

Locations of street showers for children during the summer were announced today by W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation. In all, 29 were located, with 40 more to be assigned various sections of the city before the summer has passed.

Operation of the showers will begin this week. They will be used every day the temperature is over 70 degrees. Others will be put into use early next month.

Firemen from engine companies will operate the showers, which will be attached to street hydrants.

The showers already assigned will be at Holmes and McCandless streets, Lemington avenue, Shiloh street, Baldwin street, Thirty-first Ward; Denny street, Library road, Overbrook; Forty-fourth and Calvin streets, Liberty avenue and Twenty-fourth street, Woods Run Settlement, Dickson street and Shadeland avenue, Arch and Jackson streets, Lafayette and Federal streets, Haslage avenue and Iten street, Lowrie and Branch streets, Spring Garden avenue near High street, Madison avenue and Phineas street, Fulton and Goebel streets, Blair street, Winterburn street, Commercial street, Hamilton and Braddock avenues, McCleary School, Garfield School, Liberty School, Melwood street, Alliquippa and Wallace streets, Webster avenue and Wandless street, Washington Recreation Center and Armstrong Playgrounds.

Parents Announce Engagement of Helen Hunter

Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Hunter, of North Highland avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Lysle Hunter, to Lowell Townsend Copeland, of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Copeland, of Princeton, N. J., formerly of Chicago and Winnetka, Ill.

Miss Anna Smith, of Western avenue, entertained as her guests during the past week Mrs. William Curry and Miss Carrie Ullmann, of Philadelphia. They returned home Saturday.

Louise Morris Engaged To Wed Earle R. McLean

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Morris, of Oakland, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Morris, to Earle R. McLean, of Haverhill, Mass.

Miss Morris attended the Pratt Institute, ew York, and Carnegie Tech. He fiance is a graduate of the Lowell Textile Institute, Lowell, Mass., and a member of Delta Kappa Phi. At present he is a member of the research staff of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research at the University of Pittsburgh.

Summer Dance Dresses Made of Dainty Fabrics

PARIS.—Midsummer dance dresses for midsummer nights are really dreamlike. Of dainty and delicate fabrics, they cling to the body in most charming manner, fluttering out about the ankles for the slow-moving dances of the moment.

For midsummer dances, Jenny makes a delightful model, called Chloe, in black, white or pale blue. Of slenderest line, it is cut in elongated points which contribute to the close fit of the tips.

Mrs. E. C. Acheson, Jr., one of the popular members of the American colony, was seen at the Ambassadours recently in Worth's "Pensee de Jeanne" in two tones of gray, a half-and-half affair with the dark and light blended in perfect harmony. A short evening coat in the darker tone is lined with almond-green velvet, and Mrs. Acheson wears green slippers to match.

White still reigns supreme for the midsummer dance. Pale yellow, both in lace and in satin, is very popular, and a bright green faille frock was noticed at "Monseignur's" last week, which, by the way, is one of Paris' smartest dancing cabarets this season, and under Russian management, which is almost as good as saying "very chic, but cher."

Dark brown has been chosen for several midsummer evening gowns. Mrs. Cyrus McCormick is wearing a tete de negre crepe romain with diamante trimming on one shoulder-strap and on the belt. And Martial et Armand are showing a coffee-brown lace over a green slip, that would make any midsummer evening far lovelier than it happens to be.

Organdie Flower in Hat Matches Gown Material

Convention of Women's Welsh Club Opens

The formal opening of the seventeenth annual convention of the Women's Welsh Clubs of America took place at 9:30 this morning in the William Penn Hotel with the singing of the national anthem, prayer by Mrs. W. H. Williams, the address of welcome by the Pittsburgh Club president, Miss Elvira Bleadinghiser and response by Mrs. A. C. Vaughan, national president. Reports of the national officers took up the morning hours and the luncheon period was devoted to club songs and assembly singing. The clubs in the Pittsburgh district were hostesses. A memorial service, conducted by Mrs. T. Owen Charles, is a feature of the afternoon, the reports of the clubs completing the session.

Stunt Night

Tonight's attraction, and one of the high lights of the convention, will be the "gymanfa ganu," the sacred singing festival, which the Aliquippa and Braddock Male Choruses will present, with Miss Ethel Edwards as soloist.

Last night the Pittsburgh, New Kensington, Carnegie and Homestead clubs entertained the delegates with stunts. The Pittsburgh club's contribution was a circus in charge of Mrs. Lida Jones Smith.

New Kensington's women, directed by Mrs. Edith Hildreth and Miss Mary Morgan, did an original sketch showing why old people prefer the Welsh Home at Lakewood, O., which is supported by the clubs. Eighteen of the Homestead members depicted a day in school with Mrs. Lloyd Taggart as the teacher and Mrs. T. R. Davies directing.

Another original sketch, with a broken down flivver as the setting, was given by the Carnegie Club.

Catholic Daughters To Picnic With K. C.

Tuesday, July 21, has been set as the date for the joint picnic of the Catholic Daughters of America and the Knights of Columbus at Kennywood Park. Miss Catherine J. Monahan is general chairman; Mrs. Julia Manion, executive chairman, and Miss Nora B. King, state vice regent, is in charge of tickets.

Miss Katharyn Ferguson Marries Roy S. Rankin

On Monday afternoon Miss Katharyn Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rise Ferguson, of Coraopolis Heights, became the bride of Roy Stanley Rankin, of Avalon, at a quiet ceremony in the Ferguson home.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Anne Edith Ferguson. E. N. Wrenshall, of Bellevue, served as best man.

J. C. Ferguson, brother of the bride, and H. P. Rankin, brother of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Rankin left for a brief wedding trip and after July 15 will be at home in Coraopolis.

Pittsburgh Unit of Peace League Arranging for Reception of Caravan July 15-18

Members of the local branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom are making arrangements for the reception here of the peace caravan which the state league is sending out on a state-wide tour. The caravan will be in the Pittsburgh district July 15 to 18, during which time adjoining towns will be visited and meetings held in several places. Washington, Pa., will entertain the caravan on July 21.

To arouse interest in the caravan activities, Mrs. Norman W. Storer, president of the Pittsburgh branch, has sent out invitations for a garden party on Wednesday from 4 until 6 at her home in Reynolds street. Judge Sara Soffel will discuss current international questions, and Mrs. Rodger B. Stone will give appropriate readings.

Yesterday Mrs. Storer sent to League headquarters in Washington 115 petitions for world disarmament, each containing 36 signatures, which will be presented at the 1932 disarmament conference. Similar petitions are being circulated in 26 countries.

JOSEPH HORNE CO

CLASSICS ON AIR

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 24.—Will Oakland, who knows his Broadway and Etherway equally well, has some interesting angles on the radio-theater controversy. He doesn't deny that radio has brought about a change to Broadway, nor does he admit that radio is the cause of the blight which, producers claim, has fallen upon them. Listen to him a second and he'll tell you:

"There has always been a crowd of lay-offs in front of the Palace, and the crowd has always had alibis. Twenty years ago the alibis were excuses, now they're gags."

Oakland believes radio is the best alibi that has come to roost at Forty-seventh street and Broadway in a decade. The previous alibi which was born when "The Birth of a Nation" wore an S. R. O. sign, was the movies. Since the talkies a lot of vaudeville actors have obtained jobs doing the shorts; stars of the legitimate stage have signed dotted lines on fat contracts; musical comedy favorites earned more money in Hollywood than in years on Broadway. The movies were kind to the acting profession, so it changed its alibi.

Radio has been even kinder than the movies, he points out. It has taken entertainers who were mediocre on Broadway and given them national fame. They did as much for radio, to be sure, but their talent was one of the peculiar type that is at its best before a microphone.

"And what a blessing radio was to the character actor," continues Oakland. "In vaudeville Amos 'n' Andy would probably flop, as they did in their picture. Strictly speaking, this famous pair is just another blackface team. As a matter of fact, they lack the subtle humor of Moran and Mack, and I don't suppose either Correll or Gosden could go into a dance. This act got over on the air by reason of its characteristic Negro humor, its thoroughly human quality.

"Gosden and Correll actually work harder than any vaudeville team I know. They write six scripts a week and rehearse every day. They earn their big salary."

Take Broadway as a street, Oakland mentions the big flags over the Palace, the Paramount, the Capitol and the State, featuring often the names of radio stars. Such names as Morton Downey, Henry Burbig, Amos 'n' Andy, Rudy Vallee, Floyd Gibbons, all of whom radio made. And these theaters are pleasing the customers as is proved by the lines outside the box office. The listener is curious about the radio star; the voice is familiar, he wants to know the face. And successful nation-wide tours follow almost automatically upon radio fame.

* * *

Radio drama has never achieved the success of the stage version, nor even of the movie version. The public, says the Irish tenor, whose "Hello, hello everybody," always precedes his radio period, wants its pretty where it can get a good look at her. When lines and sound effects set the stage and only the voice is used for characterization, subtlety must necessarily go by the boards. Radio drama is more like the play of pre-war days. It cannot compete with the Broadway theater. Yet it employs about 1,200 people in a season, and age has, in this medium, a fair chance against youth.

* * *

What radio has done for the restaurant and night club side of Broadway is, or was, prosperity, declares Oakland.

"The radio audience steps out on regular evenings, to the tunes of the dance band it has listened to at home. They choose Lombardo, Lopez, Vallee, Tremaine, Larry Funk and others. And they spend their money in the places where the orchestras are heard.

"Radio has brought Broadway into the hinterlands, and from current reports they love it."

The Arden lipstick ensemble
IS INDISPENSABLE TO EVERY WARDROBE

Because it is imperative, in this era of harmonious make-up, to change your lipstick with your gown, Miss Arden has created the Arden lipstick Ensemble—an attractive case containing six beautiful, smooth, indelible lipsticks, in the six essential shades. Elizabeth Arden's new lipsticks do double duty. Not only do they make your lips exquisitely soft and alluring, but they furnish just the color note necessary for your face and costume to blend becomingly. Here in one charming box, are lipsticks for every costume! Ensemble case of six—$7.50. Each lipstick—$1.50.

CHARIOT (Lacquer red case)—Rich flame... high-spirited and gay... a very youthful color. It is good with costumes of green woodsy brown, black and with flame-colored frocks. It is very effective with white hair and good with red hair.

PRINTEMPS (Fern-green case)—Very becoming to pink and white skins. Printemps has been designed by Miss Arden to contribute to the success of pastel frocks, and also to wear with cool greens and blues. Especially lovely for the debutante and can be worn gaily with black and white as well as other shades.

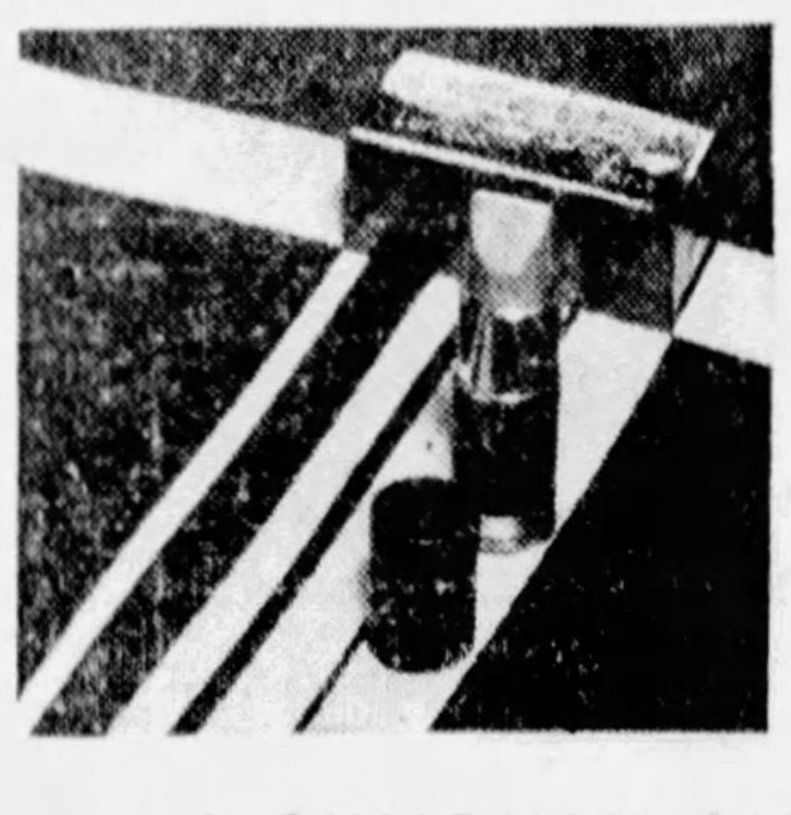
VICTOIRE (All black case)—Triumphant with a black costume! Rich and warm with an adaptability to skin tones that makes it becoming to both blondes and brunettes.

COQUETTE (Black case with oyster white top)—A deep red, with raspberry, winey tones. A dashing touch for the woman who likes a definite make-up.

VIOLA (Blue case)—True to the name, there is a hint of violet in this... just enough to make it perfect for wear with blue. It seems to make the skin whiter and the eyes more shadowy.

CARMENITA (Black case with silver top)—Another fascinating lipstick! Darker than Viola, and more likely to be the choice of brunettes, who will wear it with most dark colors.

The Arden Lipsticks, in all the new shades, may be purchased individually at $1.50.



MISS ARDEN'S NEW IDEAL SUNBURN OIL

is proving to be a splendid make-up accessory. Not only does it prevent blistering and insure uniformity in sun tan—it acts, also, as a perfect foundation for sports make-up. For golf, riding, tennis as well as swimming and beach-basking, it furnishes an ideal finish for the skin. $3.50.

CORBETT FIGHT

WE NOW PRESENT

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

Dear Mrs. Public: Since Mr. doesn't count, I'm writing to you. Really, it wouldn't be quite fair to ask you to tell Mr. what to say and then let him take all the credit for saying it.

I was just wondering, Mrs. Public, if you're going to let your husband listen to Gentleman Jim Corbett, the former boxer, tonight. You know, he's going to tell all about his fight with Joe Choynski over KDKA at 6:30 p. m. Now, if your husband is short and slender and wears a little mustache, don't you think listening to Jim Corbett fighting again will give him illusions of grandeur? But, again, it might insure his getting you a seat in the movies some night, don't you think? Or what do you think?

Of course, if you're Welsh and your husband isn't, you'll let him listen to Gentleman Jim so he'll let you listen to that Welsh broadcast from the same station at 7:15 p. m. Or will you?

And there won't be any harm in hearing big Kate Smith sing one of her "memory songs" over WJAS at Amos and Andy time. Kate, you know, sings the nicest kind of songs, and even the kids will keep quiet during her period. Even radio editors like it, I understand.

You know, her press agents have taken to sending out the awfullest stuff. All about fan mail and "unsolicited" letters. Just as though Kate wasn't enough, all by herself. Like that one about a Bronx woman on her eighty-first anniversary who sent a "thank-you" letter signed by herself, 51 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren when Kate sang a request. I'm much more interested in whether she signs her name in the plural or the singular, aren't you, Mrs. P.?

Did you know, Mrs. P., that Kathryn Trnavsky, that soprano who's singing over WCAE at 7:30 p. m., is a Pittsburgh girl? She is. What do you think about that song she's to sing, "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise?" Do you think it has anything to do with the financial depression? Maybe we won't have to wait much longer.

Did you ever hear rumba music, Mrs. P.? I didn't. So I'll be listening to Dick Robertson singing "When the Yuba Plays the Tuba Down in Cuba," at 10:30. And if you want to know me better, Mrs. P., you just listen in and we'll be like kindred spirits, won't we?

They can't tell much about modern marriage over the radio, can they? I suppose, Mrs. P., that you didn't tune in on that Dorothy Walworth Carman talk on "Marriage in the Suburbs" at 3:15 today, over KDKA. You know, Mrs. P., I think these catchy titles are enough to make me tune off and play checkers. You're always disappointed.

It's a shame that the kids have to go to bed early these days, because they might want to hear the story of Capt. Kidd over KQV at 9 p. m. Have a heart, Mrs. P., and remember when you were young. You wanted to stay up in the evenings, didn't you? Well, how about Percy and Annabelle and Fred and Johnnie? Oh, just another few minutes, please.

You know, I think that hearing "The Soldiers' Chorus" from Gounod's "Faust" is worth sitting through a lot of Greek folk tunes after 8:30 p. m., don't you? And then there's the march from the immortal Beethoven's "Ruins of Athens" to listen to, even if we tune out before Friml comes on the air. Over WCAE.

I've been sitting here wondering if Frank Roosevelt, better known as Franklin D., is going to pull one like he pulled on the bewildered governors in French Lick, Ind., recently, when he changed a tame subject without forewarning and went into a big hooray about dangers that threaten the country. He's slated for another tame subject over NBC-WEAF network — "Go to Camp." He won't be relayed over a Pittsburgh station, they tell me.

What do you think about all this, Mrs. P.? A nice wicker chair and Mr. P. to tune in for you makes a swell combination, doesn't it? That's as well as I can do today, anyhow, Mrs. P., and you'll have to leave it or, if you're much lazier than I think you are, take it.

Some Parents Seek Too Much From Their Youngsters

Why?

Well, you see she had Dear Daughter all trained to work diligently, and pass over to her the old pay check like a good girl, every Saturday night.

And now the minx has up 'n' married! And worse yet she expects hereafter to share her money with her husband and let poor mamma provide for herself.

MOTHER DISAPPROVES

"I've tried to show her how ungrateful she is," sobs mamma, asking us to finish the job. Will we? Watch us!

"My Dear Miss Martin:

"Perhaps you can help me out of this dilemma. No one else seems able to, and I don't know what to do.

"I have a daughter 23. She was on the stage and played in night clubs, since she was about 14. She made a good salary, all of which she gave to me. We had been great pals and I traveled with her most of the time.

"Now, she has gone and married a boy a few years older than herself . . . who only makes $75 a week, and I am almost crazy.

"I have tried to show her how ungrateful she has been, and how, if she had waited, she could have married a man with money, who could have given her all the luxuries of life . . . or perhaps she could have become a star, and had a grand career.

"I do not believe she really loves this boy, although he is kind to her, and comes of an excellent family.

WANTS THEIR MONEY

"I started a joint bank account for her and me, just the week she got married. Now she has added about $900 to it, and she tells me that her husband says this account should be changed to her name and his, as all the money in the bank in the first place was hers, from her earnings. And the $900 was saved from his salary and therefore I have no claim on it. She wants to be fair, but I tell her that if she saved it from his salary, it is hers. Otherwise it is half mine. Won't you please decide who is right?

MARION R."

Who's right?

You know as well as I do who's right, you old barnacle. Yep, I said barnacle and I mean barnacle. And I'd say a lot worse if the editor would let me. For you might as well know, right at the start, that I consider you the poorest excuse for a human being that this column has seen in many moons.

A Devoted Mother? You? Don't make me get violent. You're just a plain greedy grabby grafter. And you're sore because someone has spoiled your Soft Snap.

Why should you horn in on this money? Did you earn any of it? You admit yourself that you not only didn't, but that you lost no time putting your little girl's shoulder to the wheel for your benefit. You admit that you put her out to earn your living while she was still little more than a baby in rompers . . .

NOT UNGRATEFUL

Lady, you could give Capone points on running a racket!

So she might have "married better"—or carved herself out a career if she'd just listened to you, eh? And she doesn't really "love" the boy she married? Tell me another! You're not worried for your own sake. And you're sore at him because he bulged in on your little private Slave Mart, and whisked your victim out of your clutches.

I could say a lot more, but I won't. I'll leave that to some of the real mothers who read this column . . . some of the real mothers who have slaved and sacrificed to give their youngsters a chance, and who are anxious for the happiness of those youngsters and not about what they can get out of them.

Smart Summer Frock

Pattern 1918

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

There's a decided feeling of femininity in this model as well as the sports trend of simplicity and youth. The yoke effect and pointed seaming, so flattering to all figures, are two of fashion's most favored details this season and adaptable to the delightful cottons and wash silks that make up so smartly. The skirt flares just enough for freedom and grace. You'll like the low neck back for warm weather. A colored leather belt and a few pearl buttons add a chic note.

Obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch fabric. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Now—Skin 3 to 5 Shades Whiter Overnight

Way Found to Remove Ugly Flaws

Now—women are discovering this new, scientific way to remove weather stains, freckles, blackheads, roughness and wrinkles—and overnight make the skin whiter—three to five shades whiter. It is without question, the safest and surest way known to make the skin beautiful, all pink and white—and keep it that way.

Instead of wasting your good money on costly creams and newfangled, fancy-named lotions, just get three ounces of Orchard White from any druggist and follow the easy directions. Pat a little into the skin at bedtime and by morning you can see a big improvement. Ugly flaws disappear. The skin gets whiter and soon it is satiny smooth, youthfully fresh and beautiful. What's more, it stays that way. For in Orchard White there's a remarkable ingredient not found in any other preparation. It preserves the beauty of the skin and protects it from the ravages of the wind, rain, sun and dirt. If you really want a smooth, soft, beautiful pink and white skin—try this successful way. You'll be happy that you did.

There is never a dull day for those who read their newspaper and it seems to me that life is worth living just to see what may happen next.

Good news. Bad news. Amazing news. Sad news.

Another's troubles help us to better bear our own.

To read of good fortune pleases us almost as if it had happened to us.

To read of brave deeds stirs our admiration. Adventure and discoveries stir our imagination.

Madge Determines to End Veritzen's Pursuit of Her

"Auntie Madge, Auntie Madge! What's the matter?"

Mary's anxious young voice came dully to my ears, and I hardly felt her firm hand upon my shoulder, as I sagged against the cushions of my favorite chair in the library. I had slumped into it the second Philip Veritzen's back had disappeared into the little room where he had said he would wait for me, and I comprehended faintly that I must have come near swooning. Mary's voice was the anxious one used in dealing with a fainting person, and Noel's voice supplemented hers.

"What can I do? Shall I call my father?"

The suggestion was like a spur, and I straightened in my chair.

"No," I said, forcibly. "I shall be all right in a minute. I want you both to go out of here, and try to keep anyone except Mrs. Bickett from coming in for a minute. Ask her quietly to come to me at once."

"Perfectly sure, but go quickly."

My voice was explosive, though low, for I wished no hint of my plight to reach Philip Veritzen in the next room, and they hurried away. It seemed an eternity, though less than a minute when Katherine hurried into the room and closed the door softly behind her. Then at her first look at me, locked it.

"Steady," she said, and, moving swiftly to a lavatory opening from the library where she keeps an emergency shelf of remedies, she brought me back some drops, which I recognized as a powerful stimulant she keeps for my mother-in-law's occasional attacks, and put them to my lips.

"Swallow this, then lean back and keep perfectly still until I tell you you can speak," she said. "Shut your eyes."

I obeyed her, feeling her steady fingers upon my pulse, but it was not until several minutes after I felt the rousing effects of the stimulant, that she took her fingers from my pulse and spoke.

"You may open your eyes now," she said, "while I think out how I can get you upstairs without this mob outside catching sight of you."

I put out my hand and caught hers.

"But I can't leave now, Katherine," I said. "It's out of the question. There is something I must do. Tomorrow I'll do whatever you wish—obey you implicitly—"

"Yes, I think you will," she said, and there was something in her eyes. Was it possible that she—but she was speaking again, imperatively, and I listened with rising panic.

"And you'll obey me tonight, too," she said. "I'm not going to be responsible for—"

"You won't be," I clutched her hand frantically. "Katherine! Listen! Haven't I always obeyed all your professional edicts unquestioningly?"

"Yes; and you're going to keep on obeying."

"Not now!" I sprang to my feet, desperation giving me strength." I promise you, dear, that when I have greeted my guests and attended to something I have promised to do, I will turn over the hostess job to Lillian and go upstairs with you, and stay there—that is, if you still think it wise for me. But not for you or anybody can I go now."

She put her fingers on my pulses again, then looked at me searchingly.

"All right," she said.

I did as she advised, and a minute later, having, by good luck, crossed the hall unobserved, I was in the living room greeting the merry party from The Larches. I took particular care to speak to each one of the group of young people, who, resplendent in dinner coats and evening gowns, made a beautiful picture of the evergreen-decked rooms. I spent several minutes with Helena Brixton, whose eyes kept searching the rooms—I guessed for the appearance of Mr. Veritzen, and I went down to the basement and warned Dicky and Harry that they both could not stay down in the playroom, that they must take turns until Junior and Roderick went to bed, in coming upstairs and entertaining the guests.

"All right. I'll take the first beat," Dicky said, slipping his hand through mine and rushing me up the stairs. I was a bit dismayed for I was not sure how I could get away for more than a minute or two without his inquiring for me, unless, indeed, I used a direct falsehood. But to my relief Helena Brixton hailed him as soon as we reached the stairs.

"This is never allowed," she said gaily—"talking to your own wife. Let me have him?" she laughed impudently at me.

"With pleasure," I returned as lightly, making a little face at Dicky. Then I went straight to Lillian and Katherine, drew them out of earshot of the crowd, and told them of what Philip Veritzen had promised Noel and Mary.

"That's the reason, then," Lillian commented, "that they look as if they had just ascended into the seventh heaven. But—you witch. However did you do it? Oh! You don't need to deny it. There's nobody else—"

"Never mind that now," I said crossly. "Mr. Veritzen was interrupted in talking over the final details by the arrival of the Brixton party, and I promised to come back and see him about them. He's in the little room off the library, and—and—"

"Naturally you don't want the Dicky-bird flapping his wings in that direction," Lillian replied easily, and I was furious that I could not keep my cheeks from flushing. "We'll do our little best, though we can't promise."

But Katherine went with me into the side hall.

"Take things easy," she warned. "Don't get excited. It's very bad for you."

Again that odd inscrutable look at me, which, curiously enough, was far more exciting than anything which Philip Veritzen could say to me. And I knocked at the little door adjoining the library with nerves keyed to the breaking point.

At my knock Philip Veritzen opened the door, and when he had shut it again after me.

"Sit down," Mr. Veritzen said, softly, and I felt his hands upon my arms as he put me into a big chair. I sank into it gracefully, for my knees were shaking, and all up and down my spine was the sensation known to sufferers from nerves of a giant hand seizing the muscles and twisting them agonizingly. I was glad, indeed, that my employer, who had drawn up a chair opposite me, seemed disinclined for speech. His silence, his apparent preoccupation, for his eyes were fixed upon the floor, gave me a chance to pull myself together, and when he finally looked up and his eyes met mine, I was calmer, better able to cope with whatever the next few minutes might hold for me.

For I knew that I must meet and vanquish for all time, something unpleasant, something which I had been warding off for months, but which now—I could read it in my employer's brilliant eyes with the steady flame in their depths—I could put off no longer.

How to Keep Well

Sunlight and Growing Child

Abundant sunlight is of tremendous importance in the development of an infant. Like a flower, the child thrives and blossoms in its presence and withers in its absence.

Dr. Copeland

Sunlight is absolutely necessary for the proper growth of a baby. Though food may be plentiful, without sunlight the body cannot properly utilize the food.

It is a well known fact that absence of sunlight or its substitute, cod liver oil, produces a condition in children known as rickets. This disease is characterized by poor development of the bones of the body, by flabby muscles of the body and marked undernourishment.

Years before the actual value of sunlight was understood, it was customary to feed cod liver oil to all children. Today, with our knowledge of the ultraviolet ray and the place of the vitamins, very little cod liver oil is necessary.

It is important to remember that sunlight is only beneficial when the rays actually reach the skin. Window glass and clothing keep out the beneficial rays. When tanning of the skin occurs, one can be assured that the beneficial rays of the sun have reached the body.

Sun baths may be given to an infant as early as the third or fourth week. The child should not be exposed too suddenly.

The first treatment may be for three minutes to the front of the body and three minutes to the back. The length of exposure may be gradually increased until the baby has a coat of tan. Then for a half hour or more he may frolic in the sun without any clothes.

I am often asked as to whether or not the sunlight is injurious to the eyes. As long as the rays do not strike the eyes directly there is no injury. When a child is very young, as in the first month of life, it is well to keep the face turned away from the sun while giving a sun bath.

They Must Be All Ready

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

There has been a general discussion between "A" and "B" as to just when wedding announcements should be sent out.

"A" says that they should be sent out before the wedding, and "B" says they should be sent out after.

A. L. H.

Marriage announcements, which tell us that the marriage ceremony has taken place, are sent out after the ceremony has taken place. They are usually mailed the evening of the day of the marriage. Of course, they must be all ready beforehand.

Bridge Tea'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am giving a bridge tea at our country club as a shower in honor of a dear friend who is to be married. We shall have a private room in which to hold the bridge.

I know that a hostess does not usually wear a hat for an afternoon function when she entertains in her own home, but should I wear one when I am welcoming guests into a private room at the club?

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES:

(1) Under the title, "Know Your Own City," the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph will publish a series of cartoons to run consecutively for 40 days, starting Sunday, May 17. All of these cartoons will represent a public thoroughfare in the territory commonly included in Pittsburgh, and prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the neatest and most nearly correct sets of pictures and answers.

(2) A total of $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded, divided as indicated in another part of this announcement.

(3) This offer is open to all except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families. You pay nothing. Files of the Sun-Telegraph are available at the Public Library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, and you may make tracings of the cartoons if you desire.

(4) Answers in the contest are not to be submitted until the entire set of 40 has been printed. After the last (No. 40) cartoon has appeared, entrants will be allowed 15 days to submit their sets of answers. They are to be addressed to the "Know Your Own City" Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(5) All answers submitted become the property of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and none will be returned. The judges will be appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

NOTE—Additional Winners in the "Know Your Own Home Town" Contest Will Be Announced Next Sunday.

BUC SLAB TRIO WINS ONLY ONE GAME

THE REINFORCEMENT of the Pirate pitching staff may not end with Charley Wood's belated arrival at form. There is a strong possibility that another addition will be made to the list of available flingers at an early date in the person of Steve Swetonic. The North Sider, who has been in dry dock all season following an operation on his hulring arm, is to break into action for the first time during the present eastern trip, according to the plans of Manager Ens, and the skipper is confident that once Steve has had a real chance to limber up he will be able to take his regular turn on the hill.

Steve Swetonic

The Swetonic case is just one of the exhibits in a Pirate pitching situation that shows how little faith can be placed in early spring signs in baseball. When the Bucs started on their training trip, Manager Ens appeared to have no better mound bets than Ervin Brame, Wood and Swetonic. Those three seemed certain to carry successfully through the year a large part of the Pittsburgh club's hurling burden.

NO ONE DREAMED at that time that when the end of June drew near the contribution of the promising trio to the Pirate cause would amount to only a single victory. But that's the disappointing state of affairs. Brame, Wood and Swetonic have won exactly one ball game in 10 weeks.

Swetonic hasn't pitched at all. Wood has lost four games and has gone the distance only once in four starts, and Brame is charged with six defeats against the lone decision he turned in on May 24 at Chicago. Even in that solitary success Brame failed to go the route, as Glenn Spencer had to be sent to his rescue.

THE THREE PIRATE moundsmen named have not been the only backward pitchers in the major leagues this year. It has been a bad season for a great many pitchers who were counted on at the start to do big things for their respective clubs.

For instance, Sheriff Blake hasn't won a single game for the Cubs and hasn't pitched a complete contest in nine appearances on the slab. Jack Quinn didn't win a game for the Robins until June 20 after taking part in 19 engagements.

GEORGE PIPGRAS has been in 12 games for the Yankees without breaking into the victory column. Garland Braxton has yet to win a decision for the White Sox and Urban Faber has contributed only one. Bill Shores, of the A's, and Pete Donohue, of the Giants and Indians, are without a victory to show for their labors. Benny Frey and Hollis Thurston have copped just once for the Reds and Robins. Ted Lyons, who won 22 games for the White Sox last year, has won only two in 1931. Milt Gaston, of the Red Sox, Jakie May, of the Cubs, Flint Rhem, of the Cards, Ray Phelps, of the Robins, and Billy Sherdel, of the Braves, have been successful only twice each, while pitchers of more than ordinary rank who have won only three games include Red Lucas, Carl Hubbell, Dolf Luque, Waite Hoyt, Alphonse Thomas, Phil Collins and George Blaeholder.

Battling Battalino

ANOTHER TITLE FIGHT is on the bills for tonight, with Battling Battalino defending the world featherweight crown in a 10-round bout with Bobby Brady in Bayonne, N. J., but Brady doesn't shape up as a challenger with sufficient class to unseat the champion.

It would be an instance of the irony of fistic fate if Battalino, after upsetting the dope by defeating such stars as Kid Chocolate and Fidel LaBarba, against whom he was thought not to have a chance, were dethroned by a seemingly harmless opponent. But the latter isn't at all likely to happen. Battalino must feel that he has nothing to fear, or he wouldn't be putting up his title again so soon after the LaBarba risk.

GEORGE UHLE has had three encounters with the Senators this season and all went into extra innings, with the Detroit hurler losing two of them in spite of fine pitching. In the last two games in particular Uhle's support on the offensive has dropped practically to zero.

On June 5 at Washington he had to shut out the Senators for 11 innings to win over Sam Jones, 1 to 0, and in Detroit yesterday he blanked the Johnsons for nine rounds, only to lose to Fred Marberry, 4 to 0, in 10 stanzas. Thus in two consecutive games Uhle pitched two shutouts, as measured by the nine-inning standard, and held the Senators runless for 20 straight innings, but his mates scored only one run behind him during that time and all that he got out of it was an even break.

YOUNG STRIBLING will have a big edge on Max Schmeling on the score of experience when they tangle next week. A summing up by Wilbur Wood shows that the Georgian has engaged in 258 bouts since he started boxing professionally in 1921, though some of them in which he was meeting his chauffeur and other tankers while making a Carnera tour could hardly be called real fights. He scored 116 knockouts, real and otherwise, won 84 decisions, took two on fouls, boxed 16 draws, lost seven decisions, was disqualified twice and engaged in 31 no-decision events. In all he has boxed 1,831 rounds. Schmeling, starting in 1924, has engaged in 51 bouts for a total of 295 rounds. He scored 30 knockouts, won 16 decisions, was disqualified twice, lost one decision, was knocked out once and won once on a foul.

PITTSBURGHER, THE CRACK horse owned by Theodore E. Mueller, of this city, which ran Mate to a nose finish in a brilliant renewal of the American Derby at Chicago, will be given a chance to turn the tables next Saturday when the rivals will come together again in the Latonia Derby at Latonia, Ky.

Other American Derby participants listed to start in the Latonia are Joey Bibb, Oswego, Knight's Call, Spanish Play and The Mongol. The Latonia will be a harder test than either the Kentucky or the American Derby, as the distance is a mile and a half, or a quarter of a mile longer than either of the other stakes named.

George Ellis

IT TAKES A STOUT-hearted horse to win at that distance, and supporters of Pittsburgher are confident that in this respect the Mueller colt will not suffer by comparison with Mate or any other starter.

"I think the extra quarter mile will help Pittsburgher," says J. H. Moody, the Mueller trainer, "and as he is in grand shape, don't be surprised if he beats Mate. Another thing in Pittsburgher's favor is that, like his daddy, he gets better as the season grows older.

"THE SIRE OF Owner Mueller's colt, In Memoriam, ran his best races in the late summer and early fall, improving constantly, and Pittsburgher is doing the same thing. Mate is a great colt, but I think we can beat him in the Latonia. I have never seen a closer finish than that in the American Derby. It could easily have been called a dead heat without doing either horse an injustice." "Pittsburgher is a good, game horse," declared Jockey George Ellis, who rode Mate in the American, and who will ride him again Saturday. "I expected to see him quit when we caught him in the stretch, but he refused to do so, and gave us the battle of our lives in the last 50 yards."

SHIELDS, WOOD, MISS JACOBS ADVANCE

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24.—The first serious American casualty in the Wimbledon tennis tournament occurred today when George M. Lott, Jr., was eliminated in the third round of play in the men's singles by H. G. N. Lee, of Great Britain, in straight sets, 7-5, 7-5, 7-5.

Lott played a good game, but was beaten by Lee's terrific cross-court shots and superb lobbing. The American was guilty of some overslicing and pushed many shots into the net.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., young American hopeful, advanced to the fourth round with a straight-set victory over E. Maier, Spain's leading player, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Frank X. Shields, America's number one in the tournament, scored a surprisingly easy victory over the German youngster, E. Nourney, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, to enter the last 16.

SPANISH GIRL LOSES

Miss D. E. Round, unseeded and only seventh on the British list, defeated Elia de Alvarez, Spanish champion and fifth seeded star, in a second round match, 6-3, 6-3.

H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's ranking player, defeated the veteran Frenchman, Jacques Brugnon, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Jean Borotra, French favorite for the title, found the strokes of R. Miki, of Japan, to his liking and won as he pleased, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

Christian Boussus, of France, disposed of M. Kawachi, of Japan, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4, in a third-round match.

Miss Betty Nuthall, England's chief hope to regain the women's title, eliminated Miss B. Feltham, also of England, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2.

SHUTE LEADS IN CUP GOLF

SCIOTO COUTRY CLUB, COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—(AP.)—Densmore Shute, of Cleveland, turned in a brilliant 35, one under par, to assume a one-stroke lead over Frank Walsh, of Chicago, and a three-stroke margin over Henry Ciuci, of Bridgeport, Conn., at the half-way mark of their 18-hole play-off for the extra place on the American Ryder Cup team today.

The three tied for fourth place on the team in the 72-hole qualifying test which ended yesterday with 302 each.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: "OLD ABE," THE EAGLE THAT WENT TO WAR—"Old Abe," a living specimen of the U. S., emblematical bird, was captured by the Indians of the Chippewa River and purchased from them by an Eau Claire (Wis.) regiment in 1861. The company, known as the "Badgers," of the 8th Wisconsin Regiment, which then was forming, promptly adopted "Old Abe" as its pet. The eagle was "sworn" into the United States service by a symbolical decoration and started on its military career. Borne aloft with the regimental colors, it participated in 50 battles and skirmishes. After the Civil War it returned to Wisconsin and became an honorary charge of the state. It died in 1881 and its stuffed body was one of the war relics of the state of Wisconsin. BERNIE NEIS—The first home run in the first game of the 1931 season in the American Association was made by Bernie Neis, first batter of the Minneapolis club, on the first ball pitched by Johnny Marcum, who was pitching his first game of any season with the Louisville club.

TOMORROW: THE GREATEST MAN-EATER IN HISTORY.

SPARRING MATE PASTES MAX

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling plunged into his final week of training yesterday to receive the surprise of his training campaign. The fireworks were exploded by Natie Brown, a San Francisco heavyweight, who landed in camp a few days ago, broke, but with a desire to fight.

They sent Brown against the world's heavyweight champion in his first two rounds of boxing, and he unpleasantly gave Max the best workout the champion has experienced in his 16 days of boxing. As a reward for being fed at the sparring partners' training table, Brown tore into the champion like he was an ordinary $400 fighter and punched holes in Schmeling's defense.

Schmeling took revenge on Steve Simon, the Erie (Pa.) string bean, and George Panka, Pittsburgh heavyweight, who followed Brown into the ring for two rounds of boxing. Neither Simon nor Panka looked very impressive against the champ.

Two Kiski Stars To Enroll at Tech

Two star Kiski athletes are among those who have recently filed entrance applications for Carnegie Tech. They are George Goodrich, of Washington, Pa., and Wilbur Plummer, of Coshockton, O. If their credits are accepted, they will marticulate in the fall and beocme candidates for the Plebe football team.

Goodrich is a very clever end and Plummer is a giant tackle, weighing over 200 and standing obut 6 feet 3 inches.

Dr. Gregg Loses Title; Learns Of Trophy

Dr. George T. Gregg, national and erstwhile West Penn senior golf champion, found out something yesterday after he had failed to defend his title at the Oakmont Country Club.

"Going to give the cup to Mr. Smith now or later?" he was asked.

"The cup? Why, I only found out 10 minutes ago there was such a thing as a cup emblematic of the championship. I've held the championship for a year—but, frankly, I've never seen the cup."

N. PARK LINKS OPEN FRIDAY

John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County Parks, has announced that Director of County Parks Paul B. Riis will formally open the first nine holes of the North Park course at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon. County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong will drive the first ball, while he will be followed by Commissioners E. V. Babcock and C. C. McGovern and Director Riis.

Public links stars, headed by Carl F. Kauffmann, four times national public links champion, will give an exhibition prior to opening of the course for public use.

MARATHON CARDED

WOMEN OPEN NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Today, once again, after two sessions of dampness and disappointment, contestants in the forty-third annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships will seek satisfactory period of action, resumption of men's singles play and inauguration of festivities in women's singles and men's doubles featuring a program that will keep busy the Stanton Heights net lot until darkness descends. Terrific rain put a sudden and complete quietus on competition yesterday afternoon and so jammed up the progress of events that unless performers appear promptly wholesale defaulting will be absolutely necessary and even more absolutely enforced.

In a third attempt since last Saturday, John Bosson, Charleroi lad, and Olly Jones, Bridgeville blond, sought yesterday to conclude their initial-round imbroglio, only to see downpour halt the going.

MEN'S SINGLES

Yesterday's summary:

Second round: Upper half—V. K. Glidden defeated Paul Wilhelm, 6-2, 6-0.

Lower half—Walter Arensberg won from Willis McCabe, 6-1, 5-2 and default; Carlton E. Hughes defeated Charles A. Wood, Jr., 6-4, 7-5.

Fight Results

IRISH COACH STRICKEN

CHICAGO, June 24.—(INS.)—Heartly (Hunk) Anderson, who succeeded Knute Rockne as football coach at Notre Dame, today was en route to the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., suffering from a severe attack of sinus trouble and a nervous breakdown.

He was taken from train to train in Chicago on a wheel chair, and showed the signs of his illness in sharply drawn lines on his face and a 14-pound weight reduction in the last five days.

It was said that Anderson had been treated daily for five weeks, but had concealed his illness until spring training practice was completed at Notre Dame. Since last Thursday he has been confined to his bed.

Knockouts Feature Amateur Mitt Show

Two knockouts featured the initial outdoor amateur boxing show of the season under the auspices of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. in its North Side arena last night. The summary:

JOHNNY O'BRIEN WEDS

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP.)—Johnny O'Brien, Los Angeles, who played end on the late Knute Rockne's Notre Dame football eleven last fall, and Miss Leona M. Martin, also of Los Angeles, were married here yesterday.

FREDDIE RATED WITH LEADING OUTFIELDERS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Although he has not reached the middle of his first season in his new position, Freddie Lindstrom, of the Giants, already is rated with Hazen Cuyler, Lloyd Waner and other luminaries of the outfield.

The brilliance of the converted third baseman is the talk of the league, the Pirates being especially warm on the subject, for Lindy already has deprived the Buccos of several victories by his sparkling work on line drives, dizzy lofts and ground balls.

The foul line meets the wall at very close quarters, thereby making it imperative that a fellow have grace and fine timing to prevent serious clashes with the concrete. Down in the right center there is plenty of room for sprints, it being in this long area that Fred robbed Gus Suhr of a home run that cost the Pirates a victory a few days ago. And the next day he slipped up the wall and took another extra-base hit from Gus.

Lindstrom has one advantage over Cuyler and the other stars. He can play ground balls with better sureness on account of his infield experience. Many years ago another great third baseman left the post to become one of the best outfielders in the league. The identity of this performer is no secret to thousands of Pirate fans. His name was Tommy Leach. Tommy the Wee in some respects was the equal of Lloyd Waner. He was an exceptional judge of a ball and was no bargain at the plate or on the bases.

The Pirates and Robins were idle yesterday because of rain, their scheduled double-header being canceled.

OLYMPIC GRID GAME SET

By WALLACE X. RAWLES.
International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—The biggest athletic show on earth, the Olympic games, today had another star attraction, a gridiron symphony under the stars!

An added feature will be brother pitted against brother, coaches of opposing teams, in this football titanic.

The "Big Three" of the East, Yale, Harvard and Princeton, under the direction of Tad Jones, formerly coach at Yale, will clash with the "Big Three" of the West, Stanford, University of Southern California, and the University of California, under the direction of Tad's brother, Howard, Trojan head mentor.

The game will be played Monday night, August 8, 1932, as the demonstration of a national sport provided in the program of games of the tenth Olympiad in Southern California from July 30 to August 14, 1932.

Presidents and boards of control of the six universities have agreed to the game, which will be played strictly under the sanction and supervision of the six schools represented.

The two groups of coaches, East and West, will select their players from football squads of six schools next spring. All players will be seniors.

YALE WINS TITLE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 24.—Yale won the Big Three baseball championship here yesterday by defeating Harvard in 10 innings, 4 to 3.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian

DETROIT, June 24. — There may be an economic depression, but you don't catch Connie Mack marking down his 1931 inventory. He can write Grove, Earnshaw, Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx on his ledger in black ink plus. When Grove is in the box, the other team goes into the game humming "I Surrender, Dear," and the other day in Chicago Earnshaw walked eight men and still won the game. If that guy ever played roulette he would win the bank at Monte Carlo. This year Connie has a well-oiled machine right down to the last grease cup. If our Washington club can't chuck a monkey-wrench into Connie's machine, we are going to try tacks under his tires.

BOBBY JONES' Lessons in Golf

By Robt T Jones Jr

American Open and Amateur Champion and Former British Open and Amateur Champion

Bobby Jones

It is certainly an old and familiar saying that any one man has to be lucky to win an open championship, and this is true even of one who may be entitled to be considered the best man in the field. This may be a bit hard for some people to appreciate—why it is not possible to pick even three or four men and say that the winner will be one of the three or four.

Of course, one of the chief reasons is the almost unbelieveable inconsistency of form. I have seen any number of instances where a man would be playing perfect golf right up to the day before a tournament and then become suddenly helpless when the competition had gotten under way. And on the other hand, I have seen reversals just as startling in the other direction. The case of Gene Sarazen at Winged Foot in 1929 is a fine example.

I played with Gene in a fourball the day before the Open began, and in all the time I have known him, I have never seen him play so badly, and that, at the time, embraced a stretch of over 10 years. Every shot was going wrong. His score was in the middle 80s somewhere and I had not the slightest idea that he would be able to pull his game sufficiently together to even make a showing. Yet Gene led off right off the bat with two fine rounds and was in the fight right up to the last nine holes. He didn't win, but he did just what a winner has to be lucky enough to do—find his game at the right time.

FORM OFTEN CHANGES

And then there was Roland MacKenzie at Minikahda in the amateur of 1927. I likewise played a practice round with Roland just prior to the tournament, and found him so discouraged over his game that he was seriously considering taking the next train home to avoid the humiliation of failing to qualify. Yet he did qualify, began to play very excellent golf, and was beaten only in the semi-final on the thirty-seventh green by Chick Evans. Two days before the tournament Roland would not have dreamed that he would go half that far.

But I think the most dreadful things are the sudden disasters that can befall one in an open championship. It is impossible to explain or account for them. They simply happen, and that's all there is to it. You will be going along serenely enough with no particular worries on your mind when BANG—there goes a seven or an eight, and you can't figure out how it happened.

STROKES EASILY LOST

In the last round of this same championship at Winged Foot which I mentioned a few seconds before, I was moving along quite satisfactorily through the seventh hole. I had started off in the 2nd and was hitting the ball just as well as I could want to, a stroke better than par through No. 7, and reports kept coming back to me that everybody else was blowing up. I needed two fours to be out in 35 and there would be nothing more to the championship. At the eighth hole I cut my second shot only a little bit into a bunker at the right of the green. Still that was all right—I had strokes to spare. But I blasted from that bunker across the green into one on the other side, and from there back to the one I had been in first, and before I knew it, I had rolled up a seven.

Instead of being calm and confident as I had been up to that point, I was now rattled and afraid of my shadow. I picked up another seven coming home and only managed to tie by the grace of good fortune and my early lead. I might just as well have played myself out of the tournament on that eighth hole.

There is no way to say who will win an open championship until the last putt is in the hole. A lead of three or four strokes may look big enough on the scoreboards, but only one seven or eight is needed to wipe it out completely. And don't forget that such things happen in the best regulated families.

By HARRY KECK

With both the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, and Hickey Park, in Millvale, vieing for boxing matches that will draw the shekels through the turnstiles in these parlous times, the matchmakers of both clubs profess to be at their wits' ends trying to dope out contests that offer some prospect of paying dividends. So far the outdoor season has been anything but a howling success financially, yet a little study of the situation reveals the fact that a number of interesting matches might be made with a little effort and they would not play to many empty seats.

So barren has the field seemed to the clubs that we recently have seen such one-sided matches staged as that between Sammy Dorfman and Eddie Brannon and Archie Bell and Jimmy Thomas, neither of which figured to be close, due to the comparative inexperience of the local contestants. Jack (Kid) Berg, the erstwhile junior welterweight champion, also was fed a sure victim in the person of Ray Kiser, while Baby Joe Gans and Jackie Brady were brought in for a match that was wholly lacking in local appeal. In the last few days a suggestion has been made that Mose Butch, who has not yet had a main bout at a major club, be matched with Midget Wolgast, flashy flyweight champion of the world—another sure-fire "kill" of a local prospect.

BIG NAMES NO LURE

It is a recognized fact that the fight fans of this community rank with the most intelligent anywhere. They know a good match when they see one, and they are not stampeded by so-called "big names" unless the boxer with a reputation is paired with an opponent who figures to make matters interesting for him. They would rather see two well-matched local rivals, of little standing outside their home community, in an earnest battle for supremacy than to see a champion slap about a helpless setup.

Here are a few suggestions out of which matches might develop that would pay the promoters not large but reasonable profits for their labors:

Buck McTiernan vs. Ben Jeby, who has beaten Len Harvey and fought a final middleweight elimination with Vince Dundee, now rated at No. 1 in the division with the abdication of Mickey Walker, the champion.

MANY M'TIERNAN FOES

A return bout between McTiernan and Bucky Lawless, who also holds a disputed decision over him.

A return bout between McTiernan and Ignacio Ara, who recently knocked him out in a bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, after McTiernan had led up to the time he was floored for the first time in the seventh round.

A return bout between Jimmy Thomas and Willie Davies, as a result of the hooted decision in favor of Thomas over the veteran at Hickey Park.

A bout between Davies and Butch.

WOLGAST VS. BELL AGAIN

A return bout between Midget Wolgast and Archie Bell, whose only defeat in local rings in four starts was by Wolgast in Motor Square Garden last winter, Bell having beaten Jackie Rodgers, Willie Davies and Jimmy Thomas decisively here.

A bout between either Spiegel

GROGAN CUP PLAY ON

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Two big events, the Grogan Cup matches, emblematic of team supremacy between Highland and Shannopin Country clubs at Highland, and a one-day tournament of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania at the Alcoma Country Club, are the books for today.

R. W. Smith

With the Shannopin players eager to overcome the meager lead attained by Highland in the first half of the 36-hole test, the Highland crew is expected to be given a real run for their money this afternoon. About 200 are expected to compete before the day is done.

Two club matches are on today's books. Match play against par, under three-fourths handicap for women, at Valley Heights, and medal play for the monthly women's trophy, at Chartiers Heights, are carded.

BOB SMITH CHAMP

A real granddaddy today is strutting his stuff as the Western Pennsylvania seniors' champion. R. W. (Bob) Smith, of the Greensburg and Hannastown country clubs, is the new king, supplanting the popular Oakmonter, Dr. George T. Gregg, national seniors' champion, by only three strokes, when he scored an 81 at the Oakment Country Club yesterday.

It was through trial and tribulation that Smith came through to grab the honors, but, in the end, he played the best golf of the day, and is well deserving of the honors given him. Smith was out in 38, one more than par, which was as well as almost any young man would care to have—and Bob, as his intimate friends call him endearingly, is 55 years of age.

TIE FOR SECOND

Dr. Gregg and Jack McGhee, popular Chartiers Heights veteran star, tied for second low gross honors with their 84s.

Had it not been for Smith's 7 on the eighteenth hole, drenched and continuing under wretched golfing conditions, he would have been the only man in the field to break 80. Last week at Greensburg he scored a 74 on his own ball in a pro-amateur event—so if you play with Bob don't give him too many strokes.

The British Ryder Cup team may play a team of local professionals at the Oakmont Country Club after their contesting in Columbus, it has been reported. No date has been set.

The Princeton Alumni Association is holding a tournament at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today in conjunction with its annual meeting.

MID-ATLANTIC LEADERS LOSE

The Colts swatted two Clarksburg pitchers for 12 hits, and Clarksburg committed seven errors and garnered only five safe blows, yet Cumberland lost, 2 to 0. The Colts only committed a single error, too, which makes it all the tougher.

While Cumberland was being blanked, the Charleston Senators were having their lead cut, losing to Beckley, 2 to 1. Harmon pitched a three-hit game for Beckley.

Altoona slugged out a 10-to-8 win over Charleroi, pounding out a total of 20 safe drives. Scottdale walloped Huntington, 15 to 3, and then lost, 12 to 9. Johnstown blanked Wheeling, 17-0, Lefty Brinker setting the Stogies down with three hits.

Tri-State Women Net Stars Win

BALTIMORE, June 24.—(AP.)—Miss Margaret Carspecken, of Morgantown, W. Va., yesterday fought her way into the quarter-finals of the Maryland women's state tennis tournament by winning three matches.

She defeated Mrs. Robertson Griswold, 6-1, 6-0; Mrs. L. H. Cohen, 6-1, 6-0; and Mary Bartlett Gibbs, 6-4, 6-3.

Mrs. De Lloyd Thompson, of Washington, Pa., the defending champion, won her match, eliminating Mrs. Ruth Martinex, of Washington, 7-5, 6-2.

BRADLEY BEATS GRAYS

For the second time in as many seasons, Jimmy Bradley, young southpaw pitcher, of the South Side, last evening defeated the Homestead Grays, crack local Negro team. Pitching for Dormont, of the City League, at Dormont, he triumphed, 9-7, allowing 11 hits and fanning six of the Grays. Last year he halted a Grays' winning streak while pitching for Stowe.

YALE LINKSMAN TOPS LOCAL PLAYER

OLYMPIA FIELDS COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, June 24.—(AP.)—Jack Reese, diminutive Yale University golfer from Johnstown, Pa., started the parade into the second round of the national intercollegiate golf tournament today with a 3-and-1 victory over John Denny St. Clair, of Kiski, playing for Williams.

Reese had a par 4 left for a 73, although he did not play it out. A stymie stopped him on the first hole, which was halved, but he won the advantage at the short sixth with a birdie. He lost it on the next hole and they made the turn all even. Reese finally went into the lead for good on the fourteenth, won the fifteenth and clinched victory on the seventeenth. Their cards:

Par, out	5	4	4	4	4	3	4	3	4	—35
Reese	5	4	4	5	4	2	4	5	4	—37
St. Clair	5	4	5	4	4	3	3	4	5	—37

Reese	4	4	4	4	5	3	5	4
St. Clair	3	5	4	3	4	6	3	5

James (Scotty) Reston, of the University of Illinois, gained a lead of 3 up over J. H. Gordon III, of Princeton. The Dayton lad was playing close to par.

Harry Eichekberger, of Stanford, led George Bush, Tulane, 2 up at the ninth, while Johnny Florio, of Ohio State, headed Ferd Berger, of Georgetown, by the same margin. Dick Martin, of Illinois, Western Conference champion, was 1 up on Gail Stockton, Southern California, and Bob Kepler, of Ohio State, had Bob Crowe, of Illinois, 1 down.

Mortensen Breaks Decathlon Record

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP.)—Jesse Mortensen, former University of Southern California athlete, now competing for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, has eclipsed a world record by scoring 8193.29 points to win the decathlon meet of the Southern Pacific A. A. U.

The present recognized total of 8053.29 was set at the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam by Paavo Yrjola, of Finland.

Mortensen's best marks for the contest yesterday came in the javelin, which he threw 198 feet; the 110-meter high hurdle, which he won in 15.6 seconds, and the 400 meters, which he ran in 51.1 seconds. The 10 events were run over a two-day period in accepted A. A. U. style.

Marsh, Weir Win In Ohio Net Event

CLEVELAND, June 24.—(AP.)—Cliff Marsh, of Buffalo, and Leroy Weir, of Cleveland, were the men's single favorites today in the Ohio state tennis tournament.

Marsh went to the fourth round when he defeated Nate Granger, of Cleveland, yesterday in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1. Weir was out of the action yesterday, but advanced into the third round when his opponent defaulted.

Van Wie, Browne Win in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, June 24.—(AP.)—Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, and Miss Mary K. Browne, Cleveland, were among the eight winners here in the first round of match play of the women's invitational golf tournament at Kirtland Country Club yesterday.

After breaking the women's course record two strokes with a 77 in the qualifier Monday, Miss Van Wie defeated Mrs. J. K. Patterson, Cleveland, 8 to 7.

Irish Derby Won By Sea Serpent

THE CURRAGH, Ireland, June 24.—(AP.)—H. S. Gray's Sea Serpent today won the Irish Derby, $15,000 added, over a mile and a half, from Count McCormack's Beaudelaire. J. H. H. Peard's Sir Walter Raleigh was third. Six horses ran.

LOCALS HIGH AT BRADFORD

BRADFORD, Pa., June 24.—(AP.)—George D. Baldwin, of West Chester, president of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association, was the winner in several events in preliminary shooting at the annual meet of the organization yesterday. Championship shooting will be held later in the week.

Baldwin broke 146 out of 149 clays in an all-around program of singles, doubles and distance handicap, had a score of 99 out of 100 in the Bradford introductory singles, led the field with 23 out of 24 targets (12 pair) in the Foster Brook special, and finished first in the McKean County distance handicap, 17 to 25 yards, by scoring 24 out of 25.

Other scores in the Bradford introductory, 100 clays, 16 yards rise, interstate rules, were:

W. H. Hartsock, Harrisburg, 98; J. Mowell Hawkins, Harrisburg (professional), 98; Walter S. Beaver, Berwyn, 97; George A. Miller, Gettysburg, 97; Robert F. Bell, Gettysburg, 96; John W. Eshelman, Jr., Lancaster, 96; John G. Martin, Harrisburg, 95; G. J. Fuller, Pittsburgh (professional), 95; Miss A. S. Harrold, Pittsburgh, 94; Morley W. McBrayne, West Chester, 93; A. B. MacMullen, Pittsburgh (professional), 93; Dr. E. R. Raymaley, Wilkinsburg, 92.

Between Rounds

Corp. Izzy Schwartz is back in the ring again following a year in retirement. He is a former flyweight championship claimant.

Dan Billick's bout with Baby Face Matheson at Erie, Friday night, will be a 10-rounder, part of a double windup, with Frank Bojorski boxing Eddie Anderson in the main event.

Both Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Ray Kiser, of Tulsa, Okla., are due in town today for their 10-round windup at Hickey Park, Millvale, tomorrow night.

Al Gomez, national amateur lightweight champion, will make his professional debut in one of the preliminaries to the Paulino Uzcudun-Max Baer 20-rounder under the auspices of Jack Dempsey at Tulsa, Okla., July 4. He will box under the management of Billy Gibson, of New York, former pilot of Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney, and now handler of Uzcudun.

Jackie Rodgers is prepping himself for a do-or-die battle when he meets Chico Cisneros, of Cleveland, Erie, Greenwood, Miss., Mexico and points north, south, east and west, in their postponed 10-round return battle in the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. Cisneros handed him a first-class shellacking when they tangled in Cleveland, and Jackie realizes he will have to be the winner this time or suffer the loss of a lot of prestige.

Young Stribling, heavyweight contender, will broadcast from his training camp at Geauga Lake, O., at 8:30 tonight over a network of stations, including KDKA. He will tell how he is progressing in his training there for his title battle with Max Schmeling at Cleveland Friday night of next week and discuss his prospects in the bout. Jim Corbett, former champion, will speak over KDKA at 6:30.

Ivan Vacturoff and John Romano will meet in the main bout of a wrestling show at Hickey Park, Millvale, Tuesday night of next week. Milo Steinborn and Dick Daviscourt will tangle in the 45-minute limit semi-final.

HARRY KECK.

TITLE FIGHT CARD SET

CLEVELAND, June 24.—(AP.)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, will meet Tony Galento, Orange, N. J., in the semi-final following the heavyweight championship bout between Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling at the Cleveland Stadium, July 3, fight officials announced today. The semi-final is scheduled to go eight rounds.

All the other preliminaries will go five rounds apiece and will be heavyweight events.

CADDIE TEAMS MAKE GRADE IN TESTS

The Allegheny and McDonald Country Clubs entered the field yesterday and tomorrow the Alcoma and Schenley Park golf clubs send their boys into action for the fourth annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, which is to be staged at the Schenley Park municipal links, Tuesday, June 30.

The Hearst junior tournament is not specifically a caddie tournament. It is an amateur golf tournament for junior players 19 years of age and under, who are not attending an institution of learning higher than preparatory school grades. We emphasize the fact that caddies who are only 17 years of age and under are eligible to play.

The entries will close with all letters of tomorrow's date—get your entry in to the Golf Tournament Editor today, lest you are missed when the pairings are made.

ALLEGHENY IN

Caddiemaster Allister, at Allegheny, booked the following four men to represent that club: Percy Berry, 17; John Hapte, 17; E. H. Puzme, 16, and Charles Hapte, 16. The second team includes Mike Petrum, 16; Sam Solito, 16; Mike Manick, 15, and Jule Billick, 17.

Caddies at St. Clair were put through their qualifying paces by Caddiemaster John Forbes, and the following boys survived the test, the first four to play as the St. Clair team: Russell Pollack, Guido and Bruno Minnegani, Sam Vinger, Bert Snyder, Sam Bepp, Jr., Mike Yusta and Frank Grossie.

The McDonald Golf Club had a fine 18-hole qualifying round, John Stevenson—and these Stevensons are hot, if you'll remember what Joe Stevenson did in 1929—had the low gross, a 76 to win the medal honors. Other members of the team are Edward Galloway, 77; Joseph Diechler, 81, and Harvey Johns, 83. The second team is to be made up of Nesbit Bruce, 83; Bill Diechler, 83; Raymond Dickinson, 86, and Donald Boynes, 87.

ENTRIES CLOSE TOMORROW

Clubs which have not qualified their teams by tomorrow will not be able to have a team in the fight for the beautiful plaque. The same goes for the individual amateurs.

Caddiemaster Red Young, at Westmoreland; Longue Vue, Brackenridge, Hill Crest and Ambridge are still expected to get their boys in the field.

COON HUNT CARDED

The Beaver Valley Sportsmen's Club will stage a coon hunt next Saturday on the [illegible] road, Between Monaca and New Sheffield.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

EARMARKING GOLD

From originally having been used as a mark of ownership for sheep and other animals, earmarking through the centuries has gradually come to mean an international bookkeeping operation in gold, involving an increase or a decrease in the gold stock without, however, requiring the physical transfer of the metal from one central bank to another. In 1523, the author of an English book on husbandry first used the term and characterized earmarking as good practice. In 1660, reference to a new use occurs, and earmarking is named along with tongue-splitting as an effective torture for victims of the pillory. However, while earmarking always has designated ownership of one kind or another, its use in civilized countries relates to the practice of foreign deposits of gold. The first earmarking transaction in America took place in March, 1916, and at the end of that month foreigners held here on earmark a total of $2,391,000. The high record was $199,419,000 at the end of December, 1927.

MAY BUSINESS INDEX

The annalist's monthly index of business activity, as reported for May, shows a decrease after its January-to-April rise. The preliminary index for May is 77.5, as reduced from 80.8 for April, and 77.9 for March. Figures for February and January were 76.2 and 74.4 respectively. All components of the index for May were lower than April. Notable, however, was the drop in the adjusted index of freight car loadings to a new low for the depression, and a setback in the index for cotton consumption. The annalist index is adjusted to allow for normal seasonal variation, as well as for the normal average rate of growth from year to year.

UNIVERSAL PIPE BONDS

Universal Pipe and Radiator Company will redeem coupons of the Central Foundry Company's first mortgage 6 per cent sinking fund bonds which matured May 1, the bondholders' protective committee, headed by Frederick J. Leary, announced. The amount paid by Universal Pipe is designated for distribution to holders of certificates of deposit issued under the protective agreement.

CIGARET PRICE BOOSTED

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Advances of 45 cents a thousand in the wholesale prices of their popular brands of cigarets were made today by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, American Tobacco Company, P. Lorillard Company and Liggett & Myers.

The increases brought the price to jobbers to $6.85 a thousand.

A spectacular advance in the tobacco shares marked the opening of the stock market today. American Tobacco B shot up $11, Lorillard $4.50 and Reynolds $3.50 a share.

As yet no leading retail tobacco chains have announced any change in their prices on leading cigarets, which have been advanced by manufacturers. Officials of some of the leading chains are conferring on the situation, however.

OIL CHIEFS SEE IMPROVEMENT

TULSA, Okla., June 24.—Signs of improvement were noted today in the condition of the petroleum industry, causing a general belief in this oil capital that the industry finally has passed the crisis in the most serious illness of its history.

Higher gasoline prices, predictions of an impending advance in the crude oil market and indications of more orderly development of the rich Eastern Texas area, a sore spot for many years, were some of the heartening developments.

Among leaders of the industry a definite feeling exists that the oil business has reached the turning point and is beginning an upward trend. However, there is no tendency to forecast any spectacular recovery.

Wabash Railway Loadings Ahead

CHICAGO, June 24.—During the week ended June 20, Wabash Railway handled 15,710 revenue cars against 15,470 in the week previous and 17,317 in the same week in 1930.

New York Central in the week ended June 20 handled 50,811 revenue cars against 51,643 in the week previous and 66,257 a year ago.

Richman to Open Quaker City Store

CLEVELAND, June 24.—Richman Bros. Company will open a new store in Philadelphia next fall. A lease aggregating about $1,000,000 has been taken on a three-story building in the shopping district.

This is the sixty-second store to be opened by Richman and follows announcement of a Detroit store to open in the fall.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN RUSHES UPWARD

List Led by Tobacco Shares Shows Advances of 2 to More Than 12 Points

New York stocks swept upward with a vigor equaling that of Saturday and Monday. The amazing reversal of sentiment inspired by the war debt proposal showed no signs of wavering, despite the fact that some of the mid-week business statistics were distinctly unfavorable, and reports that French acceptance of the debt plan involved various conditions.

Advances in shares ranged from 2 to more than 12 points, with American Tobacco issues making the maximum gains on news of higher wholesale cigaret prices. Radio Corporation surged up about 5 points on news that the Federal Radio Commission has at last decided to renew licenses of its subsidiaries.

A feature of the market was a vigorous advance in the long-depressed oils. U. S. Steel got up more than 4, as did Westinghouse Electric. Pennsylvania gained more than 2.

The wavering of the markets yesterday appeared merely to have provided a breathing spell. Bonds improved, and a new offering of $85,000,000, the Commonwealth Edison issue, was the largest since April.

The way the stock market was able to pass over the reduction of Pennsylvania Railroad's dividend contrasted with the abrupt decline caused by New York Central cuts a few months earlier. The weekly freight car loadings showed a drop of 28,437 cars from the previous week. Steel ingot output was estimated in the weekly reviews to have receded from about 38 to 36 or 35 per cent of capacity.

The market had much to give it cheer, however. Unlike Pennsylvania Railroad, Westinghouse Electric provided a pleasant surprise by ordering its regular quarterly payment of $1. Both lead and copper prices were again advanced, making total gains of ½ cent a pound so far this week. Optimism continues to gain in the petroleum industry.

The fresh violence of the advance in stocks again caused some misgivings among more conservatively inclined brokers, who pointed out that the market is, at best, faced with an extremely quiet summer in industry. Bears, however, who had sold stocks yesterday in expectation of a sharp secondary reaction, were driven to cover at costly prices.

Tariff Investigation Application Refused

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Application for investigations into the tariff on woven fabrics of flax, hemp, or ramie, and jute paddings for interlinings has been refused by the Tariff Commission.

The inquiries were requested by the linen group of the National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., New York City, with a view to securing a decrease in the duties.

Revenue Freight Loadings Decline

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending June 13 were announced today by the American Railway Association as 732,453 cars. This was a decrease of 28,437 cars below the preceding week and a decrease of 193,613 cars below the corresponding week a year ago.

International Pete Resuming Work

TORONTO, June 24.—International Petroleum Company is this week resuming operations in the Talara and Lobitos oil fields in Peru. The workings were shut down the last week in May, due to trouble between groups of workers and government police in several of the camps.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 24.—Cotton opened steady today, 6 to 8 points lower. Prices worked lower with July selling off to 9.39 and December to 10.05, or about 13 to 15 points net lower by the end of the first half hour.

Offerings were lighter after the early selling had run its course and the market firmed up later in the morning. July sold up from 9.38c to 9.60c, and December from 10.04c to 10.27c, with the general list showing net advances of about 5 to 9 points at midday.

Oil Situation on Coast Greatly Improved, Is Belief

Action of Standard Oil of California in advancing prices of crude oil purchase quotations and gasoline selling level is taken to indicate that company officials believe the Pacific Coast situation has improved sufficiently to attempt stabilization. If the move proves successful it will be considered one of the most important steps taken in the oil industry in a long while. At the moment the oil interests are closely watching conditions in the Far West.

Any improvement in the European economic situation will be of vast importance to International Telephone. This stock has been heavily bought in the past two days on this theory. Previously, the issue was under steady accumulation for the account of interests who insisted that any change for the better in world conditions would benefit the company particularly.

Decrease in Sears, Roebuck sales in recent months have been growing smaller. Some interests in the company believe that later this year the comparisons will be more favorable because the volume of its business was dropping toward the end of 1930. The shares have been affected from time to time in the past by the theory that conditions in the agricultural districts will keep down sales. For this reason a material short interest continues in the stock.

One of the attractive speculative investments in the bond list, according to the advices from some quarters, is the Manhattan Railway 4 per cent issue of 1990. These bonds will not be disturbed in the reorganization growing out of transit unification. Their position will be that of an underlying issue in the new company. At recent selling price of around 60 the return is nearly 6¾ per cent.

It is learned that since the opening of the two new stores by Best & Co.—one at Atlantic City and the other at Hyannis, Mass.—the dollar volume sales of the establishments have come up to the management's expectations. It is also stated that the starting of the suburban units, which now number nine, did not divert as much business from the main establishment as had been predicted when the expansion policy was put into effect.

Most estimates recently have been that net earnings of Union Carbide for the second quarter will not come up to the 51 cents a share reported for the first three months. Many are becoming convinced, however, that signs of improvement are evident in the chemical industry. If this is true it may result in a better trend of revenues for Carbide during the last six months of the year. Some of the traders were pressing the stock recently and this resulted in increasing the outstanding short interest.

LOCAL MARKET TREND IS UPWARD

Prices Display Stronger Tone in Early Trading; Lone Star Gas Moves Up

Lone Star Gas rallied at the start, selling near the best price attained in the bulge yesterday. Volume of trading in the fuel leader increased later and the stock reached a new high for the current movement.

Industrials were rather quiet considering the activity in New York. Prices held close to the previous finals, but it was apparent that sellers were not pressing the market.

COPPER-LEAD PRICES UP

The advance, the second this week, brought the domestic price to 8½ cents a pound, delivered, and the export price to 8.775 cents, c. i. f. European base ports.

The price of lead was advanced a tenth of a cent today by the American Smelting and Refining Company to 4.25 cents a pound. The advance was the third consecutive rise in three days and marked an increase of one-half cent a pound in that period.

Furniture Orders Gain at New York

NEW YORK, June 24.—A general revival in orders for furniture was reported at the New York furniture trade opening yesterday. With buyers' registrations running ahead of the corresponding day last year, manufacturers said orders were more general than on any day since the market opened last week. Upholstered furniture, which had been neglected through the early days of the showing, was purchased in considerable quantity.

DEBT PROGRAM CHEERS STEEL

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade tomorrow will say:

The President's moratorium program, the coal strike and the application of the railroads for a rate advance loom up as factors which, singly or in combination, may pull the iron and steel market out of the doldrums.

Overshadowing the others is the dramatic and unexpected move for a holiday in reparations and war debts, which brought such a prompt and universal upturn in securities and among such commodities as cotton, wheat and the non-ferrous metals.

The coal strike, at first without noticeable effect on fuel markets, is spreading, materially reducing mine output in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia and making an advance in coke and coal prices an early possibility.

While steel buyers have not abandoned their spirit of caution to the extent of placing orders more freely, inquiries are somewhat more numerous. So far as seasonal trend is concerned there is nothing to suggest haste in buying. Steel output has lost further ground and ingot production for the country at large now averages 36 per cent, as compared with 38 per cent a week ago. Additional recessions seem inevitable unless sentiment, which now appears to be veering, actually undergoes a marked change.

One barometer that will command more than usual attention under current conditions is the scrap market. During the past week heavy melting steel has declined 25 cents a ton at Pittsburgh and Detroit and $1 a ton at Philadelphia. The purchase of a sizeable tonnage of heavy melting grade at Pittsburgh at $10, delivered, brought the market in that district to as low a level as has been reached in the present century, that price having been touched only once before, in December, 1914. Finished steel prices are still without definite trend, with their future course hanging in the balance.

Railroads Ask O. K. On Rate Reductions

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Railroads in east central and middle Atlantic states have applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to make substantial reductions in rates on all iron and steel articles, except cast iron pipe and fittings, to meet competition of water carriers and motor trucks. The new rates would apply on hauls up to 100 miles, ranging from 3 cents per 100 pounds for hauls of five miles and under up to 16 cents a hundred for hauls between 95 and 100 miles.

Texas & Pacific Project Approved

WESTINGHOUSE HOLDS RATE

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company has declared the regular quarterly dividends of $1 each on the common and preferred stocks.

The action was an agreeable surprise to the street as it had been confidently predicted that the dividend would be cut in half. The more pessimistic observers were expecting the payment to be omitted entirely.

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, made the following statement—

"Although the earnings for April and May of the second quarter were not sufficient to cover the dividend requirements, yet they were so far improved as to show a small profit as compared with the loss of the three preceding months. It was the opinion of the directors that considering the fine cash position of the company and the substantial surplus which has been accumulated over the past years and not distributed to stockholders, dividends should be declared."

"Continuing its policy announced some months ago the management has distributed work among as many men as possible. This has increased the expenses of operations somewhat, but it was considered an advisable procedure at the present time. On the other hand, the management realizes that countless small investors who have purchased stock of the Westinghouse company are in many cases depending on dividend for their livelihood. The Westinghouse company believes in supporting general business by maintaining employment and development work and continuing dividends at a normal rate as far as possible."

PENNSYLVANIA ON $3 BASIS

The Pennsylvania Railroad declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents, payable August 31 to stock of record August 1, placing the stock on a $3 annual basis. Previously the road had paid $4 annually.

The action was not unexpected and the stock held strong.

This is the third of the leading eastern trunk line railways to cut common dividends this year. The New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio reduced their rates in the previous quarter.

The Pennsylvania has paid a cash return to its stockholders in every year since 1847. In the last 31 years the returns to stockholders has been increased and decreased intermittently ranging from 6 to 8 per cent. The company paid 7 per cent in 1927 and 1928, 7¾ per cent in 1929, and 8 per cent in 1930.

U. S. OIL OUTPUT INCREASES

Domestic crude oil production in the week to June 20 averaged 2,482,350 barrels daily, an increase of 19,250 barrels over the preceding week and comparing with 2,598,850 barrels in the like 1930 week, the American Petroleum Institute reports.

Gasoline stocks declined 1,428,000 barrels to 41,982,000, the smallest reserve since the end of January, and comparing with 50,113,000 barrels a year ago.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 995,000 barrels against 2,062,000 barrels.

Marmon Motor Car Shipments Higher

INDIANAPOLIS, June 24.—Marmon Motor Company reports shipments to date this month are ahead of total shipments for May on the new 16-cylinder car. Unfilled orders are increasing.

Marmon-Herrington Company, Marmon Motors subsidiary, has ready for delivery the first shipment of Marmon-Herrington trucks on a government order totaling approximately $800,000.

LIVERPOOL, June 24.—The market was due ¼ to ⅜ penny lower. Opened ⅛ to ½ penny off, and at 1:20 p. m. was ⅛ off to ⅛ up.

Copper Market Reflects War Debt Plans

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP.)—Foreign buying of copper was immediately stimulated by the proposal of shelving for a year the troublesome problem of war debts.

After a general reduction in the price of the metal to 8 cents a pound, the lowest in modern times, the price was pushed up one-quarter of a cent to 8¼ yesterday and again raised to 8½ cents today, as result of the brisk revival of foreign buying which aggregated 28,000,000 pounds Monday and Tuesday.

This metal is essentially a twentieth century metal, and is perhaps more completely under the control of American producers than any other leading commodity. Considerable portions of the world's production come from outside the United States, notably Canada, South America and South Africa, but the industry is dominated by American capital.

The steady drop in prices of this metal from the price of 18 cents a pound, at which it was stabilized through most of 1929 and the early part of 1930, has been one of the more conspicuous barometers of the course of depression.

Price Unprofitable

WHETHER THE FLURRY of buying this week finally marks a turn is too early to say. Many observers in the industry, however, feel that consumption has fallen to about the irreducible minimum, to a low level which in any reasonable estimate of world requirements, is artificial, and is not likely to be long maintained.

It is conceivable that the turn may come too soon to be lasting. While an international agreement to curtail production to an extent designed to stop the piling up of surplus stocks was negotiated last autumn, it was not effective in checking the decline in price, and competent observers have of late pointed to the unprofitable price for the metal as the industry's eventual salvation. A fairly protracted period of wholly unprofitable prices, it was felt, would force the closing of high cost mines, and bring production down to reasonable levels. It is notable that periods of high prices in copper have usually brought the industry into difficulty by stimulating excessive production.

Electrification Abroad

NEVERTHELESS THERE IS a great undeveloped market for copper in Europe, and if the war debt holiday actually marks the turn toward stability there, copper may be definitely on its way back. At any rate, the copper shares turned emphatically upward in the stock market on news of the war debt proposal.

Electrification, which is the chief use of the red metal, is greatly under-developed in much of Europe, and ambitious programs of development have been delayed by the world-wide business depression.

The copper industry will not consider itself on a reasonably satisfactory basis, however, until prices get back to about 12 cents a pound, or perhaps 14. It is difficult for the industry as a whole to make money under 10 cents, and at 8 or 8¼ cents it is running in the red.

It seems doubtful, however, if any close approach to the 18-cent price which was maintained for about a year, will be seen for some time.

Battling Gizzy vs. Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, who never has shown here and should draw well and would provide a good test for the local club fighter.

HEAVYWEIGHT MATCHES

Heavyweight bouts centering around Emmett Rocco, of Ellwood City, who always gives the fans a good run in local rings; George Panka, who is redeeming himself at Max Schmeling's training camp for a series of knockout defeats before leaving Homestead for Cleveland; Walter Pickard, of Indianapolis, now making his headquarters here; Al Fay, of Charleroi, and worthwhile opponents brought in from the outside.

There are other matches that could be suggested, but this rather lengthy list suffices to establish the fact that there really is sufficient talent, especially local, available to carry both outdoor clubs through the summer season if it is properly matched.

PITT ATHLETES SUSPENDED

By JESS CARVER

The axe of suspension very neatly clipped off six heads out at Pitt yesterday, three of 'em belonging to Dr. Jock Sutherland's varsity football squad.

Ralph Dougherty, varsity center for the past two years; Frank Walton and Charley Miller, reserve linemen; Bernie Leech and Mike Harrapas, basketball prospects and Jesse May, a trackman, have been suspended from school for one semester for failure to pass scholastic requirments.

The loss of Daugherty probably will be felt the more keenly. Doc had a little trouble last year, what with arguing with the coaches and quitting the squad for a few days after the Ohio State game, but he straightened out o. k. and worked like a Trojan (and I don't mean a Southern California Trojan, either) during spring practice.

USED AT QUARTER

The coaches experimented with him at quarterback during the spring drills. Daugherty was a backfield man as a freshman and during prep school days. The graduation of Eddie Baker left the quarter post wide open, and now that Doc is "o-u-t," it remains so. Ted Tormey, the hefty Erie lad, is perfectly capable of handling the snapperback job, being a whale of a defensive player and smart enough to develop on the attack. His passing isn't as accurate is it might be, but then, Herb Stein always had trouble keeping the ball in the park, too.

The loss of the three gridders won't affect the first eleven so much as it will the reserve situation. Walton was an A-No. 1 tackle and with Daugherty's place to be filled on the varsity, it means a corresponding loss of secondary strength.

The Tipoff

Knocking off heads wasn't all that was accomplished out at Pitt yesterday. The athletic council approved tennis, track and golf letter awards and shifted the game with Duquesne, carded originally for October 22, 1932, to October 8. This was done so as to open the way with negotiations for a game with a prominent eastern institution, which is to be either Dartmouth or Penn (let's all hope it will be the Green) for a game here.

Following the athletic shakeup at Penn and the appointment of Harvey Harman, former Pitt tackle star, as head coach, a movement was begun to arrange a meeting between the Quakers and Panthers. Dartmouth also would like to perform in Pittsburgh.

From Parkersburg comes the word of the marriage of Gibby Welch, Pitt's famous all-America halfbacker, to Miss Myra Chancellor. The pair were married yesterday.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County, Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an "Act relating to Allegheny County," approved the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendment to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1866, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several Wards of the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton, Boroughs and Townships, will be open, and I will be prepared to receive the County, Road, Poor, Bond Interest, etc., Park and Personal Property Taxes for the year 1931 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July only at 5% discount, during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if furnished name, location by Ward in the Cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton, or Boroughs or Townships. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payment may be made in cash at Treasurer's Office, or through mail by Certified Check or Money Order (payable to John Francies, County Treasurer), and mailed to Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipts.

SPECIAL NOTICE

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, nor will Taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1931.

Delay in delivery, by mail or messenger, will not be considered an excuse for non-payment before expiration of discount or face period for payment.

JOHN FRANCIES,
County Treasurer.

Legal Notices 107

LEGAL NOTICE.

By order of the United States District Court for the Southern District of Ohio, Western Division, entered June 22, 1931, in the case of Emilie E. Crane, Plaintiff, vs. The Ohio Joint Stock Land Bank of Cincinnati et al., Defendants, No. 657 in Equity on the docket of said court, all creditors of said The Ohio Joint Stock Land Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, are hereby notified that in said order it was ordered, adjudged and decreed by said court as follows:

(a) Any and every person or party who may conceive that he will be prejudiced by the entering by said court of an order directing the receiver appointed in said action to pay from the funds received by him the expenses and fees set out in said order, said expenses and fees including the necessary court costs of said suit and of a similar suit instituted in New York City to enforce the statutory double liability of the stockholders of said Land Bank, counsel fees, traveling expenses, and the administration expenses of the Creditors' Protective Committee of said Land Bank and its Depositary, all as more particularly in said order set out, including therein expenses incurred and expenses yet to be incurred, shall file with said receiver his duly verified objections to such an order on or before September 21, 1931, or be forever barred and foreclosed from objecting to such an order.

(b) Any and every person or party who may conceive that he has a just claim against said funds received and to be received by said receiver shall file with said receiver his duly verified claim against said funds on or before September 21, 1931, or be forever barred from participation therein.

(c) Any and every person or party who may conceive that he will be prejudiced by the entering by said court of an order directing said receiver to make distribution of the balance of said funds, received and to be received by him, remaining in his hands after payment of said expenses, or to make distribution of any part thereof, reserving the residue thereof for payment of such expenses as may be yet to be incurred, such distribution to be pro rata to all persons filing and proving their claims with the receiver of said Land Bank appointed by the Federal Farm Loan Board on or before September 17, 1928, or thereafter, shall file with the receiver appointed by said court in said action his duly verified objections to such an order on or before September 21, 1931, or be forever barred and foreclosed from objecting to such an order.

A full copy of said order of June 22, 1931, will be mailed on request to any creditor of said Land Bank. All such requests and also all claims and objections filed pursuant to said order should be mailed on or before September 21, 1931, to

Rarick Tells Gratton He Wants to Die Poor

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XLI

"I want to say something to you, Gratton, that I don't believe I have ever formulated even to myself, much less put into words before.

"I feel like the devil. The things I've let out aren't usually said, and then, hang it all, I've said just about half, and the less important half of what I feel.

"This seems to be the time and the place for saying. I don't mind telling you that much of what you have just admitted, while not new to me, is bitter. I'm not so resilient any more. I'm near to 60, young fellow.

"Not——"

"It's a big house."

"An appallingly big one. I'm going to tell you about that house. The house that Jennifer lives in."

"The house - that - Jennifer - lives-in. That should be the nicest house there is!"

"Perhaps, in view of all you have told me, there isn't much point, but I'm going to say it anyway. I want Jennifer settled, young man.

"She is 28 now. Motherless. Her brother is gone. I am not going to live to be an old man. There are certain things we know irrevocably. That is one of them. I have always known it. I will not get old."

"I hate to hear you say that."

ROBBED BY SUCCESS

"I would give a great deal if you could like my girl."

"That's what I meant just now when I said, I've said just half of what I feel, and that half the less important half . . ."

"You probably know, without my dwelling upon it, the failure of a parent I've been to her."

"It's been a mutual failure."

"God knows she has. Too much of both for my peace of mind. You're going to reap from them, too—mark you—"

"Yes."

"Young man, I am worth one hundred and eighty million dollars. And yet, personally, I have never succeeded. My success succeeded."

"I see what you mean."

"In my youth, Gratton, I wanted one thing out of life as hard-heartedly as you seem to want one thing. My success snatched it away."

"I think I summed it up when I said once of you that you asked for bread and got a gold nugget."

"Excellent. I would have a hard time getting a jury to vote me sympathy, but I am as short of success, today, Gratton, as you see me sitting here, as I was in the days when I used to figure my plans on the backs of envelopes behind a counter in a hardware store."

"I know that."

"That is why there is something about a young fellow like you, so sure not to be deterred, something that to an old fellow like me, is just about sublime. I want you to look at me, seated here as you say, in a home contrived by kings, and try to understand some of the things that I am going to tell you. Follow?"

"Yes."

"First, as to family. You see me practically bankrupt. My wife gone. That I cannot discuss, even here. Need I say to you," he went on, and began to twist his face—"need I say to you that my life was finished the day Avery took his? We never got to each other. But I—no fool like an old fool, that boy was my reason for having the endurance to fight through the black and colossal years of my success.

CRUSHED BY WEALTH

"He made the nights, filled with my wakefulness, endurable. He was the hope of my loneliness. He was my real success waiting to be accomplished, and in my dumbness, I crossed him in everything that did not point toward that success. I saw the paraphernalia of wealth crushing him. The steam-roller flattening him into a pattern just as you see it threatening Jennifer.

"I saw this success in picking out a rich man for his father, threatening to succeed. I have no graces, Gratton. If ever a man was lacking in manner, that man is me. I had no way to ingratiate the boy, no talent for parenthood. I didn't deserve him. I let him starve for the very things I would have given my life to feed him. He got lost, you see, in the maze of the things and the things. I don't intend to have that happen to my girl. . . ."

"It needn't."

"I am not a man to take life lightly, Gratton. My wife used to say of me that I lacked a cardinal sense of humor. I have never believed she was right. That is the last thing a man wants to believe of himself, but it is true that I do not take this matter of my colossal wealth lightly. I have given it more profound thought, its relationship to the world from which I derived it, the economic scheme which made it possible and my responsibilities toward those sources, than even you might think. I am not an educated man, Gratton, like you. But I have thought my share and pondered . . ."

"I once heard it said of you, Mr. Rarick, or perhaps read it in some magazine, that you never reached a conclusion that was not based upon at least several of the best opinions you could muster and that those several opinions were almost invariably all yours."

"I've gone my road alone. Open the third drawer of that table."

"Here?"

WANTS TO DIE POOR

"Yes."

"Take out that pile of manuscript."

"This?"

"Yes."

"Whew!"

"Yes, 548 pages longhand."

"Yes, and what fine, steel-point longhand. Yours?"

"Yes. Brevity being the soul of wit, that would just about be the bulk of my story."

"Your life?"

"Everything but, and yet nothing else. It is the story of the house and man my wealth built. Of the walls it reared for me, and the hearth it kindled. It is filled with moralizing, the kind nobody will take the time to read. It is the result of my study, my thoughts, my experience. It is my last will and testament. But more of that presently. I wonder if you happen to have heard, Gratton, rumors that Rarick Chain is about to be absorbed by Bilt Chain?"

"Yes."

"They are founded on fact."

"You have completed that job?"

"Yes. And now I have a new one. A stiff one. The job of dying a poor man The entire philosophy behind that determination is in this stack of papers. The years I have left are few in which to give back intelligently the $180,000,000 to the people from whom I have earned it. Earned it, mind you.

MADE LIVING EASIER

"If there is anything miraculous about the vastness of my wealth, it lies in the fact that corruption has passed me by. The average man—and woman—Gratton, is beholden to the object, the inanimate thing for his comfort and much of his happiness. I have filled the hands of the masses with objects and cluttered their minds with the easy happiness of which they are so capable. I have stuck more atrocious paper flowers into more atrocious glass vases than probably any man in the history of the world.

"I have anointed the tongues of the masses of children whose humdrum lives stand ready to snatch them out of youth with the red of the sticky lollypop, and they tell me that the sin of ugliness and cheapness is upon me. That may all be true, Gratton, but I know to what extent I have made living easier to the masses whose days are chained to the trivialities of things. My daughter Jennifer owns a six-carat pigeon-blood ruby ring. The craving for that ring is deep in the hearts of millions of women like her.

"I partially satisfy that craving in red-glass 10-cent rings. Women with scalded, horny hands can now cope with their dishwater in 10-cent rubber gloves—there is a side to my colossal, absurd, undignified bantering in snide objects that is labor of mercy. Don't you forget it."

"One isn't apt to after hearing you."

"The wisest man I ever knew showed me the way to give back what I have earned. He never, even in his great wisdom, knew to what extent his mind was endowing mine. I refer to my friend, Felix Gerkes."

DAILY SHORT STORY

'So Would I'

Man Ordered to Get Money For Gang or Be Shot

Mrs. Sally White stared out of the apartment window down on the roof of the wide but squat garage.

Beyond were other brick and wooden buildings and a few littered vacant lots. There was a great deal of smoke, the constant din of the elevated—a general air of flat, dismal, unkempt surroundings.

Jack White, known to Dutch Silver's gang as "Tony" because he was as dark as any Latin, nodded. He knew what was in his young wife's mind. She was thinking of home—the home out in Nevada with the fertile farm, the rolling foothills and the air of freshness and cleanliness.

"I'm afraid you will," his wife answered, darkly, "a break that will put you down in Atlanta and leave me alone. Oh, I know well enough what you'll say, but it's dangerous and I'm afraid."

"I'm not so happy over it myself. But it was that or nothing. Dutch won't let me get in any jam. He has the Feds all fixed."

"I'm not being cross. I know why you did it, Jack—I was sick and the hospital bills and everything, and the garage wasn't paying. You did it for me, but now how are we going to get out of it?"

"I'm saving. When we get a couple thousand more we'll just do a sneak, go back home, buy the Miller farm and be happy."

MET DIFFICULTIES

Sally sighed. It would take quite a while to save. Jack was making a good thing out of harboring the beer trucks of Dutch Silver, but, on the other hand, he had to pay his men fancy wages to keep them quiet and there were certain local "collectors" who had to have their bit. Dutch looked after the higher-ups.

Jack would never have considered doing such a thing as putting in a basement and hiding the Silver gang's beer trucks if, as his wife said, he hadn't been desperately in need of money.

Both Jack and Sally, with their few thousand on hand when they married, had come on to Chicago in the belief that they would make a great deal of money and soon be able to have everything they wanted.

It wasn't so easy. It seemed that every third place out in that district was a garage. Jack knew only two things, farming and garage work, and there isn't much of an opening in Chicago for farm work.

Then there was the constant worry and the tough gang.

More than that, Sally held the unspeakable but constant dread that some day a rival gang, fighting Dutch Silver, would swoop down on Jack's garage, open up with machine guns and that would be the end of Jack.

Gimpy Bianco, himself, alone and unafraid, had gone to Dutch's hideout, stood in the doorway leaning on his crutch, and laid down the law.

DEMANDS MONEY

"Sure you guys can bump me. I'm alone, got no rod, but if I'm not back in 20 minutes you birds will be blasted to so-and-so," Gimpy said, keeping his bland smile, and showing his white teeth, although his beady eyes glittered.

"What is it, Gimpy?" Dutch snarled.

"For two months your trucks have been delivering in my territory. All right. We might have grabbed your trucks and bumped your drivers—but it's better to settle things another way and not kick up any trouble."

"Yeah?"

"Yeah. If you think we can't, you're dumb. Now you've cut about 50 grand off our profits. I'll take 50 grand and your word you won't cut into my territory. Your word ain't worth a damn, but the 50 grand has to be all right. Bring it over tomorrow at my place, send just one man. Come yourself, you don't need no rod, you won't be touched."

"Sure we can blast 'em," he said as some of his hot-headed young men suggested fighting it out, "but they can blast us, too. And that ain't all—the less we start any more shooting now the more dough we make. We don't have to stop operations and go in hiding."

"But 50 grand—Jees, Dutch" his lieutenant, Spike Hennessey, growled.

"I know. We didn't clean up more'n 30 grand, but what of it? We took a chance. Only thing is, I've just turned over a big wad to the Big Shot and I've sprung four of you guys who would have taken from 20 to life in the pen. It cost me about all the ready change I got. I don't know as I can raise 50 grand by tomorrow."

There was more discussion.

"Lissen, Dutch," Spike said, suddenly. "J. H. will come down with 25 grand. We never bothered him and he said he'd come across any time we needed it. He's got dough now."

He referred to a certain high official who would have to run away if Dutch ever squealed on him.

JACK THREATENED

Dutch went out. He got a thousand here and five hundred there and believed that he would succeed all right.

"I'm in a jam, Tony. You got to slip me five grand."

"Me? If I had five grand I wouldn't speak to anyone," and Jack grinned.

"No joke—gotter have it. You go get it. If you don't get it by mornin' we'll be sendin' flowers around to your place and no jokin'."

"But be reasonable, Dutch—"

He wondered if he'd ever see this homeland again.

Suddenly he thought of Sally.

"God knows what will happen to her if they put me on the spot," he muttered.

At dinner he was extremely nervous.

"Any trouble, Jack?" Sally asked.

"No, not a thing — may be some trucks in tonight and I always have to be careful — everything's all right," he said.

"Something's up — you could never lie to me, Jack boy!"

"Don't take chances, dear."

"That's all right, don't worry."

"I've been thinking of home all day, Jack, thinking of it all day and feeling as if we were going back."

"Perhaps you will."

"Me—me? Not without you."

"Right. We'll go back together when we go."

That made her feel better and made Jack feel worse. He had a vision of going back home, Sally in a Pullman and he "in the baggage coach ahead" with lilies and ice around him.

He puttered around the garage for a while and realized that something had to be done.

He started out, around midnight, and went over toward Dutch Silver's hangout. He might see some of the drivers and get some tips as to how he could raise—

He stopped and laughed. He didn't mean anything like that at all. He had a hunch. He went into an alley back of a garage and came out with something heavy in his pocket.

Izzy Mallin, Spike Hennessey and Red Connors, all head men for Dutch, would be out collecting. That was Jack's hunch. He had no place to collect. They had because they knew all the ins and outs of the racket.

GETS MONEY

There was a swing, a little thud and Spike sagged down, to far out to even hear the birdies sing.

A car was coming. Jack worked fast. There it was, a fat packet of money. He took it and got away from there. He would have to count it, and take just five grand to Dutch next day, if there was that much.

Red Connors, who lived over that way, kept two cars in Jack's garage. Jack went up to the apartment.

"I've collected some money due me and there's going to be a gang war, Sally. We've got enough to buy that farm, let's go now," he said.

Two days later, stopping at Topeka, a couple were sitting at the same table with Jack and Sally at breakfast. The man was reading a paper. He held it up to show a headline:

Rival Gang Leaders Killed;
Dutch Silver and Gimpy
Bianco Both Slain.

"Brother," said the man, "I sure would hate to live in Chicago.

"So would I," Jack agreed heartily.

A Psychiatric Hospital

New State Institution to Be Established Here Will Fill a Long Felt Need.

Gov. Pinchot signed yesterday a bill accepting from the University of Pittsburgh a site for a state psychiatric hospital and appropriating $25,000 for the preparation of plans for the institution. It is proposed to appropriate $2,000,000 for the building at the next session of the Legislature.

Senator Frank Harris, sponsor for so much of the worth while legislation enacted by the General Assembly, was author of the hospital bill. The social service and welfare organizations of Pennsylvania will thank him for his promotion of the project, which has long had their enthusiastic support, and he is entitled to a word of appreciation from the general public.

For the psychiatric hospital unquestionably will prove a blessing to a multitude of Pennsylvanians. It is to take care of nervous and mental diseases in their incipiency, and thus prevent the development of insanity. The state has eight mental hospitals, where demented persons, including the hopeless cases, are cared for; but it has no hospital like that to be constructed on the University of Pittsburgh property.

The number of insane patients in Pennsylvania hospitals has increased in recent years at a greater rate than the increase in population—a condition which calls for action. The new psychiatric hospital, by taking sufferers from nervous disorders at an early stage and giving them the treatment necessary to restore them to full mental health, will furnish the action that is demanded. For it is now recognized that if taken at the outset the development of insanity can be forestalled in at least one-third of such cases.

Accused Again

Conduct of Pittsburgh Coal Company's Deputy Sheriffs Is Reminiscent of Private Police Brutality.

The satisfaction felt over the announcement that the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation has entered into an agreement with the United Mine Workers of America is marred by the killing of a bystander and the wounding of a number of strikers in a battle between the latter and deputy sheriffs employed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company at its Arnold City mine.

Anticipating the revocation of the commissions of its coal and iron policemen, the Pittsburgh Coal Company has employed deputy sheriffs to guard its mines. They are nominally responsible to the sheriff, but are paid by the coal company—an undesirable condition.

Preliminary reports of the Arnold City affair place the deputy sheriffs and the Pittsburgh Coal Company decidedly on the defensive. The deputies are said to have had little other provocation to shoot than the throwing of an egg by a boy.

Well Deserved Pensions

After More Than 40 Years of Service Public School Teachers Have Earned a Rest.

It is announced that 156 public school teachers in Pennsylvania, including 17 in Pittsburgh, are to be retired on pensions.

The pensions are well deserved.

All the Pittsburgh teachers, now about to retire, have been teaching for more than 40 years, one for more than 50 years. They have earned a rest.

Thousands of children have passed under their tutelage, and there are probably very few, if any, of their former pupils who do not think of them pleasantly, even if they did apply the rod now and then.

The hope will be widespread that these veterans of the schoolroom will enjoy to the full the reward of their lifetime of public service.

Better Business Bureau

In Two Months It Has Justified Its Creation by Saving the People Many Thousands of Dollars.

The report of the Better Business Bureau of Pittsburgh, telling what it has done during the two months that have elapsed since it started operations, makes good reading.

The bureau has justified its creation. At the outset of its administration it has saved the people of Pittsburgh many thousands of dollars and showed them how to save more.

The bureau reports it has forced commercial racketeers of one sort or another who had obtained money by misrepresentation to return more than $4,000 to their dupes. But that is a mere drop in the bucket as compared with the sums saved for the people by putting fraudulent concerns out of business.

The promoter of an unethical charity solicitation, who had been mulcting the public of about $50,000 a year, promised, after a warrant had been sworn out for his arrest, to abandon the racket forever.

It is gratifying to learn of the suppression of crooked schemes before the promoters had done any more than sound out "prospects." An instance of that sort occurred in the bureau's investigation of a concern which offered to sell small merchants' stores at attractive prices, but required a deposit in advance.

At last we know WHO and WHAT was in the airplane flying for the last few days above our little heroine. The airmen were, as you see, none other than the Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey.

One glance at old Prohibition was all they wanted. It took all the fight out of them. And, as you well know, having voted for them, man and boy, for many years, there is little fight in either of them.

But "into each life some rain must fall," and this little girl, we suppose, must have her share.

Luckily the news is not all bad. The President tells you that he POSITIVELY sees fine times ahead for the 20,000,000 extra population that we haven't got yet, and Roger W. Babson, sitting in front of his crystal ball, sees business going uphill.

The worm turns, the pendulum swings both ways, it is always darkest before dawn, every cloud has a silver lining, and some day old Prohibition and his friend "General Stagnation" may crash, and be no more.

The Passing of the Picturesque

With the death of David Belasco, almost the last of the picturesque personalities of an era of picturesque figures passed on.

* * *

We have more beautiful women, today, than ever before in history; and men are handsomer and better set-up than they ever were. But there are almost NO outstanding personalities. It's all just "the crowd!"

* * *

* * *

And Lillian Russell, the glittering, the glamorous, the gorgeous! Is there any beauty on the stage, today, who stands out among all the many beauties, as did Lillian, the American Beauty Rose?

And there was Buffalo Bill Cody, in his swanky cowboy costume with his broad sombrero and flowing white hair—a picture always! A dynamic personality.

* * *

* * *

* * *

And the flaming red-haired Leslie Carter (now retired), whose very presence was so electric and vivid, that there seemed to be nobody else in the room when she was there.

And there was Leo Dietrichstein, the great stage lover; and Valentino, the screen idol. And Eugene Field, poet, wit and the first columnist. And De Wolf Hopper (also retired) probably the most delightful stage comedian that ever lived. And Nat Goodwin, fine actor and eternal lover. And Mrs. Astor, Queen of the Four Hundred. And—but I could go on for another column.

* * *

Of course, we still have Eva Le Gallienne. And Garbo and Jimmy Walker and Theodore Dreiser and Mrs. Fiske and Fanny Hurst and Sinclair Lewis and Edna Millay and Walter Winchell—just a few whose personalities stand out from the crowd.

* * *

But, for the most part, we seem to have become just a lot of robots, who dress alike, act alike and talk for publication in the same old platitudes.

* * *

Picturesqueness went out (in America) with the coming of the machine-age. And the outstanding figures, if any, are mostly prizefighters, gangsters, wise-crackers and radio-crooners. And, when one of them makes a startling impression, pronto, all the others imitate him!

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

—By O. O. McIntyre—

NEW YORK, June 24.—There is a wistful affection among New Yorkers transplanted from out yonder for touches of greenery. A growing plant in the cranny of a man-made cliff is the object of adoration. Films picturizing flower development have strong appeals in the movies.

The surprising spread of floral shops over the city is another of the many manifestations. They seem to offer a pleasant relief from the fury of city life—a julep of freedom. This morning in the Plaza fountain section a crowd collected around a window of cacti.

Manhattanites, moored to asphalt, giddy spires and sharp architectural angles, are the most frequent users of a bright lapel flower. Gamblers are usually horticultural enthusiasts. And it is surprising how New York dinner parties turn to discussions of crocuses, oaks, elms, birches and maples.

Nor is any gardener so talkative as your city man with his tiny patch on a roof top. I know a hard-headed business manager of a newspaper to whom some minor employe had, out of frugal savings, bought and had delivered a tiny Christmas tree.

It was an inconsequential gift but to this city dweller it was the sole link with the open country from which he came. He watered it nightly, went to the suburbs for fresh earth and before going to sleep placed it outside a window for healthy currents of air.

One night a sudden breeze toppled it from a sixteenth story perch. Hearing the commotion the owner dressed, aroused a night watch, got a flash light and climbed over ramparts to retrieve it. He put it in a milk bottle until he could buy a new pot in the morning.

Along the circuitous path of the elevated through the lower East Side, almost every tenement window has its geranium in a tin can—scrubby little stalks making forlorn pretenses to bloom. The love for flowers is a big reason for the popularity of the pent house.

* * *

What are known as "hideous Jersey marshes" are to me rich with a glowing beauty. Especially when strange birds flit about in the sun. One of the species seems to skim like a gull over the bleak mud flats and now and then, peeping from the grass clumps, is a short eared owl and again a suddenly rising flock of snow buntings.

* * *

Riding northward from New Orleans is a morbid stretch of swamp land. From the train window sluggish streams glint a fascinating and poisonous green silver. Out of the nowhere at intervals a great winged bird floats majestically and drowsily over the grass land wastes uttering a depressing honk of futility.

* * *

From Little Rock: "Either I am an optimist or goofy for I am down here in Arkansas peddling perfume."

* * *

In the hallway of a bachelor's apartment in East 54th street is a Wall street ticker, now silent. Where tape once raced is a waxed dove under glass. The bachelor was financially unhorsed in the market.

* * *

Vignette at 47th street and 7th avenue: The crowds pivot to gaze at an actor current on the Palace bill. Helen Keller drives slowly by in an open car and Theodore Dreiser stops at an out-of-town newsstand. Both unnoticed.

* * *

In a dully lighted movie the other evening I was conscious that a nebulous figure next to me was wearing silver toned day-time pajamas and as the lights grew brighter I saw she was stockingless and sandal clad. And all the time I sat there aching in tight shoes trying to enjoy a Mickey Mouse.

* * *

Broadway is curiously pitched in footlight worship. The devotion is as frenzied as that of Hollywood for the movie star. But it is ephemeral. The reigning players when I came to town were Marjorie Rambeau, Julia Sanderson, Montgomery and Stone, Raymond Hitchcock and Otis Skinner. Each was being starred along the Rialto.

* * *

Abraham Erlanger was at the top of the theatrical heap—the little Napoleon. Flo Ziegfeld introduced me to him in a New Amsterdam Theater elevator one late afternoon. I had expected somehow a tall gentleman with a beard. Instead he was a chubby knot of a man with a cherubic face, who sort of bounced along, wearing a rather grotesque cap. To me he was the theatrical genius of his time.

* * *

This column was squeezed out between handwringings during a four-hour agony of the belief two dogs had wandered out of the house and were lost. All the time they were asleep in a clothes closet. And they now frisk around as though it might be a huge joke—rolling, sliding, running in circles and showing off.

NAPOLEON'S TUTOR

—By Archibald Henderson—

A name of eminence in the history of science is Claude Louis Berthollet. His name is inextricably associated with that of Napoleon Bonaparte, one of the comprehensive and inquiring minds in the world's annals. When Napoleon was a young general on the Italian front, he formed the acquaintance of Berthollet and conceived a genuine attachment for him. So impressed was Napoleon by the practical value of science, as demonstrated by Berthollet, that he became Berthollet's pupil and later attended his lectures on chemistry in Paris.

It was to Berthollet, we learn in the Book of Popular Science, that Napoleon confided his secret plans for an expedition to Egypt, and asked him to collect a band of men of science to accompany the army. Bread-making, beer-making, gun powder manufacturing, iron smelting and steel tempering, the erection of hospitals, and the establishment of a botanical garden were a few of the tasks that this brilliant chemist helped to direct while following Napoleon in the Egyptian campaign.

Berthollet, one of the most famous of French chemists, was born at Talloire in Savoy, December 9, 1748. His family, although marked by poverty, were singularly ingenious. Berthollet embraced the medical profession as a means of livelihood, and received the degree of doctor from the University of Turin at the age of 19. After practicing his profession for four years at Piedmont, he removed to Paris. Through the influence of the famous doctor, Tronchin, who was struck by the young man's talent, Berthollet was soon well established as a practicing physician.

Having the run of the chemical laboratories in the Palais Royal, he soon became an enthusiastic chemist. In 1784 he was appointed director of the royal dye-works. Within a year Berthollet had discovered and made practicable a vast improvement over the old laborious and lengthy process for bleaching fabrics. The method he discovered is the more modern one, namely, by means of a preparation of chlorine. Although he probably needed the money which he would surely have made by patenting the process or its equivalent, he generously made known his invention and did all he could to persuade men to use it.

Berthollet was one of those magnetic popularizers of science who make the general public recognize both the interest and the value of science. Indeed, it has been said that, at the height of the French Revolution, Berthollet was regarded by all parties in France as one of the sources of wealth and strength in the country. His profoundest interest was enlisted in the subject of explosives. He hoped to be able to utilize the explosive potash compounds, which he had discovered in studying chlorine compounds, as substitutes for gun powder, which they greatly excelled in strength. But a disastrous explosion put an end to his plans in this direction. But in the interests of the French Republic, he continued his researches in explosives, and finally succeeded in discovering fulminating silver. He became a government expert in chemical matters. One of his interests was to study and devise more scientific methods for cleaning canvases.

In spite of Napoleon's many favors to Berthollet, which included making him a senator and conferring on him the title of count, the latter was never won over to Napoleon's ways of political thinking. He actually voted for Napoleon's deposition in 1814. He was made a peer of France on the restoration of the Bourbon kings. Berthollet was a singularly gifted chemist, who sought successfully to use chemistry in arts and industries. He died on November 6, 1822.

My Gift for You

I have a little gift to give . . .
Alas, I can not say
If it will smile and will to live
Or sigh and slip away.

My budding gift is potted in
The red soil of my heart.
Will it to strength and sunlight win
Or leaf by leaf depart.

I can not tell; it is for you
To keep my gife alive;
With truth like sunlight, love like dew
To make the frail thing thrive,

I have a flowering gift of faith,
A little gift for you;
Ah, will you let it droop in death
Or make it bloom anew?

Half-Way Justice

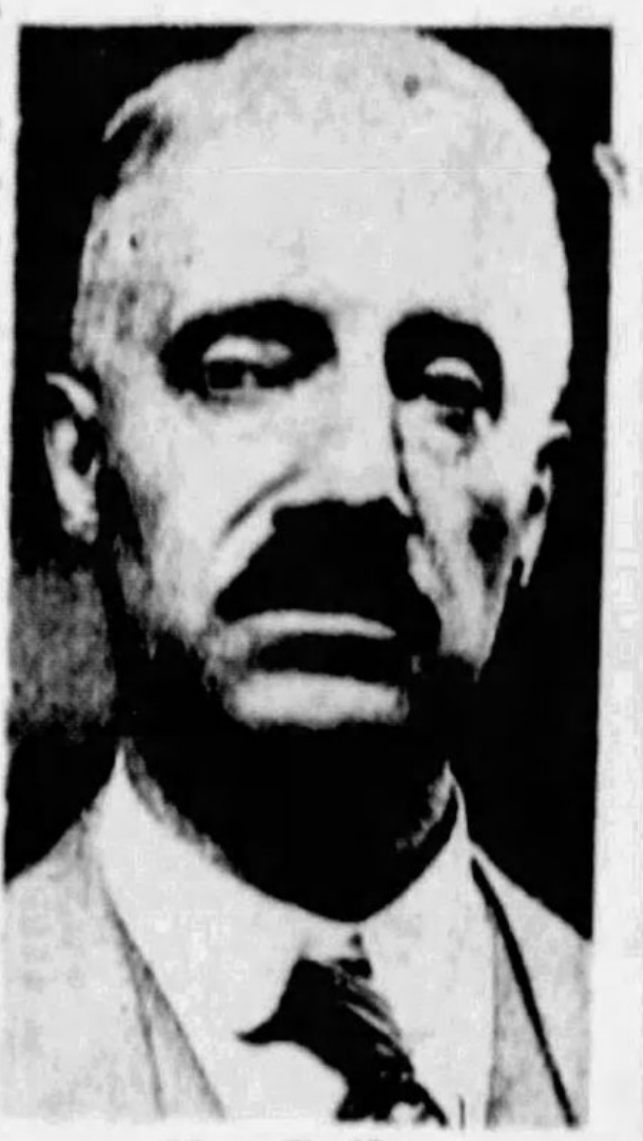
By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

FOR every wrong there is a remedy, says the law, and for every injury, there exists some measure of redress. But it does not always work out so.

Take the case of a man falsely accused. He is put upon trial. After a long period of mental suffering, and at great exertion and expense he disproves the charge made against him. Has he any redress for what he has suffered at society's hands? Absolutely none, and he may count himself fortunate that he had the money to lose, which was required for his defense.



Mr. Colby

This is what the late Theodore Dwight, the inspired teacher, who for so many years headed the law faculty of Columbia University, was wont to describe as "one of the penalties we pay for living in a complicated state of society."

It should, nevertheless, be a point of honor with all men, and particularly those occupying public station and wielding the power requisite to make amend for such injuries, to be watchful and alert, that no opportunity shall escape to undo such wrongs.

IT was this feeling which prompted the outburst of praise for President Hoover, when he recently nominated Benedict Crowell, former assistant secretary of war, to be a brigadier general in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army.

It will be remembered that Mr. Crowell and several others were indicted at the instance of the Harry Daugherty regime in the Department of Justice. They were charged with fraudulently conspiring to obtain control of the emergency construction program for their own gain and for that of friends.

When the indictment came before the court, it was indignantly expunged as wholly unsupported by facts or credibilities. The New York Times voiced the opinion of the country, saying editorially:

"It is well to applaud any step the President may take to show the confidence and gratitude of the government in one of its most able and devoted war workers."

PRAISEWORTHY as the President's course was, the duty of amende honorable has only partly been performed.

Included in the Crowell indictment, and a victim of the same political malice, was Col. William A. Starrett, known throughout the country as an engineer of high distinction and a scientific builder of unequaled achievements in his profession. He has just received an honorary degree in engineering from his alma mater, the University of Michigan.

Perhaps not altogether "inadvertent" when you reflect upon the mentality of "the Ohio gang." Someone has said "Men always impute themselves," and perhaps the best that can be said for the Daugherty administration of the Department of Justice was that its skepticism as to the possibility of honesty in high places was doubtless sincere.

Col. Starrett is known in New York City as the builder of the Empire State Building, the loftiest structure ever raised by man. It is only one of many great creations that are associated with his name.

THERE is no reason for the President to stop in this matter, which should be a pleasant field of duty, with his action in the single case of Mr. Crowell.

What I say of Col. Starrett applies also to Mr. Morton C. Tuttle, a trustee of Dartmouth College and long an influential and respected figure in the engineering world; and to Mr. Clair Foster, of California, a talented scientist in the field of radio research and for many years an outstanding figure in the field of large scale building and construction. They also were named in this infamous indictment.

Probably these gentlemen are not particularly desirous of advanced military rank. Their lives have been spent, and their recognition has been won in civil life.

But this is a secondary matter. There are such things as distinguished service medals which carry honor when deservedly bestowed, and there are many other ways to do justice handsomely, at the command of a President of the United States.

ONCE OVERS

—By J. J. Mundy—

"If the salaried men of this country whose salaries have not been reduced and those who have money would pay their bills, financial conditions of the country would be greatly relieved."

There is no reason why you, if a wage earner enjoying the same income as ever, should be slow in paying your debts.

If you have amassed sufficient to carry you through life you certainly should not delay payment in these hard times.

Just because there is a general tightening up on the part of those who must do so, it does not follow that, with an income which has not been decreased, you should follow the course of necessary stringency.

In goods or in service you have received value for your money.

In paying your debts you can assist in bringing about a more free circulation of money and the money isn't yours after you have received the equivalent anyway, so PAY NOW.
